

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO

What Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatic pains, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

E. L. Berry, Main St. Heppner Oregon, says: "You are welcome to use my name as one who has been cured of kidney complaint by Doan's Kidney Pills. My kidneys were weak and my back was so painful that I was obliged to walk all stooped over. The contents of one box of Doan's Kidney Pills effected a cure and during the past two years there has been no recurrence of the trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Destruction of Superfluous Books.

Edmund Gosse has explained his onslaught on the books which he thinks should be discarded by great libraries. He does not advocate any ruthless holocaust. Everybody, he says, who is accustomed to libraries knows in his heart of hearts that in process of time there accumulate in them masses of what is more than useless, what is positively harmful literature, as for instance:

"Badly printed editions of the popular English poets, without notes or apparatus of any kind; handbooks of law which are entirely out of date and mere traps for the feet of the litigant; works on medicine and surgery that are too modern to be curious and yet too ancient to be safe; bad old dictionaries and faulty encyclopedias; superseded summaries of history without a fact that is not recorded elsewhere; theology printed 'at the request of parishioners,' exploded and blundering science—these burden the shelves in tens of thousands. It is particularly libraries collected between 1780 and 1850, roughly speaking, that abound in specimens that should be cleared out."

A Dramatist at Work.

When Eugene Walter writes a play the tools necessary to the process are one large room, one outfit of furniture and one exceptionally rapid stenographer. Mr. Walter and the stenographer enter the room. The door is locked, and work is begun by placing the furniture as it is to be placed on the stage—in other words, by setting the scene. Then the young dramatist begins to act. He is all the characters in his play. He rushes about the apartments, quarreling with himself, making love to himself, now standing here as one person and then racing to the opposite end of the apartment to be another. All the time he is speaking the words that come into his mind as natural under the circumstances, and the stenographer is taking them down at top speed. At the end of an hour or two an act is finished, an invisible curtain is rung down, and if the amanuensis hasn't fainted, as two did in one day of labor on one play, the stage is set for the next act—Channing Pollock in "The Footlights—Fore and Aft."

Plants Which Live in Ice.

Plants do not freeze to death in the early winter, but perish from thirst. The process is simple. The cold causes the withdrawal of the water from the cells of the plants, forming ice crystals outside the cells. The frost, cooling and contracting the surface, acts as a sort of pump, and as soon as the cell is emptied of its life giving fluid the plant dies. The truth of this theory has been proved by numerous careful experiments. Great variation was found in the amount of cold necessary to cause the death of vegetation. Some plants dry out quickly and are killed before the freezing point is reached. Many plants will survive zero weather, and some die only at 20 degrees below. Certain vegetable growths never freeze. There are forms of bacteria that even when immersed in liquid air, the most intense cold available, come out of their bitter bath as lively as ever.—London Telegraph.

The Left Over Sandwiches.

Sometimes after a party there are sandwiches left over. Here is an excellent way of using them up: Make a batter exactly like you use for pancakes and add to it either sugar or salt, according to whether the sandwiches are sweet or savory. Then each sandwich is dipped in the batter and fried till a golden brown in fat from which a faint bluish smoke is rising. No matter how dry they are they are delicious done in this way. Crusts that have been cut off from sandwiches dry in the oven, put through a mincing machine and use as coating for fish, rissoles, etc.—Baltimore American.

She Comes Back.

Church—And you claim that cats are smarter than dogs?
Gotham—I certainly do.
"Why?"
"Well, if you try to lose a dog he'll scent your footsteps and follow you home."
"Agreed."
"Well, you just try to lose a cat and the cat will beat you to your home."
—Youkers Statesman.

Doing Her Part.

"Wife, will you thread a needle for me? I want to sew on a few buttons."
"Why, certainly. There you are. Now, you can sew on your buttons while I go to the bridge club. Sometimes I wonder how you managed before you were married."
—Washington Herald.

His Suspicion.

"Why did you leave the place to which you were previously employed?" asked the head of the firm.
"I think," said the applicant for the position of office boy, "de boss was afraid if I stayed I might get his place."
—Chicago Record-Herald.

Quaint Logic.

A bit of reasoning a la mode de Du-mas ascribed to Rossini: "I don't like spinach, and it is very fortunate I don't, because if I did like it I should eat it, and I can't endure it."

A Delusion.

Bilbison—How was Jones yesterday?
Gibson—He seemed to be laboring under a strange delusion. Bilbison—Indeed! I thought he was playing golf.
Gibson—So did Jones!
