CENTRAL MONTANA.

We came to this country in 1919 from North Dakota where we had resided for twenty-five years.

The first summer was very hot and dry all over the Northwest, and the greater part of the Dakotas and Alberta did not raise enough grain for seed, and all the west and south of us were in as bad, if not worse condition.

Our crop was light winter wheat, yielding from ten to forty-four bushels per acre. Alfalfa, a never failing crop was good, the preceding year had been an abundant harvest, and the following years, 1911-12-13 have all been prosperous.

When we settled near Winnett, forty miles north of Musselshell and sixty miles east of Lewiston, there was not a shack in sight, our nearest neighbor an old ranchman, was two miles distant and the next six miles away. Now all the land is taken and the people are jubilant over the present prospects. When we fled on nearly eight hundred acres of land we thought it a semi-arid country that would be easy to secure title to and expected to leave one of the family to run a small stock ranch and valued it at one thousand dollars per quarter section. We are now delighted with our home and believe it to be worth five times our first estimate. We brought sixty dollars worth of cattle and could now sell them for four hundred. Neither horses or cattle cost us one dollar last winter for food or shelter and are in fine condition. Our hogs have been much more profitable. We landed without money and have made our way and have few debts and no mortgages and with two partners we are putting in three hundred acres of grain. Many others with small capital have done far better. We are delighted with our neighbors, our climate and our prospects and expect to put in the rest of our days in Montana.

Yours truly,
S. F. BEER,
Pastor M. E. Church,

NEW JOURNALISM COURSE

Specialists Will Give Novel Phase of Advertising Study.

University of Oregon, Eugene, June 5.—"The Psychology of Advertising", a new and uncommon course, will be offered by the department of Journalism at the University of Oregon next fall. It will be given by Dr. Edmund S. Conklin, professor of psychology. Dr. Conklin will take up the subject almost wholly from the scientific side, that is, from the point of view of the psychologist rather than of the advertising man. A companion course will probably be "The Economics of Advertising," also given by a man who is a specialist in that line. The department of Journalism will then be offering about ten courses instead of the humble one on the curriculum two years ago.

The Modern Trend.

If father Noah lived today
And it began to rain,
He would not build an ark. He'd
Build a hydroaeroplane.
If wicked Nero lived today
And Rome began to burn,
He would not play a violin.
A phonograph he'd turn.
If Ben Hur lived with us today,
No chariot he'd ride,
He'd buy a 90 horsepower car.
To win his fame and bride,
If poor old Jonah lived today,
He'd find the travel agent,
Instead of riding in a whale,
He'd try an ocean liner.
If mother Eve lived here today,
She'd surely have to smile,
She would not change her mode of dress,
And she'd be right in style.

Makes Land Deal.

George W. Flint, the bustling real estate man of Lexington, recently closed a deal whereby the Shelby Lee place was transferred by V. E. Way to Carl Her, of Timber, Oregon. Consideration, $25 per acre. Mr. Her will move on to the place at once, bringing his stock and implements with him from below. The deal is largely a trade of places, Mr. Way taking over the land owned by Mr. Her in Washington county.

Miss Ella Wallen, teacher in the public school for the past year departed for Portland Sunday, where she will visit for a week before going to her home in North Dakota. She will return in September.

A number of leading democrats of Pendleton, believing that none of the present applicants will receive the appointment of postmaster, have endorsed the name of Miss Minnie Privett, for twelve years a member of the civil service.

Two men were drowned and fire chief McDowell was seriously injured in a fire which consumed $200,000 worth of property on the water front in Portland last week. There is much dispute as to the origin of the fire.

The Hermiston Herald states that there are many idle men around the railroad yards in that town who will not work when they are offered a job. Construction work on the Coyote cutoff would give many employment, and yet 17 of them refused to go out to work when a job was offered.

MARCHING ON.

The history of womankind is a story of abuse. For ages men beat, sold, and abused their wives and daughters like cattle. The Spartan mother that gave birth to one of her own sex disgraced herself; the girl baby was often deserted in the mountains to starve. China bound and deformed women's feet. Turkey veiled their faces. America denied them equal educational advantages with men. Most of the world still refuses them the right to participate in government, and everywhere women bear the brunt of an unequal standard of morality.

But the women are on the march. They are walking upward and on to the sunlit plains where the thinking people rule. China has ceased binding their feet. In the shadow of the harem Turkey has opened a female school. America for half a century has given the women equal educational advantages, and America, we believe, will enfranchise them.

Wherever women have voted there are only words of praise for the results. Wyoming enfranchised her women in 1893, Colorado in 1893. The legislature of both these States have passed resolutions declaring that women suffrage has been a decided advantage to home and State. Utah gave her women the vote in 1896. Hon. William Spry, Governor of Utah says: "The women of Utah have been exercising the right of suffrage for many years to the advantage of the State, the home and the women themselves." Idaho enfranchised her women in 1896 by a vote of two to one. The Hon. Burton L. French, United States representative from Idaho, says: "My judgment is that woman suffrage has made for better government in the States where it has been granted." Washington bestowed the ballot on her women in 1910 by a vote of three to one. Hon. Ernest Lister, Governor of Washington, says: "The results in the State of Washington have certainly indicated that the women of the State assist in public affairs, rather than otherwise, by having the right to vote."

California gave her female citizens the vote in 1911. Hon. Hiram W. Johnson, Governor of California gave equal suffrage as having justified itself in California. The women have proved themselves a great force for good government. In several particular instances the women have waged battles in this State in behalf of decency and good government that challenge the highest regard for them as voting citizens.

Kansas, Arizona and Oregon adopted woman suffrage in 1912. Hon. George H. Hodges, Governor of Kansas, says: "I hope the time will soon be here when we will have nation-wide equal suffrage." Hon. George W. P. Hunt, Governor of Arizona, says: "In my own mind there is no doubt that it will make for cleaner and better politics, that real reforms of political evils will be more sincere and lasting, and it will lead to a higher political morality in general." Hon. Oswald West, Governor of Oregon, says: "The women not only register and vote, but they vote for those men and those measures that make for decent government." Illinois women gained the vote last year.

We can do little to help and not much to hinder this great movement. The thinking people have put their O. K. upon it. It is surging forward to its goal just as surely as this old earth is swinging from the grip of winter toward the summer's harvest. —Leslies Weekly.

Miss Ethel Casey, a teacher in the public school the past year, and who has been retained for next year, departed for Portland Sunday.

Miss Lulu Campbell will return home from Portland tomorrow evening. She has been visiting with relatives and friends in the metropolis for the past two weeks.

Miss Leta Humphreys returned to her home in this city on Wednesday evening a week ago, from Portland. Miss Humphreys graduated from the North Pacific School of Pharmacy last week.

Peter Farley departed on Friday last with his bands of sheep for the summer range in the vicinity of Austin, Grant county. He will attend camp himself and remain in the mountains until the first of October.

Jesse O. Turner arrived home from Corvallis on Thursday evening, where he has been attending the Oregon Agricultural College for the past several months. He will spend his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Turner.

The Peoples' Cash Market opened up for business on Saturday last in charge of Henry Schwarz, a butcher of experience and a recent arrival here from Corvallis. He is assisted by E. R. Merritt, also from Corvallis and these gentlemen have moved their families and household effects here and have become permanent residents of Heppner.

W. B. Barratt was an outgoing passenger on the local Sunday bound for Portland. He was accompanied by his son and daughter and Master Gilbert Mahoney, taking the youngsters along to see the city during the gala week. Mr. Barratt will represent the Heppner Masonic bodies in the grand lodge of the order in session in Portland this week.
