KAISER WILLIAM-FOREMOST MAN IN EUROPE

German Emperor Now Displaying Same Qualities Which He Showed In Earlier Life—Broken Into Only By His Peaceful Policies Since 1888.

William second, King of Prussia and Emperor of Germany, eldest son of Emperor Frederick, third, was born in Berlin, January 7, 1859.

After studying under private tutors at home, he entered the gymnasium of Cassel. Subsequent to graduating from that establishment in 1877, he became a student of the University of Bonn. He married Princess Augusta Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein, February 27, 1881, and on June 15, 1888 succeeded his father as emperor. Before the death of his father he expressed opposition to the peaceful policy inaugurated by the latter, and it was thought that his reign would be of a pronounced military character, but on ascending to the throne he issued addresses of a pacific tone, in which he expressed the determination to maintain the existing peace and promote the national welfare. His first act of public policy was to visit the various courts of Europe to cement friendly relations, and while on a visit to England, in 1892, won the Queen's cup at the Cowes yacht race. His determination to be ruler in fact as well as in name caused Prince Bismark to resign as chancellor of the empire in 1890. Other events of importance include the acquisition of Heligoland, the extension of colonial interests in Africa and the Pacific, and the renewal of the triple alliance, and legislation favorable to the laboring and agricultural classes. He has shown large interests in the dissemination of education, especially in the liberal and elementary lines. Is a liberal patron of science, a good violinist, and has published a number of poems and several essays. The policy pursued by his government has materially widened the importance of Germany as a manufacturing and exporting country, two lines in which it now takes a high rank among the nations. Extensive governmental support has been given under his influence to the building of canals and railroads, the construction of telegraph and telephone lines, and the enlargement of the schools and universities of the empire.

DO YOU HAVE INDIGESTION?

Indigestion causes more disease, it shortens lives than everything else of which we know. Indigestion not only rapidly wears out the stomach and intestine, but it undermines the health and opens the way for serious diseases. Two persons out of every three have indigestion, either easily recognized stomach indigestion or the commonest form, intestinal indigestion with gas in the bowels and often constipation.

You can cure yourself of indigestion with the foods which you usually have on your table simply by cooking them differently, by taking care as to what foods you eat together and by eating more of some foods and less of others. For information by Dr. Daniels as to just how to go about this, send ten cents, stamps or coin, to The Hygienist Magazine, Majestic Bldg., Denver, Colo.

H. S. Neal, Gilliam county stockman, came over from his ranch near Lone Rock Saturday.

"FRONTIER DAYS" TO HONOR TRAIL BLAZERS

Scores of New Features Added to This Huge Western Exhibition—Famous Riders, Ropers and Bronco Busters—Great Street Parade—Review of Early Days.

One of the great features of Frontier Day celebration at Walla Walla, Washington, this year will be the day devoted to paying homage and honor to the Pioneer of the Northwest, those sturdy American citizens, who crossed the plains amid hardships and trials incident to a journey fraught with great danger.

It will be remembered by those who witnessed the celebration of Pioneer Day last year, that never in the history of Walla Walla had there ever been such an assemblage as packed all available points of vantage of the streets where the parade was passing and in the Fair Grounds when the exercises had commenced.

While the 1913 parade was pronounced by all the biggest street parade ever seen in that city, indications now point to one of much greater magnitude on September 19th. There will be prairie schooners filled with furniture and household trappings, chicken coops tied on behind, cows, dogs, and other domestic animals trailing along, mules and ox teams, freight wagons, Indians and cowboys, and all paraphernalia of caravan of the 50's.

Another feature out of the ordinary will be an exact reproduction of a log cabin built on the Fair Grounds. The Walla Walla County Fair Association has already placed an order for the logs and the building will be completed by September 1st. It will be in dimensions 25x50 feet, and will contain a fire place and all other essentials of the early settler's home in the Northwest.

The fair management has arranged to have Pioneer Days one long to be remembered, not only by those who participate in the exercises and festivities of this occasion, but by those who are privileged to witness this great event. It is the intention to admit all real pioneers free of charge at the gates on that day and serve them with lunch at the log cabin. The cooking will be done in the open as in the days of camp life and all will be welcome to feast on the things provided.

Among other numbers on the program this year will be a buffalo chase with a real live buffalo, an Indian massacre, a thrilling stage hold-up, a mock-scalping, and other equally exciting events. Many of the old pioneers who acted as scouts, pony riders, hunters and trappers, will take part, dressed in the regalia of early days. Hon. W. P. Winans, Lewis Morris of Walla Walla, Dan Drumheller of Spokane, Joseph McEvoy and Felix Warren,—men whose names are mile-stones in the Northwest history, will be there to participate in the parade and show.

For choice cold meats for your lunch, call on Peoples' Cash Market, 11.

Harry Turner, who farms in Sand Hollow, was in town Saturday selling wheat, which made an average of 17 bushels. Most of this was of the club variety.

O. J. Cox, Rhea creek dairyman, was in town Saturday with some of his butter. Mr. Cox states that the grasshoppers have been a menace to everything green in his neighborhood.

Hugh Curran was a Heppner visitor Saturday.

E. C. Maddock came over from Coudon last Friday evening.

L. D. Neill, prominent Butter creek farmer and stockman, was in the city Saturday.

W. D. Newlon is visiting in Heppner and incidentally having his car repaired.

Lee Mead, local operator at the depot, made a trip to The Dalles last Thursday.

Mrs. Roy Glasscock returned home last Friday after having spent a week in Portland.

Frank Glasscock was in the city from his farm on upper Blackhorse on Saturday.

Oscar Keithley of Eight Mile, is now busily engaged hauling his '14 wheat crop to town.

James Carty, well known stockman of Wells Springs, attended to matters of business in this city last week.

County Clerk Hill went to Portland Saturday to spend several days looking after some business matters.

Jack McCullough and S. W. Fioren were farmers of upper Willow creek doing business in Heppner Saturday.

Mike Marshall, prominent sheepman of the lower sand country, was transacting business in Heppner on Saturday.

W. J. Beamer was in from Parkers Mill on Saturday. Mr. Beymer has summer range for his sheep in that section.

Lowell Twitchell came in from C. C. Rhea's Friday. Mr. Twitchell has been assisting Mr. Rhea with his wheat harvest.

Waldo Vincent, prominent Butter creek rancher and stockman, transacted business in the county seat town on Saturday.

T. G. Denisee, local contractor and builder, is this week installing some new mirrors in the dining room of the Palace Hotel.

Miss Myrtle Ham returned to Portland Saturday after visiting at the home of Mrs. John Rasmus in Heppner for several days.

Clarence Hesselstine, formerly a teacher in our rural schools, is in the county again looking for a position. He expects to get a school near Ione.

W. G. McCarty and wife and their daughter, Miss Murrell, were weekend visitors in the city from their Sand Hollow home.

Lewis Miller, employee at the Phill Cohn warehouse, spent Saturday at The Dalles on business. He returned to this city Sunday.

Dr. John B. Dye, dentist, returned to Ione last Wednesday after an absence of six weeks visiting in the East. The doctor is at his old location in the Ione Hotel.

T. D. Burns, engineer on the local train, has been on the sick list the past week. Nick Carter of The Dalles has been at the throttle during the absence of Mr. Burns.

Mrs. A. J. Hicks has moved her household goods to Heppner and will make this place her home for the future, she having sometime ago purchased an interest in the Star Hotel from Jeff Neel.

Glenn Jones took out a dozen young pheasants Thursday night. He will turn them out along Rhea creek on their farm. He received the birds from the agricultural farm of O. A. C. at Corvallis.

Frank Munkers and wife drove over from Lexington in their auto Saturday. They were accompanied by F. D. Cox, Jr., and wife, who were just returning from a honeymoon of two weeks spent in Portland.

R. J. Carsner, prominent stockman and rancher of the Spray district, transacted business in Heppner on Thursday last. Like some more of his neighbors, Mr. Carsner now rides in style, being the owner of a Ford.

E. R. Huston and family of Eight Mile, visited with relatives and friends in Heppner last Thursday and Friday. Mr. Huston is a member of the Morrow County Fair Board, as well as the democratic nominee for county clerk.

Mrs. Hester Parrish and little son returned to Portland Saturday, after visiting with relatives in this city for some time. Mrs. Parrish is the daughter of C. W. Lawson. Her former home was at Newberg but she may return here to live.

Vern Brumbaugh, fireman on the Heppner local for several months past, has been transferred to the Shaniko branch, where he has already taken up the work. He will move his family to Shaniko as soon as he has secured a suitable house.

A. L. Fish, manager of the Oregon Journal of Portland had placed his order with the secretary of the Pendleton Round Up for 1200 reserved seats. The Journal will run several de luxe trains to the Round Up this year, as they have in years past.

H. H. Hoffman, Loy Turner and Oscar Borg returned from their outing in the mountains last Friday. They were camped over near the head of Butter creek and report that they had an excellent time. They saw lots of deer, but refrained from shooting them, strictly observing Gov. West's holiday, so far as the deer season was concerned. Mr. Turner says they succeeded in getting some good target practice.
