CECIL NEIGHBORHOOD SHOWS PROSPERITY

The Herald man enjoyed a short visit at the Jack Hynd ranch below Cecil last Sunday and it is not stretching the truth a bit to say that that is some ranch. As a matter of fact the Cecil community is hard to beat in any part of eastern Oregon when it comes down to a question of good climate, fertile soil, prosperous farms and hospitable people.

Cecil is an ideal alfalfa district where the narrow Willow creek valley widens out to better proportions than farther up the stream and where sandy soil, abundant water and long days of sunshine make the growing and harvesting conditions about all that could be desired.

Cecil is an important shipping point on the Heppner branch of the business and social center being at the store, post-office, hotel and public hall which are all conducted in a most efficient manner by Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Lowe. There the inhabitants for several miles around gather to buy their supplies, get their mail and attend frequent dances and other social events at the hall over the Lowe store. Church and Sunday School services are also held there.

Thousands of tons of hay are put up every year on the ranches around Cecil and thousands of sheep and hundreds of head of cattle are wintered or fed out for market in the neighborhood. Willow creek furnishes water for irrigation, and while the supply sometimes runs short late in the summer, the farmers have the trick of following winter irrigation when the flood waters are going to waste and so saturating the soil that with what they get through the summer months, not less than three fine crops of alfalfa are assured. Back on the higher land wheat is also extensively grown and a large tonnage of this staple is warehoused and shipped from Cecil.

The Hynd ranch, known as Butterfly Flats, contains something more than 4000 acres; 300 or 400 of which is the rich alluvial creek bottom that can't be beaten anywhere for alfalfa, grain, fruit, and garden stuff of all kinds. Mr. Hynd has been on the place for 13 years and has made many improvements in that time. In several places the creek channel that formerly zigzagged through the bottom has been straightened and the creek itself has been "jollied" into filling the old channels so that now where once there were unsightly holes the alfalfa waves hip high and the mower clicks along without a hitch.

Mr. Hynd now has 250 acres in alfalfa and the haying season which started last week will continue without much interruption until fall. Features at the Hynd ranch are the flower and vegetable gardens which are under the care of Herbert Hynd, who is something of a specialist along that line. Herbert's dad says the garden is worth $500 a year to the ranch and when the visitor sits down to a dinner prepared by Mrs. Hynd and her daughters, Annie and Violet, largely from the products of that garden, he can readily believe the statement.

Hynd Bros. Incorporated ranks among the most successful stock growers in eastern Oregon. The firm is composed of four brothers, Will and David, of Sand Hollow, Jack, of Cecil and Charlie, of Ukiah. The company operates four big ranches; the alfalfa ranch at Cecil, a sheep ranch at Sand Hollow, a sheep and cattle range at Freezont and a cattle ranch at Ukiah. The properties are all operated as different units of one concern and on such a well systematized business plan that even in hard times the concern shows signs of prosperity.

Judge C. H. Fenn, of LaGrande is here this week on circuit court business.

O. H. Warner and A. E. Johnson, well known residents of Boardman, are here this week attending court. Mr. and Mrs. Lotus Robinson came in Monday to attend circuit court.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK

Nature's Most Wonderful Laboratory and Out-of-Door Paradise

"The wildest geysers in the world, in bright, triumphant bands, are dancing and singing in it amid thousands of boiling springs, beautiful and awful, their basins arrayed in gorgeous colors like gigantic flowers; and hot paint-pots, mud springs, mud volcanoes, mush and broth cauldrons whose whole contents are of every color and consistency, splash and heave and roar in bewildering abundance.
"Here, too, are hills of sparkling crystals, hills of sulphur, hills of glass, hills of cinders and ashes, mountains of every style of architecture, icy or forested, mountains boiled soft like potatoes and colored like a sunset sky.
"The air is electrical and full of ozone, healing, reviving, exhilarating kept pure by frost and fire, while scenery is wild enough to awaken the dead."—John Muir.
