THE DOG'S EULOGY

A memorial was recently erected to the memory of Senator George Graham Vest at Warrensburg, Mo., in the form of a bronze tablet placed in the Vest home. It was Vest who delivered the famous eulogy on a dog, the same eulogy being delivered in a speech by Vest before a jury in court, in which the killing of a dog was involved. The eulogy has since become famous and has been printed in school readers, and has been memorized by many thousand school children in the past few years. Mr. Vest died in 1904.

His eulogy follows.
The best friend a man has in this world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter that he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name, may become traitors to their faith. The money a man has he may lose. It flies away from him perhaps when he needs it most. A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill-considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. The one absolute, unselfish friend that a man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is his dog. Gentlemen of the jury, a man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground, where the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he can be by his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer, he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounter with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens. If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies, and when the last scene of all comes, and death takes the master in its embrace and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by his grave side will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even to death.

Modern Sermon on the Mount.

Some one has said that the Sermon on the Mount can not in its literal significance be applied to modern living. For the benefit of such we give below a revised version by a Chicago Blade contributor, with the hope that it may meet the requirements of this class of persons and thus fill a long felt want:

Blessed are the rich for they shall inherit the earth, and much ado shall be made over them.

Blessed is the man who gets ahead of his neighbor, for he shall dwell in the midst of plenty.

Blessed is the shepherd who is to preside over a rich flock, for verily his salary shall be large and his family shall live in comfort.

Blessed is the maiden who getteth a rich husband, for she shall be adorned with many jewels and be clad in fine raiment.

Blessed is that one of whom all men speak well, and who is boomed in the public press, for his days shall be full of pleasure, and he shall get there forthwith.

Blessed is the man who crieth not against evil, and troubleth himself not with reform, for he shall be called a lulu and a daisy.

Blessed is the merchant who deceiveth his customers, for he shall wax exceedingly rich, and many shall be his servants.

Blessed is the politician who can successfully befool the people, for in him shall they see no guile, and he shall be speedily elected to high office.

Blessed is the manufacturer who employeth cheap labor and keepeth a sweat-shop, for verily some day he shall go into a trust and get unto himself a good bunch of money.

Blessed is the lawyer who can fool the judge, and beadle the jury, for he shall get great hire, and many clients of wealth shall come unto him.

Blessed are they who sit in the fashionable synagogues, for they shall have a cushioned seat and a great choir to sing unto them.

Woe unto ye who speak the truth, for ye shall have few friends and thy days shall be full of trouble.

Woe unto ye ministers who preach the straight gospel, for ye shall be turned town from the high places and your salaries shall not be sufficient for your needs.

Woe unto ye workers of reform, for ye shall have much vexation of spirit, and men will say all manner of evil against thee.

Woe unto ye politicians who seek to govern wisely and to make just laws for ye shall soon be cast out, and your career shall be a fizzle.

Woe unto ye who are meek and lowly of spirit, for your voices shall not be heard in the council chamber, neither shall ye cut any ice in the affairs of men.

Woe unto the merchants who seek not to beat your customers, for ye shall see the multitude pass by on the other side.

Woe unto ye who toil for the good of others, for ye shall live in poverty and men will call you fools.

Merry-Go-Round For Fair.

Stanton and Kersteter, recently of Wasco, are the proprietors of the merry-go-round which has been set up within the fair grounds. They will be here until after the fair. Their amusement plant has been in operation for several days, and they will run on Wednesdays and Saturdays until the opening of fair week, when they will run every day. The merry-go-round is modern in every respect, using steam as a power for motion and having an electric organ which plays while the swing is running.

Will Howard, Butter creek rancher and alfalfa grower, accompanied by his family, was in Heppner Saturday.

The Davenport, Spokane's handsome new $2,500,000 hotel will be formally opened tomorrow evening, when a joint banquet of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce and the Davenport Hotel Company will be given.
