

THE GAZETTE-TIMES.

HEPPNER, OREGON

Home and Farm Magazine Section

THURSDAY, AUGUST 13, 1914.

Duroc Jersey Sows Purchased by Oregon Agricultural College From J. W. Fruit of Brooks, Oregon.

IT PAYS to buy good stock, whether sheep, cattle, goats or hogs. We note that the Oregon Agricultural College has bought some fine Duroc Jersey Sows. Farmers may differ as to the breeds of hogs to raise, and it is not our purpose to advocate buying any particular breed. That is a matter for each individual to decide. But we are strong for the hog-raising on the farm. Let every farmer raise some hogs and turn off meat for the market and for his own use every year. If the farmers of Oregon, Washington and Idaho raised enough hogs for the consumption of these three states, they would have in their own bank accounts the millions of dollars that now go to the farmers of the Middle West.