Bishop Scott School For Boys.

What promises to be the largest and most complete preparatory school for boys in the Northwest, when it is opened for its first term September 23rd, 1914, is that of the Bishop Scott School, situated about four miles from Yamhill, Oregon, on the now electrified system of the Southern Pacific Railroad.

The school estate comprises over one hundred acres and is owned and operated under the auspices of the Episcopal Diocese of Oregon. Fully one half of the acreage is under cultivation. Gardens, fruit orchards and one of the largest walnut groves in Oregon is part of the school estate.

The main school Hall, which will be finished by July first, is a three story structure covering ground 80 by 120 feet, being made of tile and concrete and is absolutely fireproof. It will cost about $20,000 when finished. The exterior will be finished in rough cement cast, while the interior will be of mill construction.

On the first floor are the offices, the lounging room, the dining room, study hall, chapel and three class rooms. The second and third stories will contain over sixty sleeping rooms, and the necessary bathrooms.

The gymnasium, with the usual complement of lockers, shower baths and equipment will be located on the ground floor. The kitchen and servants quarters and rooms for storing fuel and provisions, also are on the ground floor.

Some seven or eight other buildings house the employees of the grounds and stock farm which is run in connection with the school.

Considerable interest is attached to, and much success is assured, from the fact that Rev. Arthur Henry Marsh, lately of the National Cathedral School For Boys, Washington, D. C., will be the Head Master when the school opens for its Fall term on September 23rd, 1914. The courses of studies will embrace all preparatory work of the best grammar schools.

The Bishop Scott School will fill a long felt want for an up-to-date and competent boarding school for boys in Oregon. The Board of Trustees of the school are the Right Reverend, The Bishop of the Diocese, Rev. A. A. Morrison, Ph. D., Rector of Trinity Church, Portland, Ore., Rev. J. E. H. Simpson, Rector, St. Mark's Church, Portland, Ore., Rev. C. W. Robinson, Rector, St. Paul's Church, Oregon City, Ore., C. N. Huggins, Treasurer Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, J. W. FRONTIER DAYS.

Sept. 17-18-19, 1914. Great Preparations Being Made.

So many new features have been added to the Frontier Days big show at Walla Walla that there is no question but what it will eclipse anything of a like nature ever before attempted in the entire country. The Purse will amount to $20,000.00

Great preparations are being made by the people of Walla Walla to entertain the thousands of visitors that will be here for this occasion, and the Directors of the Association are determined to make it an event long to be remembered by those who witness it.

Every one of the attractions booked relate in some way to life on the Frontier, and the story of the Great West will be pictured in an amazingly realistic manner. Every part of the early life of the Frontier will be enacted by men and women of world fame, and no expense will be spared to secure the best possible performers.

About thirty events will take place each day, every one of which will be interesting and thrilling.

The official program will come from the press in a very few days and a copy can be had by addressing the Secretary, R. H. Johnson, Walla Walla, Wash.

Responsibilities.

"Didn't you ask me why I paid rent instead of owning my own home?" asked Mr. Crosslots.

"I made that inquiry," replied the real estate man.

"Well, I'll tell you. When the roof leaks or a shutter drops off it's mighty handy to be able to ask your wife not to bother you, but go and tell her troubles to the landlord."

Duty and Desire.

"Well, sonny," said the patient druggist to the small boy who had been hanging about the store for half an hour eagerly eyeing the candy counter, "do you want to buy some candy?"

"Course I want, but I can't—mother sent me ter buy some soap."

Correcting an Error.

A tramp called at Mr. Cobb's house one morning.

"I've walked many miles to see you sir," he said, "because people told me you were very kind to poor, unfortunate fellows like me."

"Indeed!" said the old gentleman. "And are you going back the same way?"

"Yes, sir," was the answer.

"Well," said Mr. Cobb, "just contradict that rumor as you go, will you? Good morning!"—Lippincotts.
