FATHER WRITES SLOGAN SON DONATES POSTER

1915 Rose Festival Receives Work of Art from Famous Oregon Boy.

Portland's 1915 Rose Festival has a unique poster—the most artistic ever used and it is the work of an Oregon boy, Fred G. Cooper, now one of the world's foremost artists. His father, J. C. Cooper, of McMinnville, Oregon, wrote the winning slogan, "The Whole World Knows the Portland Rose." At his father's personal request young Cooper donated the poster to incorporate the slogan. Portland has operated with Seattle, Tacoma, Walla Walla and Spokane in securing conventions that will bring more than 250,000 visitors to Washington and Oregon.

OREGON AND WASHINGTON GAZETTEER AND BUSINESS DIRECTORY FOR 1915-16.

R. L. Polk & Co. have just issued the 1915-16 edition of the Oregon and Washington Gazetteer and Business Directory, which is the only work of the kind published. It contains an accurate business directory of every city, town and village in Oregon and Washington, and the names and addresses of country merchants and professional men, lumbermen, etc., who are located adjacent to villages; also lists of government and county officers, state boards, statutory provisions, terms of court, names of postoffices, express, telephone and telegraph offices, justices of the peace, hotels, daily and weekly newspapers, besides much other information useful to all classes of business and professional men. A descriptive sketch of each place is given, embracing various items of interest, such as location, population, distance to different points, the most convenient shipping stations, the products that are marketed, stage communications, trade statistics, and churches.

An important feature is the classified directory giving every business arranged under its special heading, this enabling subscribers to obtain at a glance a list of all houses manufacturing or dealing in any particular line of goods.

The work generally is compiled to meet the wants of the business community, and is so thorough as to deserve its liberal patronage.

A WORLD OF IMPERFECTION.

Nothing is perfect in this world. The perfect man or woman is still to be born. Even the angels have their imperfections.

Since the world was created, the imperfections of man have baffled science. Wars have played their brutal havoc from the time when Cain slew his brother.

Humanity has been scourged from time immemorial by dreadful diseases, but the same diseases exist today. Countless cures have been proclaimed for cancer, consumption and other scourges of humanity and all have failed.

Scientific medical discoveries, like vaccination for smallpox, have put an end to the frightful epidemics of the earlier ages, but medical skill is still baffled and the mystery of the origin of cancer is matched by the mystery of the origin of the common wart or the prevailing baldness among men and women.

Astronomers measuring the height of the mountains of the moon and the orbits of the planets are still unable to solve the riddles of the universe. It is only a conjecture that Mars is inhabited. How little we know of the spots on the sun and the possibilities of their influence on our climate. Astrology has its believers and the psychic forces are recognized but still defy the investigator.

In the physical world how many theories we have had regarding the origin, purpose and effect of the Gulf Stream. Who has been able to solve the riddle of the germinating seed or the problem of life in the animal or vegetable kingdom?

Astronomers tell us that constellations spring out of the universe over night, as the new-born child appears in a household. The whole world, animate and inanimate, is so mysterious that our boasted scientists, discoverers and searchers for the light concede their inability to do more than speculate on the possibilities and probabilities of modern research in lifting the veil.

The mystery of man, his creation, his future, the whole realm of psychical investigation, of mesmeric influence, and telepathic power remain in the unsearchable depths.

Why are some hallucinations so strong with men and women that the asylums for the insane are crowded? Why does credulity number its countless victims day after day and year after year—filling poorhouses, jails and the Potters' Field?

It is remarkable that even in this enlightened century of progress, some things go wrong and that all sorts of quick remedies to correct evils that have always existed in imperfect man are urged by lawmakers, themselves full of imperfection?

It is only the dreamer who dreams that legislation can make a perfect world. It is only the theorist who talks of a perfect man. Man is made in the image of his Maker, but the Maker alone is perfect.—Leslie's Weekly.

WATER POWER POSSIBILITIES IN OREGON.

According to advanced copies of the 1914 Oregon Almanac, the estimate of Leonard Lundgren, Hydro-electrical Engineer in the forest service, with headquarters in Portland, Oregon, gives the rated capacity of the plants already installed and operating in the State of Oregon as 160,000 horsepower, of which 106,760 horsepower is operated in Clackamas county. A tentative estimate made by U. S. Geological Survey, places the power resources of Oregon at 3,500,000 horsepower.

The latest reports show that the existing markets are abundantly supplied; but the various power companies are indicating their optimistic viewpoint in regard to the future growth of their business by making engineering studies on undeveloped sites, and thereby preparing for additional demands for electrical power. These demands will arise with the increase in population and with the growth of manufactures. The public utilities supplying the Portland market have prepared for this future growth through the installation of machinery to furnish 30,000 horsepower in excess of the present demand.

"That Rascal Pat" Again.

Owing to the fact that a great many people were unable to see "That Rascal Pat" on the evening of March 16, it has been decided to put the sketch on the stage again. This time the farce will be produced in the High School Auditorium on the evening of Easter Monday, April 5th. However, the vocal solos and recitations will be different from the last rendering. The price of admission will remain the same, and as before, tickets will be on sale at Patterson & Son's Drug Store.

ENCOURAGE THE CHILDREN.

Many of the school children over the county are going in for industrial work, such as gardening, chicken raising, cooking, sewing, and fruit canning. These children will receive an unlimited amount of encouragement from their teachers in the school but the greater part of the work must necessarily be done in the home. Will the parents give their children the proper encouragement? We believe they will. The industrial work which is being carried on by the State Board of Education, is of a most practical nature; it simply amounts to giving the pupil something outside of pure book learning; something which will appeal to his nature, and something that will eventually reflect to the state many times the cost of the instruction. The parents must cooperate. Take an interest in that in which your children are interested and give them your encouragement.

In Portland Tuesday, 1647 new names were added to the new Chamber of Commerce in the membership campaign which that body is waging at the present time, thereby setting a new world's record. It is the hope of this organization to add 25,000 new names to its roster before the campaign closes.
