

Secret of Human Happiness Given Chautauquans

Dr. Henry Gaines Hawn, Brilliant Speaker, Has Inspiring New Philosophy.

"I claim to have discovered the secret of human happiness," declares Henry Gaines Hawn. "I'm dead against concentration. Learn to be smatterers. Learn the alphabet of everything in God's universe." Mr. Hawn is one of those master personalities that leaves a community enriched and ennobled after a visit. A sympathetic, practical idealist, his constructive criticism clears the vision of those blindly accepted, utterly false standards that motivate so much of our thought and action. He is eminently qualified to present his subject, "The Soul of Things," in a masterly and attractive way. He is nationally known as an authority on the Speech Arts, and as an orator has few equals. Moreover, he is a man of unusual scholarly attainments. His lecture will be an outstanding intellectual treat of Chautauqua. Fifth night.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That under and by virtue of an execution and order of sale issued by the Clerk of Morrow County, Oregon, dated the 26th day of May, 1923, to me directed, in a certain suit in the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Morrow County, wherein M. CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING

Humoring the farmer by careless approval of his prejudice in favor of co-operative marketing appears to be the fashion of the day among some business men who sell goods to farmers and some big interests who are afraid of the farmer vote. Anything to make the farmer feel that the business interests are with him—that seems to be the idea. The commercial bodies of the state are racing with each other to establish their communities in the affections of the farmer by championship of selling organization methods which farmers say they want. It is to be feared that this is fond promising of the moon to the clamoring body. It keeps the baby from crying until its attention can be diverted to some other toy.

As surely as twice two equal four, the farmers of Oregon will rise in resentment of this patronizing attitude as soon as they discover the shallowness of the motives behind it. The big business interests of Oregon will do well to study the attitude of the bankers of the state, as reflected in the report of the bankers' agricultural committee as adopted at the recent bankers' convention in Albany. The country bankers, and the great majority of the city bankers, are forced to consider the farmer's problems from a business viewpoint. Many of the bankers are farmers, successful farmers.

In this report, co-operative marketing is given the attention it deserves, for it is the chief feature of the document. But it is not unqualifiedly approved. Rather, the report advises caution, and urges bankers to sit in with the farmers themselves in the farmers' attempts to encourage this new and as yet (in Oregon) experimental method of conducting business enterprise. By sitting in with them, giving the farmers the benefit of their business experience, the bankers will be able to save the farmers from mistakes.

Many business men of Portland have this same idea—that of work-

Musical Entertainment Feature of Chautauqua Assembly

Lombard Entertainers Give Well-Chosen and Novel Programs on Fifth Day.

A program sufficiently varied to interest everybody and still of such character that all receive the most wholesome and uplifting entertainment. This typifies the work of the Lombard Entertainers. Well chosen operatic selections, the best of popular songs, readings, monologues, pianologues, whistling solos, these all combine to build a program replete with good musical material and novel entertainment. Harry Lombard probably has few equals in musical comedy among Lyceum and Chautauqua artists. He has had long experience on the concert and operatic stage, having been for eight years baritone with the English Opera Company. Leta Fairchild Lombard, formerly with the Fairchild Ladies' Quartet, has a deep contralto voice and is also a talented reader and impersonator. With beautiful costumes and elaborate stage settings, they give a program of a quality seldom attempted by a company of two.

Brilliant Speaker Discusses Problems of the English Speaking Peoples

"Working Together for Billions" Is Logical and Fearless Presentation of Some Vital Truths.

Norman Allan Imlie's rise to a place of real prominence in the platform is almost as interesting a story as his climb to a captaincy with the Canadian forces during the late war. Two years ago he was practically unknown in the states as a speaker. Since then he has talked in hundreds of towns and cities in the West, has toured New Zealand, has spoken in practically every province of Western Canada—and even in some far-off Alaskan cities. Today he is eagerly sought as an after-dinner speaker in both Chicago and New York. He needs no press agent, no recommendations. One talk is alone sufficient for invitations galore. Mr. Imlie's lecture, "Working Together for Billions," is a stirring, forceful, thought-provoking analysis and presentation of the Anglo-American problems that are burning issues at the present moment. Australian Lecturer-Entertainer Coming to Chautauqua

Stories of Australia, That Far-Off Land of the South Seas, Graphically Told by Norman V. Pearce.

A travel-lecture that is a real entertainment is Norman V. Pearce's contribution to the Chautauqua program. Mr. Pearce is more than a lecturer. He is a finished actor, versatile, artistic to his fingertips, and with world-wide experience as a reader and entertainer. Mr. Pearce is an Australian and his stories of life there are revelations of the curious contrasts in that far-off land of the South seas, with its highly progressive centers of industry and trade; its picturesque "frontier" where adventurers from all over the world have sought the elusive end of the rainbow; and where the savage "blackman" is still a reminder of days only a generation ago when cannibalism prevailed.
