

"MAIL ORDER" Cream Separators

When you buy a cream separator you want the best machine you can get for the money, don't you? Well, then, just listen to this proposition:

Before you order a "mail order" separator write to the concern and tell them that you want to try their machine out against a De Laval, with the privilege of sending their machine back if you decide that the De Laval is better worth what we ask you for it than their machine is worth what they ask.

That's absolutely fair, isn't it?

We'll be glad to furnish you a De Laval for such a trial any time you like and let you be the judge.

We are glad to make this offer because we know that the De Laval will give you better service and cost you less in the long run than any other machine you can buy, no matter what the price.

If you already have a mail order separator, or any other for that matter, which isn't giving satisfaction, we have an exchange offer that we believe will interest you.

Before you buy a Cream Separator see and try a

THE FRENCH FAVEROLLES.

Our French artists do beat the Dutch turning out fashions that are extraordinarily risqué, picturesque and peculiar and among these is that rooster with whiskers, the Faverolle, a breed that is gaining ground in this country with those who want birds for beauty as well as utility, and Mr. Muffie Chops for both does fill the bill.

The varieties of the breed comprise French Salmon, French Black and

SALMON FAVEROLLE COCK BIRD.

French Blue, English Salmon and English Ermine Faverolles.

Their origin is France, but the English rooster tinkerers claim to have made some improvement and thus attach their trademark to two varieties.

The distinctive characteristics of the breed are the whiskers, five toes and feather leggings.

The whiskering does not grow up over the eyes to obscure the vision as in some bearded breeds and is a distinct advantage in winter, as it protects against cold. The fifth toe is not so useless as with the Honan and Dorking, but is useful for extra licks in garden destruction.

Faverolle chicks are hardy and mature rapidly, the pullets maturing early and making heavy winter layers.

The French and English are very enthusiastic over the Faverolle as a mar-

DON'TS.

Don't cast your pearls before swine. This refers to pigheaded people.

Don't go joy riding during work hours nor leave to others work that you shirk.

Don't take a vacation and let your flock in the hands of a know not. A dummy with the hens, no money from the pens.

Don't make many promises to a customer. The more some make the more they break.

Don't take much stock in the man who advertises himself as a great genius. He is a great ass, but he doesn't know it.

Don't mix poultry and politics, but it is not out of place to allow a few tough roosters to enter the ministry occasionally.

Don't glory in another's failure. The person who glories in the misfortunes of others should go way back and sit down with his parental gorillas in the savagery of uncivilization.

Don't take the credit for your success from your faithful wife and see that she gets her part of the cash also.

THE GILA MONSTER.

Repulsive in Looks, It is Really a Harmless Creature.

Probably there is no other living creature more feared by the ignorant than the Gila monster, about which all manner of weird tales have been told. It has even been held that the mere breath of this animal is sufficient to cause death to the one upon whom it fell. Scientific inquiry, however, fails to disclose a single instance wherein the breath or even the bite of this creature has resulted fatally. The fact that dissection and microscopic examination do not reveal any trace of glands for the secretion of venom is sufficient evidence to indicate that this curious member of the lizard family has been slandered.

Some years ago a civil engineer in the southwest undertook to settle once for all the question whether "the monster" was deadly or not. A fine specimen was captured and confined in a wire inclosure. A chicken was obtained, and its feathers were removed in order that the lizard might have every opportunity to strike at the breast. The chicken was then held quite close to the Gila monster, which soon snapped viciously and secured a firm hold on the fowl's breast, retaining this grip for more than ten minutes. When the victim was released it was found that the chicken's breastbone had been broken. Nevertheless the fowl quickly recovered, the bone knitting and the wound healing with no symptoms of poisoning.

It is very probable that the reputation for evil borne by the Gila monster is due simply and solely to its most repulsive appearance.—Harper's Weekly.

THE UBIQUITOUS SEA LION.

He Strayed a Long Way From Home Before He Was Killed.

The following story is taken from the American Magazine:

"Sunday is a dull day, and the city editors had a habit of detailing men to go to the zoological gardens and get animal stories for Monday morning. The reporters got together one Sunday morning and persuaded the head animal keeper to let them publish a fake story. It was rather commonplace, concerning the alleged escape of a non-existent sea lion from the pool to open water.

"'Fake,' said the managing editor as he read the story. 'Let's make it a good one.'

"Thereupon he sent telegrams to every country correspondent on that water or its tributaries, merely inquiring if anything had been seen of the escaped sea lion. The response was appalling. The correspondents needed only the hint. That day the sea lion was seen by at least twenty correspondents, and Berghand printed all the reports one after another. Thus spurred, the correspondents went to it in earnest. The following day the sea lion was reported at every point within 200 miles. The story spread like ripples on water. In five days the lion was sighted over half the world, and an enthusiast at Southampton cabled that he was heading toward the north sea. Then a cruel correspondent up on Lake Superior killed him and wired that he was sending the skin as proof. I always suspected that the managing editor did it himself."

A Fine Sense of Feeling.

One of two darkies who run a boot-black "parlor" in partnership was bringing of his well developed sense of touch, particularly in the matter of money. He boasted that he could tell the denomination of any United States coin merely by feeling it. His partner wearied of these boasts and came back with this:

"Your sense o' feelin' ain't nothin' to my friend Marcus. Him and me used to work on the Pullman down through Kansas. Marcus had been on this route for about ten years. One night when we was both asleepin', long around midnight, I wakes up and I shakes Marcus and I says, 'Marcus, where are we?' And Marcus jest rolls over and sticks his hand out the window and he says, 'We're goin' through Oswego.'—Everybody's."

Writing on a Pillow.

Every one who has had occasion to write while riding in a railway train will be interested in the fact that the disagreeable effects of the jarring of the carriage are greatly mitigated by writing on a pillow. The pillow may be either held on the lap or placed on a table. The pad of paper and the arm which guides the pen or pencil should both rest on the pillow.

In this manner it will be found possible to write legibly and with comfort in a train flying at full speed.—London Answers.

First Lightning Rod.

Nearly everybody believes that Benjamin Franklin was the inventor and constructor of the first lightning rod. In this particular they are mistaken, as the first lightning catcher was invented by a poor monk of Bohemia, who put up the first lightning rod on the pulchre of the curator of Preditz, Moravia, June 15, 1754. The apparatus was composed of a pole surmounted by an iron rod, supporting twelve curved branches and terminating in as many metallic boxes filled with iron ore. The entire system of wires was united to the earth by a large chain. The enemies of the inventor, jealous of his success, excited the peasants of the locality against him and under the pretext that his lightning rod was the cause of the excessive dry weather had the rod taken down and the inventor imprisoned.—Argonaut.
