Dr. D. R. Haylor, eye specialist, in Heppner March 26-27. 46-47
Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Spencer went to Portland Friday for a few days' visit.

Dan Barlow was in from Rhea creek Saturday and was glad the weather was fine.

Wm. Hill, of Parkers Mill, well known stockman, was in town for a short time yesterday.

Thos. J. O'Brien, Butter creek rancher, was in town Saturday on a regular business trip.

W. R. Platt, of Notsa, Idaho, was a week end guest at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Haslam.

Mrs. W. O. Minor, who has been spending the winter at Portland, returned to her home here Sunday evening.

George Dykstra returned from Portland Friday evening where he took the remains of his late wife for burial a couple of weeks ago.

Mary, a young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Alcott, of Rhea creek, underwent an operation at the Moore hospital yesterday for appendicitis.

Miss Henrietta Case, of Portland, arrived in Heppner a few days ago and will remain with her brother, M. L. Case, to assist with the work in the Case Furniture company.

Miss Edith C. Perrine arrived from Portland Sunday evening to take her former position as head trimmer in Mrs. L. G. Herd's millinery parlors.

Paul Haler, who was taken to Portland last week for medical treatment, is reported to be in a critical condition with little hopes for his recovery. He is in a Portland hospital.

Herman Neilson, well known stockman of the Hardman country, was in town Monday on business. Mr. Neilson says they are having more wind than they need in his neighborhood.

Mrs. Phil Cohn was hostess at two pleasant bridge parties last week, on Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday evening. Those present report both parties as having been particularly delightful occasions.

Mrs. C. C. Chick is dangerously ill at her home on Court street and but little hopes are entertained for her recovery. She suffered a paralytic stroke Saturday and a second attack occurred Sunday night. Her condition was reported as being slightly improved this morning.

The Girls' Friendly Society held one of their pleasant meetings at the home of Mrs. Percy Hughes last Wednesday evening. This society recently earned $26 for the Heppner library fund selling candy at the picture show and at the Elks' dance a week ago. The society is an auxiliary of the Episcopal Sunday School.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Reisman were in town from their wheat ranch north of Ione Wednesday. Mr. Reisman was closing a deal with Calkins Bros. for 220 acres of fine wheat land that adjoins his home ranch. The consideration was $20 an acre.

Rev. Father Gies returned from Portland Thursday evening after spending a few days in the city on business.

Marshall Phelps left Saturday morning for Bend where he was notified the evening before that a good position awaited him. He expects to be there for an indefinite period.

Miss Doris Mahoney, who is a student at Oregon Agricultural college, arrived from Corvallis Saturday evening to visit with her home folks during the Easter holidays.

Mrs. Percy Hughes, who has been spending the winter in town with her children who are attending school here, has returned to their ranch home on Butter creek for the summer.

M. L. Case, manager of the Case Furniture Co., reports the 9-cent special sale put on last Saturday when the store was formally opened after taking over Miss Smith's variety stock, was a greater success than he even anticipated. The store was crowded with buyers all day and the sales were very encouraging.

An overcharge of powder in the quarry at one of the crushing plants on the Gilliam county section of the Oregon-Washington highway, wrecked the bunkers and put the crusher out of commission one day last week. Another plant is being substituted and work will not be seriously delayed it is said.

Roy Neill was in from Butter creek Saturday on court house business. Asked if the wind blew at his place Friday, Mr. Neill said he did not see it blow because there was too much dust in the air. It was the first day, Mr. Neill said, since he has lived on Butter creek that he had to stay in the house for a full day because of a dust storm.

Wm. Lee McCaleb was a visitor at Condon last Friday and he says when people talk about wind storms in Heppner they are merely referring to gentle zephyrs. While he was at Condon Friday several auto tops were wrecked and he was delayed starting home for some time waiting for the wind to subside enough to make traveling either pleasant or safe.

The thoroughbred horse is coming back again, according to Ben Swaggart, who was in town Wednesday. The United States government is becoming interested in the decline of the thoroughbred and has purchased some of the best sires of the breed which they are sending into the different parts of the country where their use will be available to horsemen at a nominal cost. Mr. Swaggart has been awarded the use of one of these fine stallions for use at his stock farm north of Lexington.

Bob Nelson, well known Heppner boy, who is a member of the debating team of Willamette University now on a tour of the middle west during which they will meet opposing teams from 8 or 9 colleges and universities, wrote his father, S. E. Nelson, from Whitefish, Montana, the other day saying that the team was marooned there temporarily by a genuine blizzard. Bob, who is accustomed to Oregon's celebrated B. V. D. climate, seemed to be of the opinion that, speaking of underwear and Montana blizzards, something a bit more embracing than B. V. D.'s is the thing in Montana.

INTERESTING GOSSIP FROM HEPPNER HIGH

The old epidemic of "baseballitis" seems to have affected every student in school during the past week. Baseballs in the school grounds are so prevalent that the wise one turns his head in all directions before he tries to enter.

People were just wondering what the senior class wouldn't try next, but their curiosity was satisfied last Friday morning when they entertained themselves with a very informal breakfast at the school house. Many of them wore their green caps all day, and indeed looked the part of a freshman. Everyone had a good time although they did arrive an hour late.

The grade library, which was moved upstairs with the high school library, is being catalogued.
