CECIL SHEEPMEN LOOSE ON WAY HOME

Pat Farley and Hynd Brothers Loose Over 200 Sheep In Mountains.

Cecil, Oregon, Oct. 21, 1913. (Special.) There has been considerable loss of sheep by those bringing their sheep from the mountains since the hard rains, owing to the raising to the surface of the alkali in places, which sheep eat greedily. The alkali is a slow but sure poison to them. Pat Farley ran into alkali beds enroute out from the timber and lost 200 head or more. Hynd Bros. suffered similar losses, but we did not learn to what extent. They also encountered snow on the high mountains and turned back to Ukiah, where they were obliged to feed hay. Upon hearing of the loss, Jack and Charles Hynd left immediately for the Ukiah country.

Thomas Dean and wife were Cecil visitors Sunday.

John Miller is sick in the hospital at Ione with walking typhoid fever.

Alex Wilson and C. E. Smith of Rhea's Siding attended church here Sunday.

F. M. Broady and wife were down from Morgan Sunday attending the services here.

W. E. Ahalt is spending the week with his daughter, Mrs. Robt. Montague on Eight Mile.

Chas. Hynd and wife of Ukiah spent a few days with Jack Hynd and family last week.

Mrs. Lem Logan and children and Mrs. Howard and son were Sunday callers in Cecil from Four Mile.

Wm. Sullivan and crew are hauling at John Wash's now. They hauled 26 tons in one day at Huff's last week.

Mrs. James Montague and children spent Saturday last week with her father, J. S. Miller who resides east of this place.

Mrs. J. M. Melton, "Grandma Melton" as she is familiarly called is able to be out again after quite a severe illness.

There was a dance at Morgan last Friday evening. Those attending report a pleasant time. About 19 numbers were sold.

While returning home from Morgan Monday evening the section crew had an accident. The hand car jumped the track throwing all the occupants to the ground and bruising them up a bit. No serious consequences however.

Ted Angel left for Heppner Monday to help McBee bring down the first installment of beef cattle which the latter expects to fatten this winter. Mr. McBee has several hundred head which he has purchased in Grant county.

Church services were held Sunday, Oct. 20th at 11 o'clock in the hall, by Rev. J. M. Reed. There was probably the largest congregation ever assembled, and Rev. Reed delivered a most interesting sermon. He will hold services every two weeks. Everybody welcome and cordially invited.

Clare Calkins, 13 year old son of John Calkins came near having a serious accident Sunday. He came down after a tank of water with a four horse team and just before alighting to fill the tank, threw down the lines. The horses became frightened and started to run. The lad was thrown to the ground, spraining his ankle and bruising his back. The team was caught at Mr. Osborn's and no damage was done to either the team or the wagon.

1913 REGISTRATION BOOKS ARE CLOSED

The registration books for the year 1913 were closed at the County Clerk's office on Monday evening and the office force are closing up the books, getting the supplies ready and preparing to distribute the ballots for the Special election on Nov. 4.

The total registration is 65 men and 203 women. The men had registered for the most part for the 1912 election and were not required to register again for this special election, but some who had not attended to this duty were given the privilege of citizenship were but recently conferred upon the women of the state they appear to have the best of the men on the registration books. However, there should have been a much larger registration of women at this time and many of those who did not get on the books may wish to vote on election day but they will be shut out, as the law now refuses recognition to any except they have their names properly recorded upon the register of the precinct in which they reside.

A summary of the 1913 registration by parties, shows as follows: Republicans, 154; democrats, 59; prohibition 26; socialists, 15; independents 7; progressives, 1; no party or refused to answer, 6, total 268. By towns: Heppner, 115; Ione, 18; Lexington 19; Hardman, 40; Cecil, 3 and Irrigon, 4.

Mr. Conner's Reply.

Heppner, October 9 I regret very much that Mr. Patterson has been led to believe that I acted toward my wife in the shameful manner indicated by his reply to my first statement.

I would be pleased to place before the court proof that such was not the case, and that I was able to, and did at all times provide the best of care for her and that without any necessity of county aid.

Hence Mr. Patterson must see that the court was in error in allowing the claim without first giving me a hearing.

Chas. O. Conner.

RECENT COUNTY FAIR MUCH APPRECIATED

Portland People Are Still Talking About the Fine Treatment Received At Heppner.

The many letters that are being received from Portland by various Heppner people is more evidence that the recent Morrow county fair was a total success. Herewith we publish some of the letters that have been received.

Portland Union Stock Yards Co. North Portland, Oregon, Oct. 13, 1913.

Mr. W. W. Smead, Secy. Morrow County Fair, Heppner, Oregon.

Dear Sir:

I have been hearing all sorts of good things about your first annual fair. Portlanders who made the trip are very enthusiastic over your displays. From press notices I have seen I imagine you good people of Heppner have never realized before how good the Lord has been to you.

I trust this is the beginning of one of the best County Fairs in the State of Oregon. By the time Fair Season rolls around again hope your rail schedule will be arranged so that your many friends from Western Oregon may make you a visit with the loss of one day only, instead of three as at the present time.

Many such successful Fairs scattered over the state means a more successful State Fair, helps us with our big Pacific International Live Stock Exposition, and makes a fine feeder for the Pacific International at San Francisco in 1915. Believe that no one in your community can be more sincerely glad of your great success this year than myself.

Yours very truly,
O. M. PLUMMER, Secy.

Portland Ore. Oct. 1913.

Mr. W. W. Smead, Heppner Oregon.

My Band and Orchestra and myself wish to extend to yourself and fair Committee our most sincere thanks for the splendid manner in which you treated us while we were under engagement to you for your past Morrow county fair. The hotel accommodations were splendid, the work was most congenial, and the final settlement, and in fact there was nothing you could have done to make our stay in your city more enjoyable. Hoping to hear from you again should you need our services, I am,

Yours very respt.
George H. Parsons.

Portland, Oregon, Oct. 15, 1913.

Mr. Vawter Crawford, Gazette-Times, Heppner Oregon.

In your paper of October 2nd, I noticed a number of very complimentary notices to my Band and Orchestra, for which I wish to extend my sincere thanks. It pleases me very much to know that my endeavors to please the citizens of Heppner and visitors of the Morrow county fair were accepted so liberally by your paper. I wish to thank the citizens of Heppner and yourself for the splendid reception we received while in your city.

Yours Very Respt.
GEO. H. PARSONS, Mgr., The Parsons Band and Orchestra.

SCHOOL NOTES.

By Supt. Notson.

The enrollment cards for the free correspondence course in writing will be sent to the rural teachers within a few days. Those desiring to take the course should sign the cards and return them to the county superintendent at once. Every teacher should take advantage of this free course. It will not require much time, and the only expense will be the postage both ways on your manuscripts. If you expect to do the best work in teaching writing, you should take this course.

The time of year has arrived when it is necessary to have heat in the schoolroom and the room must be kept more closely closed than during the warm weather. Great care should be taken to see that the ventilation is as nearly perfect as possible. If window boards are provided, make use of them. If they are not provided, try in some way to secure them. Do not allow any pupil to sit in a draft. At intermissions the room should be flushed with fresh air. It will frequently pay to stop work a few minutes, and while the pupils march or engage in some calisthenic drill, open the windows. The pupils will work enough better to make up for the time. The value of pure air in the schoolroom can not be over estimated. There should also be some moisture introduced into the air of the schoolroom. A vessel of some sort containing water should be kept on the stove all the time. This is more important than many suppose.

The light should be carefully regulated. The shades should be in good working order. Do not permit the sunlight to fall upon any pupil's desk or book. The shades on the side of the room away from the sun, should be run up close to the top. The best light comes in from the top of the window. Do not shut out the light on that side for the sake of having the shades drawn so they "look well."

On a very bright day, it may be necessary to soften the light. With proper ventilation and lighting, many of the vexing problems of discipline disappear.

As the evenings grow longer, the debating and literary societies should be organized. An occasional spelling match might be held. The organization of a parent-teachers association, if properly handled will prove of great benefit. The school should be made a social and civic center. Don't say you can't but try something along one or more of these lines.

Attention of teachers and others interested is directed to Sections 100 and 101 of the school law in regard to fire drills.

School officers may obtain copies of the new school law by calling at the office of the county superintendent.
