Model Northwestern Farm.

Few better examples of a modern northwestern farm may be found than the model ranch pictured above. Here are large, roomy barns, an accessible silo of late type, and excellent provisions for taking care of the stock. In the foreground is seen growing kale, which furnishes abundant and excellent feed for the stock. The arrangement of the two barns in one corner of the barnyard is particularly advantageous in the handling of supplies.

It may be of interest to know that this farm is located at Deer Island, Oregon, on the line of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railroad.
