Parties wanting coarse bucks this fall will do well to see Walter Kileup. 1m

Heppner will make a final effort in her attempt to come back when she will play the Condon nine on the local field next Sunday. The season up to the present time has witnessed many defeats but with the strong line up which the management has for the coming contest there is little reason why the home team should not carry home the bacon. The team has been strengthened in many places but especially is this true in respect to the pitching staff where Heppner has been weak all season. L. K. Harlan of Ione will go on the mound for the locals next Sunday and if this spit ball artist continues to deliver the same class of ball that he has been handing out all season the Condon batters will be unable to store up a great number of hits. Heppner line up for Sunday: Rood, Catcher; Harlan, Pitcher; Bahrens, First; Crawford, Short stop; Elliot, Second; Hiatt, Third; Rietman, rightfield; Hale Center; Yeager, Left field.
