LAND PRODUCTS SHOW LARGE IN ITS SCOPE

Manufacturers' and Land Products Show.

As it draws near the opening of the Manufacturers' and Land Products Show, October 26th, 1914, the Exhibits Committee are beginning to realize the great importance and the wonderful scope that this exposition is taking. It was first thought that nearly all of the products and manufactured wares could be displayed in one or two buildings, but as county after county of Oregon, Southern Oregon and Washington commence to realize the importance—through publicity—of this exposition, they have secured space ranging from 100 to 600 square feet, for the purpose of displaying grains, grasses, fruits, and products of the farm and orchard.

St. Helens Hall, an Episcopal school for girls, in Portland, was damaged by fire last Thursday morning, causing a loss of from $50,000 to $75,000. The fire originated in the attic, and had it been a week later, it would have found from 50 to 60 girls in the building. No one was hurt.

Fire in Albany last Thursday destroyed half of a business block and entailed a loss of $27,000.

President Wilson has asked the House and Senate, in a joint meeting, to devise a means by which $100,000,000 may be raised annually, this to be levied in the form of a war tax.

Jackson county is completing a 13 mile scenic road over the Siskiyou mountains, a part of the Pacific highway.

All classes of food stuffs continue to raise in price. Fresh meats made another sensational jump during the past week. Bread stuffs are on the rise all over the country. Oregon apple growers are much alarmed over the market prospects. For some years past, a large portion of apples grown in this state have been marketed abroad, but it now seems probable that this market will be lost to the 1914 crop. In that event with a large increase in production throughout the country, apples promise to be lower in price than in some years.

Astoria Municipal Docks Contract.
Astoria, Ore., Sept. 8 (Special)—The contract for the superstructure of Astoria's big municipal docks, the finest on the Pacific Coast, has been let to C. L. Houston, a local contractor, for the sum of $123,350.00. This is the third contract awarded on the structure, the first and second being to J. A. McEachern & Co. of Seattle and the Tacoma Dredging Co. of Tacoma for the total sum of $340,000.00 for piling and dredging. The new docks are being built under the direction of the Port of Astoria Commission, and the present contracts include the first two units only. The entire project will approximate $1,000,000.

Heppnerites Victims of Fire.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clingan, formerly of this place, were sufferers from the recent fire at Burns. Both Mr. Clingan and his wife are engaged in business over there, he being interested in a livery stable and she in the millinery business. The fire destroyed $70,000 worth of property in the town. Mrs. Clingan suffered an entire loss of her goods, amounting to $500, with no insurance, and all the horses owned by Mr. Clingan were burned. The livery barn was partially insured.

Does Prohibition Fulfill Its Promises?

Thinking people of every religious creed and political belief should give earnest heed to the expressions of opinion from eminent divines, educators, editors, governors, judges, legislators, and others prominent in every walk of life, who have publicly voiced their sentiments concerning prohibition in words similar to these:

"Prohibition drives underground the mischief which it seeks to cure, making it more difficult to deal with the evil and impossible to regulate the trade." Bishop Hall, Vermont.

"Prohibition has been disastrous to the cause of temperance." Bishop Clark, Rhode Island.

These men are sincere and conscientious. They deplore drunkenness and cry against it as a great evil. Who, indeed, does not? Yet they know from observation and experience, that prohibition does not put a check upon intemperance but that, on the contrary, it gives rise to evils even greater than intemperance itself.

NO NECESSITY FOR SO MUCH SICKNESS

What You Should Do to Keep Well as Cold Weather Approaches.

There is no real necessity for the large amount of sickness, both trivial and serious, in the fall. The body is built to adjust itself to extremes of temperature and to wide varieties in weather conditions. The one principal thing necessary for the body to make the adjustment needed for weather changes, is simply good care. If we eat properly and take good care of the body we can be well in fall and spring, in summer and winter; we can have all-the-year-around health.

Many of our fall disorders are made possible by reason of a "run down" condition of the body, due to summer overeating. The hot weather makes it impossible for the body to burn up the amount of heavy food frequently eaten. The unused food fills the body with waste materials, overworks the vital organs, and lowers the disease-resisting power, so that by fall the body is ready to take in whatever disease is prevalent. If the fall finds you "run down," cut out all heavy food for a few days, eating only fruits and vegetables, and see to it that the body's great sewers, the bowels and the skin, are wide open. A few days of this treatment will clean out the system, rest the vital organs and prevent an attack of illness. Following this, heavy food may be cautiously consumed.

The body to keep itself warm, needs more of the fats, such as butter, bacon, fat meats and oils for food; also slightly more of the starches, such as breads of every kind, potatoes, rice and cereals. An increase in the meats is also needed as the cool weather advances. However, care should be taken not to overeat. Overeating is an almost universal habit.

Bad air plays an important part in causing our fall colds, sore throats and other disorders that develop as we begin to house ourselves up, after practically living out of doors during the summer. As cold weather approaches, don't neglect to open wide the bed room windows at night and to open up the house and change the air during the middle of the day.

Disorders of digestion make up a greater part of all diseases, because abuse of the stomach is the commonest form of health abuse.

2,000 Men Pledge Dry Vote.
When Billy Sunday, the famous baseball evangelist, spoke in Portland on Oregon dry to an audience of 2,000 men, he asked all those who were going to vote dry to stand up. Everyone in the great crowd stood up and thunderously repeated the promise to vote dry.

It's "Let'er Buck, Oregon."

Further evidence that the famous slogan of the Round-up is a synonym for Pendleton was had this morning when Mrs. Roy Horn received a letter addressed to her from Santa Rosa, California, by her husband as follows: "Mrs. Roy Horn, Let'er Buck, Oregon." The letter came through without missing a connection.—Pendleton East Oregonian.

Ships Bucks to Montana.
Leet Paine got in from Monument on Thursday last with a shipment of two cars of bucks that went out from the Heppner yards on Saturday. These were delivered at this place to Tom Boylen who takes them to Billings, Montana. Mr. Paine states that there are few fine wool sheep left in Oregon any more, and the demand for this class of stuff is beginning to grow quite strong. He realized a good price per head for the bucks and is propagating more of the same class.

Mr. Paine owns one of the very best stock ranches in the Monument section, and while he has for years largely given over his holdings to the running of sheep, he is now beginning to branch out and is going into hog raising quite extensively. He has had plenty of feed around to take care of a bunch of hogs, as well as some cattle for his own consumption but has not thought it worth while to do a commercial business in the hog line. The coming season he will have a large number of porkers for sale, and hopes to help to a considerable extent in supplying the demand for sausage necessary to feed the German army.

A Neighboring Act.
The Frank Moyer heading and threshing outfit pulled into the field of Robert Van Horn, of Blackhorse, one day the past week and put the old gentleman's crop in the sack for him, and after the job was completed in good shape, they silently pulled out again. It took the crew just a day to complete the work, all of which was done without compensation on the part of Mr. Van Horn. For more than a year past, Mr. Van Horn has been an invalid and confined the greater part of the time to his bed and not able to perform any manual labor, so when the time arrived that his little crop of grain should be harvested, his neighbors took it upon themselves to attend to the job and save their sick neighbor all the expense in connection therewith that they could. J. W. Marlatt furnished the sacks, Frank Moyer donated the use of his outfit, the men at work with him gladly furnished their labor, and Mr. Van Horn was made to realize that he is dwelling among a lot of mighty good neighbors who are always willing and ready to help a fellow man in time of need.

NEWSPAPER MAN NOW CAMPAIGN MANAGER

O. C. Leiter, of Oregonian Staff to Manage Hanley's Campaign For Senator.

O. C. Leiter, for 10 years city editor of the Oregonian, has resigned that position to become political manager for William Hanley, Progressive Candidate for United States Senator.

In announcing his resignation, timent from the newspaper business for the present regardless of the result of the approaching political campaign. Horace E. Thomas, for several years assistant city editor of the paper, succeeds his former chief, and Walter R. May, it is stated, has been named to succeed Thomas.

"I am leaving newspaper work and casting my fortune with Mr. Hanley," said Mr. Leiter, "because of my personal regard for him. I have formed a strong personal attachment for Mr. Hanley, and honestly believe that he is senatorial timber, and if elected will be a credit to the state. Mr. Hanley intends to make a vigorous campaign of the state through the newspapers and by speech-making in every county and I shall have charge of this campaign."

Mr. Leiter has been in the employ of the Oregonian for almost 14 years. He started first as College man when a student at Stanford University and reporter, then becoming a full fledged reporter. He was appointed assistant city editor to succeed Henry E. Reed, now County Assessor and became city editor in November, 1904.

In making known Mr. Leiter's resignation, E. B. Piper, managing editor, says: "Mr. Leiter resigns after years of faithful and efficient service. The change will probably occur this week. Mr. Leiter's resignation is accepted with regret. He goes with the good will of the Oregonian and the regret of the staff."

Mr. Leiter has opened headquarters for the Hanley campaign at the Oregon Hotel where he will be glad to see the friends and supporters of Mr. Hanley, and also to have them address him.

Rev. J. D. Crooks Is Acquitted.

After a trial at Moscow, Idaho, lasting for seven days, Rev. J. D. Crooks, well known Methodist minister, was acquitted of the charge of murdering his wife. Because of the prominence of Rev. Crooks and his wide acquaintance throughout this section, there was much interest in the outcome of the preliminary hearing. While the case was gone into quite thoroughly there was nothing produced to substantiate the charge of murder, and no grounds for holding him to the higher court could be laid. Rev. Crooks was in attendance at the annual conference of his church at Weston the past week.
