Miss "Babe" Mathews, formerly of this city, now employed with Walcher Williams company at The Dalles, is spending the summer touring Yellowstone Park and other summer resorts in the Rockies. Miss Mathews is making the trip with relatives by auto and the party expects to put in the entire summer on the road. They will go as far east as Kansas and return over a southern route.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Darbee and Miss Gwendolyn Darbee have returned from an extended eastern trip during which they visited Washington, New York, and other eastern cities and points of interest besides relatives and friends at various points. They had a delightful trip and Mr. Darbee says that even little old New York has changed some since his last visit.

W. G. Scott, banker and warehouseman, of Lexington, was in town Thursday evening. Mr. Scott is considered an authority on the wheat crop in the Lexington district and his estimate is that this year's crop will approximate about three-fifths of last year's yield. Last year 250,000 sacks were marketed at Lexington and Mr. Scott expects about 150,000 this year.

Leo Nicholson, well-known young Heppner man, who is a student at the University of Washington, Seattle, came in Thursday evening and will spend the summer here helping take care of the big wheat crop down at the Reisman ranch near Ione. Mr. Nicholson is now in his fifth year in the University Law school, the course requiring six years to complete. He is prominent in athletics at Washington and earned his second letter in basketball the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Alstott were in from their Ione creek ranch Thursday evening laying in a few supplies for the harvest season which is fast coming on. Bob says he can make money hand over fist from the time wheat is planted until this time of year when he begins to buy sacks, and grub and repairs etc. and then he begins to figure whether the blamed crop will pay out or not. Cutting wheat on the Alstott ranches will start about July 17. The crop is heavy but has been damaged some by the hot weather, Mr. Alstott says.

R. P. Sorenson and family returned Wednesday from Harrisburg, Oregon, after spending the Fourth on the McKenzie river. Mr. Sorenson shipped a car of cattle to the Port and market Sunday and drove his family to Portland the same day. After selling the cattle Monday morning they drove to Harrisburg where Mrs. Sorenson's parents reside and spent the Fourth picnicking with friends on the McKenzie. Leaving Harrisburg Wednesday morning they drove to Heppner the same day, making about 100 miles. Mr. Sorenson says times are about the same down here as here except that most of the local business with farmers is being done on an exchange basis, the farmer bringing in enough butter, eggs etc. to pay for his groceries.
