RHEA CREEK.

The Misses Lula Maxwell and Jess Rugg spent a couple of days at Spring Hollow.

Daisy Barlow has changed her place of residence to the Rhea creek ranch for a few weeks.

Arch Cox bought several hundred head of fancy sheep over near Monument, and brought them home Tuesday.

David Rugg arrived home Tuesday after a two months trip through North Dakota, Minnesota and other central states. He says Morrow county looks good to him.

A bunch of the young people from around Rhea creek attended a Hallow'een party at Claud Huston's on Eight Mile. They all report a very enjoyable time.

The Rhea Creek school will hold its first literary meeting November 14. Greater interest is being taken than heretofore. Come and help make it a success. Everybody is welcome.

Ed Rugg disappeared from the Spring Hollow ranch Saturday afternoon and was not seen or heard of until Sunday evening. We have great suspicions that he was on the right road.

The next morning after Hallow'een, Frank Barlow was pleasantly surprised to find his horses all harnessed and ready for work. They knew he was very industrious so his cows were also harnessed.

While driving a fractious team last week, Mrs. Ralph Beckett dropped one of the reins and the horses ran away. Mrs. Beckett immediately threw her to small children out of the buggy and then she jumped out. Before the team could be stopped they overturned the buggy and ran into O. J. Cox's yard.

FRANK BROWN DIES.

Young Man Seriously Ill But Seven Days.

Taken quite ill with an attack of tonsillitis while at work with the Jones and DeVore thresher on Rhea Creek, Frank Brown was brought to town on Thursday last for medical treatment. He was taken to the home of his mother, Mrs. Sarah Brown, and growing rapidly worse he was removed to the hospital on Saturday where everything possible was done for his relief, but to no avail and he passed away at about 1:30 Saturday night.

The machine was at work at the Louis Greshens place when Mr. Brown took down, and thinking that he would get over the attack in a few days, he lay in the barn there for three days before being brought to town, but had he sought assistance at once the results would have not been fatal.

Frank Brown was an industrious, ambitious young man and held in high esteem by his many friends. He was born at Nebraska City, Nebraska, March 24, 1875, the son of J. P. and Sarah Brown, and came with his parents to Oregon in 1887, the family settling on Blackhorse, this county, and Frank grew to manhood here. In August 1904, he was married to Miss Sylvia Matteson and to them have been born two daughters. Besides his wife and children he leaves a mother, two brothers and one sister to mourn his loss.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at the Christian church the pastor Rev. H. A. VanWinkle, officiating.

Frank Habelt Would Assist Unfortunate Leper Nurse.

Cecil, Oregon, Nov. 10, 1913.
Editor Gazette-Times,
Heppner Oregon.

Dear Sir:—
As you perhaps have seen in the Saturday's Oregonian, the 8th inst. I was not the cause of creating all this excitement, yet I was the storm center, but will say: I hope I will not live long enough to get so cold and selfish as not to help aid and assist an unfortunate, friendless and homeless person should the occasion arise and the necessity require.
Frank Habelt.

Here is a splendid opportunity for many of us to learn a good lesson. Humanity at large is, in the realities of life, inhuman. We talk and preach helping our fellow being and yet when the opportunity is offered us, we do not grasp it. From the above letter we can at least grasp Mr. Habelt's feeling for an unfortunate girl. A girl who was left homeless and friendless in Chicago because she herself had done the good samaritan act and had administered to the sick. We do not know how bad Mr. Habelt wishes to marry this girl, maybe not very bad. But he has shown the proper spirit, that spirit which so many of us are lacking in, the spirit of brotherly love.

LEXINGTON ITEMS.

Another dance in the hall next Friday night.

There will be a taffy pull by the Ladies Aid on Nov. 14. Everybody come.

Mrs. Picketts is convalescing at her home after an illness of two weeks, caused by a nervous breakdown.

Don't forget the Ladies Bazaar on December 5 at Lexington under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society.

Hank Parker and wife and Mrs. Parker's sister, Miss Dona Barnett returned from Portland after a pleasant vacation.

Our first heavy fog was over the village Monday. The fog coming so early means bumper crops for next year say old timers.

Professor Doak and wife accompanied by W. G. Scott in the latter's automobile made a rabbit hunt down in the sands last Sunday.

Mrs. Chris Christensen was made very happy the other evening by the arrival of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stott from Barington, Illinois.

Jeff Gentry received the sad news that his cousin, Frank Brown of Heppner had passed away and would be buried at that place Monday at two o'clock.

There will be a special school election on November 22 at the school house at 2 o'clock, to vote a special tax and on any other question that may come before the meeting.

Gas McMillan has the concrete foundation to his new house about done. The carpenter work is being pushed rapidly. Gas says there is nothing to this paying rent proposition.

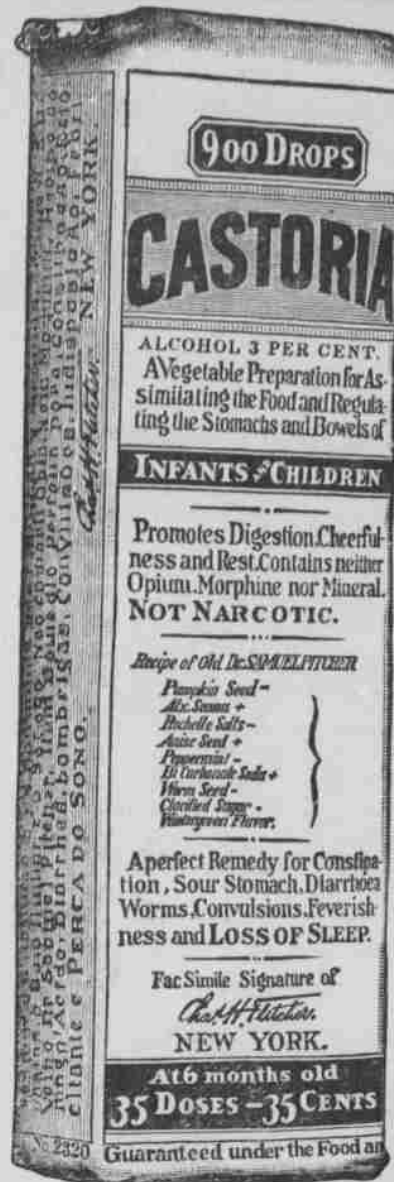

It is reported that E. Nordyke has traded for some Heppner property, but we did not learn whether Lexington would lose one of her citizens in the event the above rumor becomes a reality.

R. Rasmussen of The Dalles Creamery made a flying trip to Lexington Saturday evening, returning Sunday morning. Mr. Rasmussen solicits your creamery business and promises you a fair deal.

Rev. Orr, presiding elder of the South Methodist church was entertained by Brother Tabor on Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Orr is wearing a piece of court plaster on his chin and using a cane. We did not learn whether the reverend gentleman had been in an automobile or balky mule accident.

Uncle John Moyer is grieving over some fine thoroughbred chickens that were stolen from him the other night. It is mean enough to steal from anybody, but when it comes to stealing from as old a couple as Mr. and Mrs. Moyer are, it is worse than common and strenuous methods should be used on the miscreants.

Smead & Crawford are handling the new town site of Coos Bay for Heppner and Morrow county. Now is a good time to make an investment in this coming seaport town of Oregon. You should get in on the ground floor. If interested, see plans and get terms from above representatives.
