BODY, SOUL AND ALL.
 The Case of an Inexperienced Carver Driven to Desperation.
 A bashful young bachelor was invited to a dinner party and was paired off with the prettiest lady. It was a family party, and his seat was in front of the roast fowl. He had never done any carving in his life. Furthermore, there was in addition to the chicken a fried sole in front of his place, and he was also expected to help to the fish. He made the best of the carving by asking the lady at his side what she preferred.
 "A little of the sole, please," she replied.
 He began to cut a slice from the breast of the fowl.
 "No, no," she whispered; "the sole."
 Now where was the sole of a hen? He thought a whole minute, then he attacked the wing.
 "The sole, the sole!" cried the lady. He looked for the feet, but no soles were left, so he tried a drumstick. But she still shook her head and murmured: "You don't understand me. I only want a piece of the sole."
 The young man arose, stuck his fork through the fowl and put it all on the lady's plate.
 "Take it!" he shouted. "Take it—body, soul and all!"
 Then he helped himself to the fish—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

No Mercy.
 A fish peddler was whipping his slow but patient horse in a residential street the other day, and crying his wares at intervals:
 "Fresh mackerel! Fresh mackerel!"
 A woman, seeing his acts of cruelty, put her head out of the window, and called to him:
 "Have you no mercy?"
 "No, mum," he replied; "nothin' but mackerel. That is all."—National Monthly.
Eager.
 "I understand the bride and groom are back from their honeymoon trip."
 "Yes."
 "Are they all settled?"
 "Yes."
 "And happy?"
 "Very. She can hardly wait for his first pay day to come."—Detroit Free Press.

Making History.
 The Guest—And who is the distinguished personage in oil over the mantle?
 The Owner—That's my great-grandfather, Hoppinger Hinkle, painted by Kaloosky. He was one of the mob of patriots who dumped the boatload of storage eggs into the harbor.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
Decidedly Unsuitable.
 Parson Johnson—Why don't you come to church, Sam?
 Sam Shinn—Nothin' suitable to wear, parson.
 Parson—The Lord won't notice yo' clothes, Sam.
 Sam—No, but Deacon Butts might recognize his shirt, and Bre'r Simpson his umbrellas.—Puck.

Rhythms.
 "Dancing is the poetry of motion."
 "I never thought of it before," replied Uncle Flopsole, "but I believe you are right. There is a relationship between dancing and poetry. Both of them depend largely on making the feet behave."—Washington Star.

Preparing for a Lecture.
 "Pop!"
 "Yes, my son."
 "I think I'll make a trip to the north pole when I'm older."
 "I always said you took after your mother. She always wants to lecture too."—Yonkers Statesman.

More Coming.
 Friend—Do you get more for a poem now than you did twenty years ago?
 Poet (sadly)—Yes. As I get older I can't defend myself so well.—Chicago News.
Mightier Than the Sword.
 "It seems out of place to confer knighthood on a poet by tapping him on the shoulder with a sword."
 "What do you suggest?"
 "They ought to use a fountain pen."
 —Kansas City Journal.

A Graftor.
 "I know a man who is grafting all the time in his business, yet he can always get the public to swallow it."
 "What is he—a political officeholder?"
 "No; he runs a peach orchard."—Baltimore American.

The Brutal!
 Wife—I want to go into that store for curiosity.
 Husband—I didn't think you'd ever run out of that.—Philadelphia Ledger.

STATE NEWS ITEMS OF GENERAL INTEREST

Buyers' Week Great Success.—600 Outside Buyers Registered.
 Portland, Ore., Aug. 18 (Special)—Buyers' Week is a thing of the past, but it was a week that will be vividly remembered for a long time, probably until next year's "Week," which from all indications will be attended by a greater number of buyers than the one just past. The registration at the Portland Commercial Club reached nearly 600 and the visitors represented practically every town of any importance in the Pacific Northwest. It is estimated that goods purchased from Portland manufacturers and jobbers during the week amounted to approximately $1,000,000.
 The visitors were hardly allowed sufficient time to do their buying, certainly no time to get homesick or lonesome, for entertainment of some kind was on tap nearly every minute. Receptions, smokers, theatres, banquets, luncheons and automobile trips followed each other in rapid succession during the entire week. If any one had a complaint to make he did not make it public, and most of the visitors departed with a hearty "See you again next year," and expressions of deep satisfaction with the business and social events of their short vacation.

A statement just received from O. M. Plummer, general manager of the Pacific International Livestock Exposition will be of interest to every farmer and stock raiser in the state. After calling attention to the date of this year's show at the Union Stock Yards at North Portland, December 7-12, he says:
 "The Exposition is purely educational along livestock lines, there being no 'Wild West' or other amusement features and is unique, in that it will pay over $15,000 in cash premiums and makes no charge for entry fee, stall room or admission. Like the International of Chicago, the Pacific International of Portland is recognized as the court of last resort on the Pacific Coast.
 "Premium lists will be mailed to all breeders who belong to the different breed associations; others who desire a copy may secure same by applying to the general manager. Early reports indicate 50 per cent larger entries than last year, and commercial organizations all over the country will be asked to cooperate with the railroads in forming special parties to attend the show. Bankers, as well as breeders, are taking a keen interest in the Exposition and are lending their very active support."

A plant for distilling oil of peppermint is being constructed near Springfield. O. H. Todd, and associates, of Eugene, have planted 40 acres of peppermint and will work up the product in their own factory. If the yield of oil meets their expectations, the 40 acres should give gross returns of about $6000. The industry is likely to become important in Lane county.

Prohibition VS. Temperance

In Germany, where prohibition is unknown and where all the people have been temperate drinkers of wholesome beers and light wines, there is less drunkenness than in Maine or in Kansas—the two most conspicuous prohibition states in the Union.

The same is true of France and Italy. The world over you will find that the really temperate races are those who are not prohibited from drinking temperate beverages such as beer and wine.
 Prohibition in Germany, France or Italy would produce exactly the same results that it has produced in every state in the Union where prohibitory laws have been enacted. It would not stop men from drinking nor decrease drunkenness, but it would drive out the mild drinks and encourage men who do drink to resort secretly to the highly concentrated spirits.

If prohibition really saved men from the "curse of drink" it would have more to commend it to the intelligence of the people. But, as the great editor, Henry Watterson, observes in the Louisville Courier-Journal, "It does not promote either temperance or virtue. It arouses human passion to frenzy by restricting private rights. It does not reduce drunkards. It multiplies Pharisees and malefactors."—Paid Advertisement.
