PIERCE ASKS ROAD MEN TO REMAIN ON JOB

The bill introduced in the legislature last week by Representative Lewis providing for immediate cessation of all highway construction work in the state is doomed to an early death, according to recent advice from Salem...

During the recent campaign Mr.

Pierce and his supporters criticized the members of the highway commission and their work very severely, and after the election the members of the commission very properly tendered the governor their resignations to take effect at the governor's pleasure at any time on or before April 1, 1923.

At the recent meeting of the commission in Salem, Governor Pierce interviewed the commissioners and requested them to remain on the job until after the legislature adjourned so that, in the event of the governor's measure providing for a paid commission passes, he would have time to select a suitable man for the place...

The governor was evidently impressed with Mr. Booth's statements and at the close of the conference he requested the commissioners not only to remain on the job but to carry on the work according to their present plans...

House, Garden Should Accord

In the development of private gardens it frequently happens that the construction of drives and balustrades, of fountains, firs and swimming pools, game courts and other recreational areas; also belvederes or casinos will go on simultaneously with the erection of the residence and related buildings...

It is desirable and strongly advisable in such cases, that the owner, architect and landscape designer have early conferences on the ground so that the resulting work may be satisfying and coherent. A house and its gardens should be suitably married, and both should fit naturally into the neighborhood, free from discordant contrasts or ostentation.

Sam Notson returned from Portland Sunday wearing a big copper star presented by the sheriff's association made from contraband copper. Mr. Notson also brought home a near black eye and various bumps movie parlance a movie star not in action.
