Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Finley were in town Friday. Mr. Finley has taken the agency for this county of the Calkins dry process smut treating machine and is out pushing the sale among the wheat men.

Bill Padberg could not look pessimistic if he were to try—and he never tries. Bill is a wheat man and the way things look now would make anybody smile if he is a good citizen. Padberg was in town Saturday.

Ed Bennett was passing out cigars to his friends Friday, the occasion being the advent of a fine 8-pound son at his home on Thursday. The mother and babe are doing fine and Ed is resuming normalcy as rapidly as may be expected.

Alex Wilson is over from Boardman for a few days visit with his parents and his little daughter who lives with them. He says the alfalfa is looking fine at Boardman and cutting will begin about June 1st. Mr. Wilson owns and operates one of the best hay ranches on the project.

Frank B. Stevens, pioneer farmer and stockman of upper Rock creek in Gilliam county, was a Heppner visitor Friday. Mr. Stevens has resided in Portland for several years but the lure of the ranch still calls him in the spring and summer time when he spends considerable time there. Mr. Stevens was a victim in the Cello train wreck a year or so ago and was so badly injured that he was in a hospital three months and walked on crutches for a year.

B. F. Sorenson returned last week from a trip through Grant county where he looked over the range and cattle situation. Mr. Sorenson says he has never seen the grass better and he predicts better conditions for the cattle industry. "If I had sheep now," Mr. Sorenson said, "I would sell them and buy cattle for cattle are bound to come back." Mr. Sorenson has been dealing in cattle for many years and used to deliver prime beef cattle to the butchers for two cents a pound.

VICTIM OF SUNDAY'S AUTO WRECK BURIED TODAY

The funeral of Emmett Jones, who was instantly killed in an auto wreck last Sunday on the highway between here and Lexington, is being held this afternoon at the Christian church.

Robert Emmett Jones was born in North Carolina and was 33 years, 11 months and 25 days old at the time of his death.

He came to Oregon about 13 years ago, settling at Heppner where he has since resided.

He was engaged in the transfer business and was universally loved and respected because of his sterling qualities as a citizen and neighbor.

His wife died about three years ago leaving him with four young children to raise without a mother's help and care. Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Miller, the children's maternal grand-parents, have resided with the family since the mother's death.

Besides his children, Mr. Jones leaves one brother, C. N. Jones, near Heppner, and seven sisters who reside in North Carolina. His father also survives at the old southern home.

Charles Huson is in from Eight-mile today.

"EAT MORE WHEAT" IS NATIONAL SLOGAN

Huge billboards in almost every American city are blazing forth the line "Bread Is the Best and Cheapest Food," part of a campaign instituted by the milling industry to increase the consumption of wheat products. The billboards are maintained by the Washburn-Crosby Milling company, one of the largest concerns of its kind in the United States.

In addition to this publicity the same milling company and hundreds of others are using the same line, together with the slogan "Eat More Bread" in practically all their advertising work. Pamphlets setting forth the food value of wheat products are being circulated by the millions. Advertising is appearing in newspapers, trade publications and magazines.

The campaign is expected by the millers to result in huge increases in the consumption of wheat products. In urging the baking industry to enter the campaign, one milling company declares that proper publicity given to the food value of bread would result in an increased American consumption of eight billion loaves yearly. This, it is pointed out, would be beneficial to farmer, miller and baker.

"Advertising has increased the consumption of many products in large proportions," said a large miller after the "Eat More Wheat" drive had been launched. "A notable example is the campaign in which meat products were pushed in like manner, only a short time ago. We feel that wheat products must receive the same sort of support, even to maintain a balance with other foods. But we expect to go further, in developing and enlarging present markets.

"The campaign will continue for a year at least. By that time we should have figures on results which will convince every interested person of the merits of such a campaign."

ONE MAN COMMITTED TO INSANE ASYLUM

Jack O'Grady, of Ione, was examined as to his sanity last Thursday and committed to the Eastern Oregon Hospital for the Insane at Pendleton. An attendant from the institution came over Friday and took him over.

O'Grady has been around Ione for a year or more and was well liked and respected. His allusions were mostly big dreams in which Henry Ford, President Harding and other celebrities figured and he is said to have written many letters to the president and other notables. It is believed a rest and proper treatment will soon restore him to his usual condition.

C. L. Sweek, of the firm of Woodson & Sweek, is in Pendleton this week attending the regular session of federal court in session in that city. His firm has several cases on the federal docket.

Work is going forward in good shape at the Rodeo grounds. The timely mild winter and a plentiful su
