Groom that bird.

Good Morning! Have you done that Christmas shopping yet?

The Second Annual Morrow County Poultry Show comes on the 7, 8, and 9th of next month. Are you preparing your exhibit?

We understand that there are upwards of ten men who would wear the chief of police insignia under the new city administration.

Our crop of wheat was a little short of last year, but still the Heppner warehouses have a well filled appearance at the present time, and wheat is being unloaded at the local houses daily.

By reading the advertisements in this paper you will find there is no necessity for sending your orders away for Christmas goods. Anything at all that you are likely to want, can be purchased right here at home.

Many nice and useful special prizes are being offered by Heppner business this season for the poultry show exhibitors. Some of these are ornamental only, but many will be useful articles in the poultryman's line and should be means of greatly stimulating interest in the show.

Mike Kenney, prominent stockman of this county, was transacting business in Heppner on Tuesday.

Chas. Groshens has been busy this week trimming up the many trees on the Nattter property on upper Main street.

Wanted, to rent, housekeeping rooms. Not less than three rooms wanted. To be occupied by the 1st to 10th of January. Inquire at this office.

Hank Vance and wife returned home Tuesday after an extended visit to Mr. Vance's old home at Hillsboro, Ohio. They report that they encountered much snow and bad weather on their way home.

The board is proud of the showing they are able to present for this, our first fair, and wishes to thank all who stood by us so loyally and helped to make the fair a success. This is one time that the people of Heppner got together and the result speaks for itself. We can do it again and will if the same loyal support is given. We also wish to thank all who attended the fair, and hope that the people of Morrow county will each and all try to have something at the next fair. Lets make it bigger and better. BIGGER AND BETTER should be our slogan.
W. W. SMEAD, Secretary.

High School Notes.

We are glad to welcome Miss Melba Griffiths '15 back to Heppner High. She has been going to school at Kirkland, Wash. for the past three months.

A new clock was installed in the assembly room this week. It not only keeps us informed as to the time, but also announces class periods. But it is more important yet because it saves the superintendent many trips into the room.

Monthly cards were handed out Thursday last and there were many glum faces as the cards were read. We note with sorrow that the instructors are beginning to use the back of the cards. It surprises us when we see our shortcomings down in black and white.

There is talk among some of the students about starting a scoobl doper. The idea is a good one and should be endorsed by all the students. Heppner High was represented three years ago by the "Chinook," a little monthly, but from lack of support it discontinued publication. But now is a time when a paper can be made a access, and it is hoped that we can become sufficiently interested to try the publication.

The chemical laboratory received a new lot of chemicals and apparatus last week. We will soon have a laboratory that will handle all the experiment in the first two years work. H. H. S. is very proud of the two laboratories, chemical and physics, and much experimental work is being done.

Mjnor & Co. have their big stock of Christmas gifts opened up and on display. The store looks much as though Santa Claus was making his headquarters there. They certainly have a fine line.
