C. E. Glasgow was over from Irrigon Saturday on business before the budget commission. Mr. Glasgow reports that Mrs. Glasgow has been in a Seattle hospital since September where she is under treatment for an X-ray burn sustained several years ago. She will probably be obliged to remain in the hospital for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Anderson of Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. Mat Leitzer, of Kelso, were week end visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Gay M. Anderson. A. J. and Gay M. are brothers and Mrs. Leitzer is their sister. A. J. was in former years one of the fastest and neatest boxers on the coast and was for a year or two the pride of Medford ring fans.

W. A. McCarty, who has charge of county road work in the Rock creek district west of Hardman, was in town Saturday. Mr. McCarty says they have almost completed an 8-per cent grade up "Deadman hill" on the Heppner-Spray road beyond Rock creek. The famous hill has been a terror to teamsters for 40 years and the improvement comes none too soon. The former grade was variously estimated at between 40 and 75 per cent.

A. J. Abernathy, a well known resident of the Irrigon project, was a visitor in Heppner Saturday. Mr. Abernathy is engaged in the hog business and next year he expects to add melon growing to his industries. Irrigon is far famed for her melons and the growers, who are organized into a marketing association, reap very satisfactory profits from their melons.

J. W. Vaughan, who has been in the south for three years has returned to Morrow county and was visiting with old Heppner friends Saturday. Mr. Vaughan went from here to California where he stopped a couple years but the climate did not suit him and he sold out and went to Dallas, Texas, a year ago. He feels better in Morrow county, however, and so came back.

M. C. Martin was in town Saturday from Clarks canyon where he has leased the old Basye place and engaged in farming. He has finished seeding 300 acres to wheat and the prospects are fine for next year. Mr. Martin says he never saw such a crop of weeds as was on the place when he went there and if that is any sign of good land he should have a bumper crop next year. He drilled part of his summer fallow without clearing the weeds off rather than be late with his seeding an already most of the weeds have blown off the land and piled up against the fences where he burned them.

R. D. Alstott was in from Rhea creek Saturday. Mr. Alstott is engaged in the hog business in a rather large way and expects to expand the business with the coming year. He has already shipped a number of cars to Portland but is laying off now waiting for the market to improve. He has 120 head ready to ship and others coming on at a rate to keep up regular shipments most of the winter. He expects to farrow about 1000 pigs before spring and will be in the business for fair next summer. Mr. Alstott thinks the grasshopper pest will solve itself this fall. The young are hatched out now and the ground is literally covered with the little hoppers which he thinks a good freeze or two will fix plenty.
