Typical Chicken Ranch of the Best Kind.

About $2,000,000 a year leaves the Northwest to the farmers of Kansas and Nebraska for poultry and eggs. Even China rashly is shipping to Oregon and Washington the offerings of Mongol hens. That money if kept at home would mean much to the West. It should be kept at home. The way to do it is to raise poultry on those farms where it is not now kept and where it is kept to make the yards sanitary and attractive to the chicken. Poultry will add, if raised properly, in no small way to the profits of the farm.
