BEN SELLING SAVED PEOPLE FROM PANIC

When Bank Failed He Promptly Offered Par for Pass Books.

Loan Sharks and Brokers Thwarted By Him—Saved People Large Sums.

"Help promptly is of double value," says the proverb.

Oregon people, and Portland people in particular, will remember the failure of the Title Guarantee and Trust company, of Portland, in October, 1907. The embarrassment of that institution was bad enough of itself. But it came at a time when the breaking of one bank came perilously near producing a panic in which many banks and business houses must go down—to the measureless damage of thousands.

It was a time for men to help each other; a time for business interests to stand together in order to save depositors from a heavy loss.

Disastrous as a settlement of material discount would have been, it was feared for a time that it was the best settlement that could be made. And if made, it certainly would have resulted in widespread and ruinous loss to thousands all over Oregon.

In that crisis Ben Selling promptly came forward with a better offer. He proposed to take over the claims of the depositors at seventy-five cents on the dollar in good, solid cash, and an additional twenty-five cents in merchandise. It was absolutely equivalent to a hundred cents on the dollar—every penny that was involved.

There was an instance of needed help promptly given. It averted a threatened and imminent panic. It restored the general confidence in banks and business houses. It absolutely insured depositors against loss. It did more than any other one thing to enable commercial Portland to ride the troubled seas of 1907—the most dangerous period since 1896.

And it was typical of Ben Selling. It required financial resources, splendid judgment of conditions, and a superb confidence in the essential stability of his city and his state, and the fairness of his fellow citizens.

WHAT BILL HANLEY THINKS OF BEN SELLING

"Oregon for Oregon" is the slogan of William Hanley, the picturesque representative of Central Oregon, who, because of his marked facial and physical resemblance to William Jennings Bryan, has many times been mistaken for the thrice-defeated candidate of the Democracy for the presidency. It is for the reason of "Oregon for Oregon" and because Hanley's views coincide closely with those of Ben Selling, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, that Hanley feels very friendly toward the candidacy of Selling.

WILLIAM HANLEY

Hanley came out of the Selling headquarters yesterday looking cheerful. Reflecting that Mr. Selling in his platform had definitely committed himself to securing for Oregon its just share of the reclamation fund for promoting various irrigation projects in this state, Mr. Hanley said it would be advisable for the voters of this state to elect a senator who could be depended upon to do all in his power to secure for the state all that belonged to it in the way of money for originating and completing irrigating enterprises.

"Up to the present time the state of Oregon is short about $8,000,000 of its part of the reclamation fund, money that should have been used for the construction of irrigation projects in this state and which money was actually given to other states," said Mr. Hanley.

"Mr. Selling is pledged to the recovery of that money for use here, and if anybody can do it I am convinced that he will at least lend his best efforts in that direction. My acquaintance of several years with Mr. Selling has convinced me that he always has stood squarely for the front for Oregon interests and it is about time we had such a representative at Washington."—From a Portland newspaper.

School Notes.

(By Su. J. Notson.)

On the 26th of March, I visited the school at Hardman. Misses Robinson and Olmsted have had heavy work this year, each having four grades with a large number of pupils in each, but they have done good work. The school interest has been excellent. The pupils are showing much interest in muscular movement writing. I note some attractive work in water colors in both rooms. In the evening, the writer gave an illustrated lecture at the church for the benefit of the school. The educational contests were explained to the school and to the patrons. It is hoped that the pupils will take a lively interest in the contests.

The next day, I visited the school in District No. 21, where I found Miss Winnie Jackson and a small number of pupils at work. This school will be represented in the school contests.

In the evening, the writer entertained the pupils and patrons of the Gooseberry school with his illustrated lecture. The pupils of this school will also be represented in the school contests.

Respectfully,
S. E. NOTSON, Co. Supt.

I have for sale at my place on Eight Mile, Brown Leghorn eggs for hatching at $1.00 per setting of 15. A good strain of splendid egg producers. m16. Alfred E. Anderson.

G. A. Farrans a prosperous young farmer of the Gooseberry section, was a county seat visitor Monday. He is very enthusiastic over the crop prospects in his section of the county.

A change occurred this week in the management of the City Meat Market Messrs Kinsman and Hall purchasing the interest of Mr. Lewis in the business. Mr. Lewis and family take their departure from Heppner for Walla Walla where he will reside.

"My little son had a very severe cold I was recommended to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and before a small bottle was finished he was as well as ever," writes Mrs. H. Silks, 29 Dowling Street, Sydney, Australia. This remedy is for sale by Patterson & Son.

Alfred E. Anderson was in from Eight Mile on Monday, making a deposit of 150 dozen eggs with our merchants. Mr. Anderson has a mighty fine bunch of laying hens and they are doing their duty these days. His receipts for this trip were over $20 and he is sending or bringing eggs to town every few days.

Justus A. Miller was a Heppner visitor on Monday, and is rejoicing over the splendid outlook for a crop in his section. Mr. Miller lives 9 miles northeast of Lexington on the base line and reports that there has been a ten inch rain fall in his locality from Sept. 1 to date. This would seem sufficient to insure these people a crop this year.
