Jaeger Bros., of Gilliam county, took first prize of $25 on Turkey Red wheat at the Northwest Grain show in Portland last week and sweepstakes on all wheat shown which carried a $50 award.

Verne Pearson, a rancher in the Butter creek valley, was a visitor in Heppner Thursday. In order to keep in touch with all the Morrow county happenings Mr. Pearson had his name entered on the Herald list while in town.

It is understood that no campaign for new members will be made in this county by the Co-operative Grain Growers' association until next March or April, when an intensive campaign will be put on. The energies of the association will be centered on the wheat states in the middle west during the winter. It has been announced.

E. Albee, game warden, returned Sunday from a trip through Kahler Basin where he arrested Ed Murphy for hunting without a license and L. H. Morris for killing a deer without a license. Both men live at Fossil. Murphy was fined $25 and Morris $50. Mr. Albee insists that it is much safer for everybody to get their license first and do their hunting afterward.

Stanley P. Hatch, who owns a fine ranch on the Boardman project has leased his place for a year and has taken over a dairy farm near Goble, Oregon, which he is now operating. He wholesales his product at the ranch for 32 cents a gallon and finds it a good proposition. Mr. Hatch was in Heppner Saturday and stopped off at Lexington in the afternoon to see the football game.

Arch Deacon Goldie was here from Cove last Sunday and held services at the Episcopal church, remaining over Monday to complete his survey of the town as an initiatory step to placing a resident minister in charge of the work here. The survey and canvass proved so satisfactory that the archdeacon announced before leaving that a man will be placed here January 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McNamer, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ayers, Mrs. Anna Spencer and Phill Cohn were among the Heppner people who visited the stock show at Portland last week.

E. C. Armspoker, who succeeded Floyd Tolleson as operator at the O. W. R. & N. station a year or so ago and held down the trick for several months, has returned to Heppner and taken his old job. Mr. Armspoker comes here from Seattle.

C. W. Shurtz, who is connected with the new paper mill being established at Vancouver, Washington, reports business good in placing stock in the new enterprise. The new mill will make paper and boards from wheat straw which will give wheat farmers a chance to realize some cash from one of their by-products.

The bachelor-editor of the Lone Independent throws a life line to his spinster readers by telling them not to abandon hope—that old maids have better than an even chance to marry until they reach the age of 45. Looks like a fine chance for the brother to practice what he preaches by taking steps to give some old maid a chance.

Mrs. Charles Latourell, who recently returned from an extended visit with friends at San Diego and other California points reports having had a most delightful stay in the sunny south land but she admits being awfully glad to be back in Heppner again. And what country or climate can beat Heppner and Morrow county October and November weather?

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ovlatt returned a few days ago from Yakima where they took Mrs. Henry Hoppold who joined her husband who is now located in the Washington city. Mr. Hoppold has a position with a detective agency in Yakima and is in charge of the agency's kennel of bloodhounds used to track criminals. Mr. Hoppold will have full charge of the dogs, going with them wherever they are called on a case.

The November issue of the Union Pacific Magazine has a humorous article from the pen of Strickland W. Gillilan, the well known writer and poet, entitled "The Undrowned Hornets." Mr. Gillilan, who is an uncle of Carl L. Gillilan, brakeman on the Heppner branch, has published several books of prose and verse among which are "Including You and Me" and "Sunshine and Awkwardness."

A. D. Leedy, formerly of Canyon City, now practicing law at Portland, is here for a few days on legal business having driven out from the city Sunday. Emmet Cochran, who was down visiting the stock show, came out with Mr. Leedy. The gentlemen had a slight accident on Heppner flat as they were coming in to Heppner when a truck struck Mr. Leedy's car taking off a fender and both are thankful that it was no worse.

Ed Cominsky left last Thursday morning for New York City where he expects to spend most of the winter visiting his sisters and other friends and relatives who are residents of the big town. He will return to Heppner before the busy season in the sheep industry sets in.

Will Clancy expects to leave for New York in a few days to visit friends and may continue his journey to Ireland to visit his mother for a few weeks. He will return to Heppner in the spring.

Mrs. Percy Hughes has returned from a short visit at Walla Walla where she was present at the marriage of her sister, Mrs. Ella Vale and Mr. Nathaniel Webb.

The Herald was in error last week in the statement that Ed Burchell, of near Lexington, was "trying to negotiate the road without lights," after his lights had gone out. Mrs. Burchell informs us that the statement was not exactly correct. As a matter of fact the lights went out while he was driving and before he could stop the car it plunged off the road. Their little daughter, who was injured in the mishap is improving rapidly.

If John Wightman is not perfectly happy now he should be for since Wightman Bros. took over the Heppner milk route John is back at his old trade of running a milk wagon. And it is some wagon. Built expressly for the purpose in a Pennsylvania country wagon shop where the work was done by hand, it is as staunch as when first rolled out of the shop. Mr. Wightman says his team and wagon have all the gas buggy trucks on earth backed off the boards as dispensers of lactical fluid.

Heppner turned out en masse last Saturday for the football game between Lexington and Heppner high school elevens and helped make up the biggest crowd the wheat city has had in years. The husky Lexington boys were too much for Heppner but it was a good game just the same. The Lexington team, who declare they are self made players, never having enjoyed the luxury of a coach, show a team spirit worth while and many of their admirers say that they are the best high school football team in the state. Heppner feels that it is no disgrace to be defeated by that sort of an antagonist.

Hotel Man Football Fan

Mine Host Bell, of Hotel Heppner, is something of a football fan and to show the members of Coach Mather's high school team his appreciation of their good work in keeping Heppner in the sports map he entertained them at a chicken dinner at the hotel last Tuesday evening.

That football practice tends to produce vigorous appetites in the practitioners was proven by every guest present, the record of chicken consumption being said to rate well with the best work ever shown in that line by a Methodist conference.

Debate has been taken up by several of the English classes, preparatory to the interclass series of debates. The favorite topic seems to be: Resolved, That the pennant fight should be abolished. This is a very live question in the school and has certainly created some wonderful arguments.

Monday was a school holiday, being observed as Armistice day.

A very snappy yell practice was held Thursday, the inspiration being the sight of our honored football team sitting in state on the stage. Each member of the team, as well as the coach, was called on for a speech, and great was the flow of eloquence that greeted our ears.

Advertise it in the Herald.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES FROM HARDMAN, ORE.

The Union high school of Hardman, Oregon, is going to put on a play the evening of November 16 in the High School auditorium. The play is entitled "The Time of His Life." It is a comedy in three acts.

The synopsis of the play is: Mrs. Grey has just received a note saying that Mrs. Wycombe and her husband, a pessimistic man are coming to dinner. The cook and butler have gone out. They decide to order the dinner from a restaurant and the brother of Mrs. Grey blacks himself up to take the part of the colored butler and serve the dinner. The brother's sweetheart also comes to dinner. Things become complicated and he has "The Time of His Life." The student body will serve a supper for the dance which will be given after the play.

FORMER HEPPNER WOMAN PASSES

Mrs. Lillie Cohn, of Pendleton, but for a number of years a highly respected resident of Heppner, died at Los Angeles, California, Friday, November 2. She was 51 years old.

Mrs. Cohn was engaged in the millinery business in Heppner during her residence here and she enjoyed the respect and esteem of a wide circle of friends. She was prominent in lodge circles and socially.

Mrs. Cohn went to California for the benefit of her health but the trip was too onerous for her weakened condition to withstand and she passed away soon after her arrival in southern city. The remains were brought to Portland for interment where the funeral was held on Monday, November 5.
