EASTERN OREGON SHEEPMAN MAKES GOOD AS HOTEL MAN

(DeWitt Harry in Oregonian)
If ever you're in New York go to the Waldorf-Astoria and Roy Caruthers will give you a royal welcome. Roy likes anyone from Oregon. He got his start running sheep about ten miles below Huntington.

Caruthers' story is one demonstrating ability. A couple of years ago the Washington hotel in Weiser was in difficulties. The management did not seem to be able to make it pay. Caruthers was induced to leave his ranch and take charge. He had never had anything to do with a hotel before, except to pay for services rendered. He was a sheepman, but he came off the Huntington ranch, saw the Weiser hotel and conquered the difficulties.

The next year, when the board of directors of the Palace hotel in San Francisco were in search of a manager they offered Caruthers such an excellent contract that he would not refuse, and the Oregon rancher repeated his Idaho success in California. And last year he was called to New York, installed as manager of the Waldorf-Astoria, the hotel that pays a million dollars a year rental before it begins to take in any money for itself.

Caruthers has made another notable success, but with all that he bankers for Oregon and nothing delights him more than to find some Oregonian in the hotel and show him a fine time and hear the latest news from home.

We wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year
