Electric Bitters
Made A New Man Of Him.
"I was suffering from pain in my stomach, head and back," writes H.
T. Alston, Raleigh, N. C., "and my liver and kidneys did not work right, but four bottles of Electric Bitters made me feel like a new man." PRICE 50 CTS. AT ALL DRUG STORES.

Making a Magnet.
The simplest way of magnetizing a bar of steel is that known as "single touch." The bar to be magnetized is laid on the table and the pole of a powerful magnet is rubbed from ten to twenty times along its length, always in the same direction. If the north pole of the magnet is employed the end of the bar first touched will also become a north pole, while the opposite end, at which the magnet is lifted before returning, will be a south pole.
There are other and more complicated methods, known as "divided touch" and "double touch," in which two and even four magnets are employed.
A steel bar can also be magnetized by placing it within a coil of insulated wire, through which a galvanic current is circulating. The magnetism induced in this way, however, is weak compared with that which can be procured if the same strength of current is employed through the intervention of an electro-magnet.

Disraeli Placated Carlyle.
Carlyle's opinion of Herbert Spencer as "the most unending ass in Christendom" must, of course, be read in conjunction with Carlyle's derision for mankind in general. "Mostly fools," he cheerfully thought of us all. Darwin, we know, he would not have at any price—not a word of him. Ruskin was a bottle of soda water. "A bad young man" was his sum-up of another eminent writer. But these hostile phrases were subject to considerable modification if the man against whom they were aimed came near enough to Carlyle to do him a personal favor, even to pay him a personal compliment. Disraeli, whom he had described as a mountebank dancing upon John Bull's stomach, offered Carlyle a baronetcy and elicited from him, together with a refusal of the title, many tributes to his magnanimity. He said very little about Disraeli henceforth in print, and in private he spoke of him only as "a very tragical comical fellow."

The World's Largest Flying Bird.
Among the most notable birds in the London zoo is what is generally regarded as the largest flying bird in the world. It is known as the lammergeyer (jamb vulture, or bearded vulture).
This giant bird is from India and is the largest of all eagles or vultures.
Its wings measure over fourteen feet from tip to tip, and it is not yet full grown. The lammergeyer is found in mid-Europe, Asia and north Africa. It is said to live mainly on carrion, but it is not averse to creating carrion by knocking an unwary chamois or goat over a precipice with a blow from its tremendous wing, afterward flying down to the body to obtain a meal. Even mountaineers have been reported as having fallen victims to this method of assault.—London Mail.

A Dignified Duchess.
When Marshal Lefebvre was made Duke of Dantzig the new duchess, who was the original of Sardou's Mme.
Sans-Gene, went to the Tuilleries to thank the Empress Josephine. Unaccustomed to call her by her new title, the usher entered to take the orders of the chamberlain in waiting. He returned and addressed her, "Mme. la Marchale may enter." The lady looked askance at him, but entered the salon, and the empress, rising, advanced a few steps to meet her, saying, with engaging graciousness, "How is the Duchess of Dantzig?" La Marchale instead of answering winked intelligently, and then, turning toward the usher, who was in the act of shutting the door, "Hey, my boy," said she, "what do you think of that?"

A Misunderstanding.
A young lady who wished to purchase a bicycle entered a shop and, according to the Christian Register, began looking at the different wheels and asking questions about their price and quality.
Young Lady—What is the name of this wheel?
The Clerk—That's a Belvidere.
Young Lady (after a stony glare at the clerk)—Can you recommend the Belva?

Blue Blood.
Two queens of England had a "barmaid" for grandmother. The story runs thus: A Westminster barmaid married her master, a publican. After his death she found a second husband in Mr. Hyde, a lawyer, who in later years became lord chancellor and Earl of Clarendon. A daughter of this union married the Duke of York and was the mother of Mary and Anne, queens of England.—London Tit-Bits.

Our Lumbering Language.
"By Jove," said Dubbs, "what's the matter with Tommy Rocks? He looked to me as if he were just pining away."
"Think so?" said Wiggles. "Why, I saw him last night, and he didn't look very spruce to me."—Judge.

How the Engagement Was Broken.
"I can't make you out at all," he said angrily. "You're so fickle and changeable. You're just a riddle to me."
"Yes?" replied his fiancée. "Since you're so stupid perhaps you'd better give me up."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Naturally So.
"All the parts in this play are fat parts."
"They have to be when the play itself is laid in Greece."—Baltimore American.

Some people think they are entitled to a lot of credit for doing as they please.—Chicago News.

PRESIDENT TAFT

President William Howard Taft received the Republican nomination for President on the first ballot at Chicago, his running mate being James Schoolcraft Sherman, of New York, the present Vice President.

Theodore Roosevelt is to form a new Progressive party of which he is of course to be the standard bearer, and the country is to be saved. He hopes for assistance from the Democratic camp, providing the Baltimore convention does not stampede to Bryan.

In the meantime President Taft will gather favor with the people and should be a winner in November.

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK.

Filled With Scenery of Wonderful and Reckless Grandeur.

Glacier National park, it may be said without fear of contradiction, is the most wonderful natural park in the world. It comprises approximately 915,000 acres in northwestern Montana and embraces more than 1,400 square miles of the Rocky mountains.

This vast park is bounded on the north by the Canadian line, on the east by the Blackfoot Indian reservation, on the west by the north fork of the Flathead river and on the south by the main line of the Great Northern railway, by which alone it can be reached.

Within its great area are 960,000 acres of wild land that has never been trod by the surveyor. It is filled with scenery of reckless grandeur. Within its confines are more than sixty glaciers and many mountain peaks clad in the eternal snows. Lake McDonald, another of its wonders, is 3,150 feet above sea level and surrounded by lofty mountains.

Avalanche basin, a most remarkable U shaped valley, is another of the endless works of Mother Nature to be found in this great national playground. The entire scope of it, in fact, is laden with things to attract the interest of the tourist and student of science as well.—New York Times.

OUR STRONGEST MUSCLES.

The Chief One and the Largest is the Gluteus Maximus.

The strongest muscle in the human body is the gluteus maximus. Hardly a movement of the lower extremities can be made without bringing it into play, but its chief duty is to balance the pelvis on the head of the thigh bone. It assists in carrying the leg forward and outward in walking, and without its aid any movement of the body from the hips would be impossible.

As it is the strongest, so is it also the largest muscle we possess. In the full grown man it can exert a force of 110 pounds to the square inch of its section in the thickest part.

Another strong muscle, which is situated in the calf of the leg, is capable of sustaining seven times the weight of the body. The great tendon which is inserted in the heel bone and which is called tendon achilles, is also of singular strength. When removed from the body it has sustained a weight of 2,000 pounds, yet sometimes by the sudden action of the muscles of the calf, to which it belongs, it has been snapped across.

The Cree Indian's Wooing.
The Cree Indian girl is sought in marriage not for love, but because she is strong and useful. The young brave who wishes to take her for his squaw is often faint hearted and frequently sends by a disinterested person or secretly leaves in her tent a gaudy silk handkerchief purchased from the Hudson Bay company. When his intentions are thus declared he goes, shy and awkward, to the father and asks for the hand of his daughter. Should the parent refuse consent to the union the undaunted wooer seeks a bride elsewhere. He never sulks or mopes; he never feels that his heart will break, but calmly selects and makes proposals for another maiden. Women are plentiful, and perseverance is sure to end in success.—Wide World Magazine.

Ends Hunt for Rich Girl

Often the hunt for a rich wife and when the man meets a woman that uses Electric Bitters. Her strong nerves tell in a bright brain and even temper. Her peach-bloom complexion and ruby lips result from pure blood; her bright eyes from restful sleep; her elastic step from free muscles, all telling of the health and strength Electric Bitters give a woman, and the freedom from indigestion, backache, headache, faintness and dizzy spells they promote. Everywhere they are woman's favorite remedy. If weak or ailing try them. 50c at Slocum Drug Co.

Work of the Bower Birds.

There are five different bower birds—three in Australia, the regent, the satin and the spotted; one in the Papuan Islands, the catbird, and one in New Guinea. Their brilliant plumage is golden yellow, glossy black or spotted brown, often with a rose tinted collar.
Their bowers are in no sense nests, but miniature gardens, adapted for enjoyment and courtship and set in the eye of the sun. A pavement of equal sized pebbles is arranged, and numberless twigs are thrust firmly between them in two parallel rows, inclined to each other, inclosing an avenue about a yard long and several inches wide. To decorate this arbor gay feathers, ruddy berries, pearly shells, bleached bones, even watches, knives and other glittering objects are tastefully placed in and around the entrance. The New Guinea bird, still more of a gardener, constructs a miniature conical summer house, with internal gallery. Before this is a meadow of moss, kept free from grass, dust and leaves, on which bright flowers and fruit are daily offered by the enamored male bird to his mate.

No Previous Employment.

"You say, Rastus, that you want work for your wife," said Gunbusta, eying the husky dork before him from head to foot. "Was she ever employed before?"
"No, sir," replied the negro nonchalantly; "dis am her first marriage."—

What Kind of a Ranch
Do You Want?

Are you interested in getting hold of land for a home?
Do you want a place suited to diversified farming?
We have bargains to offer in the three tracts listed below.

No. 1.

Consists of 1100 acres, divided into 250 acres of wheat land, 30 acres now set to alfalfa, with 20 acres more that can be put in, and all under good ditch; 800 acres grass land. This is an ideal dairy and hog ranch, lying on the creek, with plenty of water the year around. One of Eastern Oregon's Best Propositions.

$14 per acre; $8000 cash; good terms on balance.

No. 2.

Is a creek farm of 950 acres; 500 acres of good wheat land; 25 acres now growing alfalfa, and as much more can easily be put in as it comes under ditch.
Small orchard, small house with water piped in from good spring on place; barns and other buildings.

$11 per acre; half cash; terms on balance.

A GENERAL PURPOSE FARM.

No. 3.

A BIG BARGAIN. 3800 acres, on which is now growing 65 or 70 acres of alfalfa, and 25 acres more can be put in, making nearly 100 acres that come under ditch. On this ranch three good crops of alfalfa are grown each year and but one irrigation is required; it is sub-irrigated by from 15 to 20 springs on the place. There is a good orchard of 150 choice bearing fruit trees; 9-room residence with water piped in from spring; large sheep shed and other outbuildings.

About 1000 acres of this farm is good wheat land with 600 acres now in cultivation. 11 miles from Heppner.

Price $11 per acre; half cash; easy terms on balance.

This is one of the best rural homes in all Eastern Oregon and is certainly a snap at the figure offered.

To the homeseeker or the investor there are no better propositions offered than these; nowhere in the Northwest can such land be had at anything like such figures.

These farms join and can be had all in one deal or separately as desired.
