

RECIPROCITY

That reciprocity is not a forgotten virtue in Heppner was proven Saturday evening when a bunch of Harold Cohn's closest personal friends expressed their joy and approval over his recent assumption of the matrimonial yoke by putting on a unique pajama parade and oratorical and musical festival which is said to stand unrivalled in the history of Heppner. Mr. Cohn has always been active in originating interesting entertainments for his newly married friends and it was to show their appreciation of past attentions from him that Saturday evening's entertainment was staged.

Harold was gently extracted from his home about 10:30 and the next few hours will, perhaps, always be memorable in his life for, with the exception of the audience, he was about the whole show, and his fame as an elocutionist and soloist was immortalized.

Walter Moore and Claire Hopper, who claim to have suffered much at Harold's hands during similar periods of their past lives, are understood to have been chief promoters of the show.

J. W. Stevens, of Hardman, is in town today on business.

C. N. Jones was in from the Flat Saturday and reports wheat in his section slightly injured by the heat but still with prospects of a fair crop.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moore returned Thursday evening from a few week's vacation visit at Yakima, Tacoma and other Washington points. They took in the auto races at Tacoma the Fourth and Mr. Moore says they were very interesting. Usually the winner gets the lead early in the race and holds it but this year in the main race the two fastest men went through practically neck and neck, the winner leading at the finish by a margin of only a few seconds.

J. N. Hogue, of London Springs, Lane county, who has been visiting his nephew, Oscar Keithley, at Eight-mile, left for his home Monday morning.

Henry Schwartz, employed at the Central Market, met with a painful accident July 4th when he went into the refrigerating plant at the market to look after the ice machine. While adjusting the machine the ammonia tank exploded and the fumes struck Mr. Schwartz in the face, temporarily blinding him. Henry Bolten happening to pass along the street smelled the ammonia and running around to the back door stopped the machine and rescued Mr. Schwartz whose eyes were pretty badly injured. He is again on the job however, with no permanent bad effects.

MOVING INTO NEW OFFICES

Woodson & Sweek, well known lawyers, have moved their offices from the Masonic building on Willow street to the First National Bank building on May street, into the suite formerly occupied by Sam E. Van Vactor. The rooms have been thoroughly renovated and re-tinted and modern plumbing installed and with their new office furniture, purchased since the big fire, the place presents a very attractive appearance.

E. Bender and family expect to leave Wednesday morning for an auto tour through southern Oregon, Nevada, and California, going as far south as Los Angeles. They will visit Truckee, Yosemite national park and other points of interest and expect to return about September 1st.

WELL KNOWN LEXINGTON LADY PASSES AT PORTLAND

Mrs. Rowena Gentry, wife of Eugene Gentry, of near Lexington, passed away at the home of N. A. Leach, at Portland, at 6:30 a. m. Sunday morning after a lingering illness. The remains will be brought to Lexington for interment, the date of the funeral not having been set at this writing.

Mrs. Gentry was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall White, of near Lexington, and leaves a large circle of friends and acquaintances. She is survived by her widower, four children, her aged mother, one sister, Mrs. Lee Galbraith, of Waitsburg, Washington, and three brothers: Claud and Neil White, of near Lexington, and Gerald White, of Portland.

A Friendly Interest in Your Daily Work

You see people come to the First National Bank every day. Do you know their purpose?

It is not merely on the matter of safeguarding their funds. Our patrons value our point of view on their plans and prospects, which they discuss with us privately.

We invite you to do the same.
