One of the handsomest auto robes ever brought to Heppner was received through the mail by Charlie Hemrick, of Sand Hollow, one day last week. The robe and a pair of driving gloves were made by an eastern firm for Mr. Hemrick from the hide of a favorite horse of his that died some time ago.

DR. D. N. HAYDEN DEAD AT FOSSIL

Word was received here Sunday announcing the death of Dr. D. N. Hayden at Fossil where he had been practicing his profession for several months. Dr. Hayden was recognized as a physician and surgeon of high ability when at his best and it was an effort to conquer a weakness long standing that he passed out. He had determined several weeks ago to give up the use of stimulants and incessant work looking after his practice in his weakened condition brought on a sudden collapse. He worked up until almost the last moment of his life and the end came quickly.

IT WAS AL'S BUSY DAY

"Well, I think I'll go home," quoth Al Henriksen as he buttoned up his big overcoat and pulled on his big waterproof gloves in the lobby of the Heppner Hotel about five o'clock Saturday evening. "I got up at 6:00 this morning, cut up, skinned and salted down seven big, dressed fat hogs, rode around the country and bought 75 cattle in small, scattered bunches, and then rounded the day out by buying 100 hens and seven roosters. Guess I've earned my supper, anyway." Henriksen & Sons are running 400 head of cattle this winter.

Prevent Mountain Fire.

A fire covering 1,000 feet of land on a timber-dry mountainside and spreading in the direction of a cabin and a fence banked with dead brush was discovered by Scouts Adrian Winkle and Gordon Porter, of Los Angeles, out from their camp in Bear canyon on a test hike. The boys went into action, dragging away all the brush and making a firebreak. After two hours' work the fire was extinguished. They then hiked to Camp Rincop, where they reported the fire to the ranger before returning to their own camp.

PRISCILLA DEAN
"UNDER TWO FLAGS"

YOUR FAVORITE STORY FILMED

Undoubtedly you are one of the millions who read "Ouida's" famous masterpiece, "Under Two Flags," and there is more than a passing chance that you also saw it enacted as a stage play. If so, it is hardly necessary to tell you of its thrills, its fire and powerful action. When it was decided to screen this masterpiece, Universal had no difficulty in selecting the player to portray the role of Cigarette. There is just one star in pictures that has the fire, the energy, verve and blazing eyes to do the part justice, and that is Priscilla Dean.

When you see "Under Two Flags," at the Star theatre on Sunday and Monday you will see a Cigarette that is a revelation to even the most blasé theatre-goer. Priscilla Dean dashes over burning desert sands, dances on cafe table tops, hates the man she loves, and loves the man she hates with an insouciant ardor that only she can achieve.

True Tones! without "metallic" suggestion

This scientific tone chamber, light as a violin, as tensely resonant as a drum head, is largely responsible for Brunswick's Supreme Position in the musical world.
