PERSONAL MENTION.

Miss Muriel Cason of Ione, was a Friday visitor in Heppner.

Chas. Hemrich was transacting business in Heppner Tuesday.

Percy Jarmon motored in from his Butter creek farm Monday.

Chas. Hams and wife, of Hardman, were passengers to Portland Monday morning.

George Peck, who now lives west of Lexington, spent Sunday in Heppner visiting with friends.

Thos. Quid was up from Portland several days the past week looking after his various property interests in Morrow county.

John H. Hayes arrived in the city Monday evening from his home in Portland. He will take in the Morrow county fair this week.

If its anything in painting or paperhanging, we do it.
BRADFORD & SON,
 Phone, Main 553.

Miss Elizabeth Ware went to her home at Mosier Saturday after spending the summer in Morrow county as county evangelist for the Christian church.

W. O. Minor and family, accompanied by Mrs. E. Minor and Ellis Irwin, returned home Saturday from Rockaway, where they spent their summer vacation.

Rev. W. T. Goulder who was pastor of the M. E. church in this city, has been continued at Tanager for the coming year, by the conference just closed at Roseburg.

"Rube" Hughes and "Butch" Gordon returned Sunday from Cecil where they have been assisting in putting up the third alfalfa crop on the Jack Hynd place.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvie E. Young were in the city from their Eight Mile home this week. They have been kept busy receiving congratulations from their many friends.

Jesse O. Turner was in the city Saturday from the Turner ranch in Sand Hollow. He will leave for Corvallis the last of the week to re-enter the Oregon Agricultural College.

Rev. Clarence Reynolds and Mrs. Reynolds, of Ione, spent Friday evening in Heppner as guests at the home of Rev. T. S. Handsaker. Mr. Reynolds is pastor of the Christian church in Ione.

Miss Edith Thorley departed Saturday for Forest Grove where she will attend the Pacific University through the winter. Miss Thorley graduated in the June class from Heppner high school.

Miss Virginia Crawford returned home Friday after an absence of two months. While away, Miss Crawford attended the Oregon State convention of the Christian church at Turner, and visited with friends at Tillamook and Portland.

Jas. Farley, of Heppner, bought a band of 1500 head of lambs this week to be a very fine band. Mr. Farley from J. A. Pope. The lambs are said paid $3.50 which is considered a good buy. He is also figuring on the L. Sweek band.—Canyon City Eagle.

John Brosnan, the Lena stockman, was a Heppner visitor Saturday. Mr. Brosnan is very well pleased with the new mail service at Lena and says it is a great improvement over the old. According to Mr. Brosnan, people on the Lena route get the Portland mail before residents of Heppner do.

J. C. Leggett, of Salt Lake City and Mr. Keeney of Monument were in Heppner Sunday. Mr. Leggett, who is an importer of high grade stallions has been disposing of his stock to farmers in Harney and Grant counties. He expects to be in Heppner again soon. The gentlemen returned to Monument Sunday evening, making the trip by auto.

Forest Reserve Timber Is Sold

The District Forester at Portland opened bids September 3 on 98 million feet of timber on the Olympic Forest in Washington. The Snow Creek Logging Company of Seattle, which has been operating on National Forest land near Sequim Bay for several years, was the successful bidder, the rates bid being $1.70 per thousand for western red cedar, $1.15 for Douglas fir and Sitka spruce, and 50 cents for hemlock and amabilis fir. The tract lies on the watershed of Snow Creek in twps. 28 and 29 N., R. 2 W. Thirty-three per cent of the stand is Douglas fir and thirty-eight per cent western red cedar.

Mr. C. A. Barrett of Entiat, Washington, was recently taken before the Justice of Peace on a charge of setting fire to a slashing without obtaining a burning permit in accordance with the requirement of the state law. Mr. Barrett pled guilty and was fined $25.00 and costs. In default of payment he was committed to the county jail to serve out the sentence.

Will Have New Pastor.

Rev. W. B. Smith is to be the new pastor at Heppner of the M. E. church, South, according to an announcement from the conference of that church just closed at Roseburg. We are informed that Rev. Smith will arrive at Heppner the end of the week and will take up the duties of his pastorate here at once. The M. E. church has been without a pastor for the past year, and we understand that an agreement has been reached between the Federated church, who have also been without a preacher most of the year, and the M. E. church whereby the new pastor will occupy the pulpit at the Federated church and the two congregations unite for a year's work in this manner. A very sensible arrangement to our way of thinking, and one that should be maintained to the mutual benefit of all concerned.

"THE LION OF VENICE," AT HOME SEPT. 17-18

Mr. George Kliene, who gave "Quo Vadis?", "Anthony and Cleopatra," "The Last Days of Pompeii" and other photoplay masterpieces to the American public, is frequently credited with having made ancient Rome familiar to the twentieth-century United States through the medium of these productions. Each of these stupendous spectacles reproduces with historical accuracy some given period in the history of the Eternal City, and taken all together comprise an exposition of Roman History such as was undreamed of before the advent of George Kliene Attractions in the American amusement field.

In Mr. Kliene's latest triumph, "The Lion of Venice," a new phase of European history is touched, another age made to live again upon the screen. The story deals with that transitional stage of history that lies between the middle ages and modern times, when Venice was the center of the world's culture and Venetian vessels carried the commerce of the world and completely ruled the seas. In "The Lion of Venice" the fifteenth century is as faithfully depicted as is the first in "Quo Vadis?" or the "Cleopatra." The spectacle thus ranks high among the educational productions of the age. But "The Lion of Venice" does not depend entirely upon its historical interest for success. Indeed, its educational value is only secondary to its splendid qualities as a spectacular amusement feature. Titanic in its proportions, gripping in the intensity of its dramatic scenes, awe-inspiring in its beauty and magnificence, it already has won the plaudits of the nation's leading critics and the praise of the most discriminating audiences the country can produce. A story of love and battle, of rosy romance and ruthless hate, forms the thread upon which are strung a succession of wonder-compelling scenes. "The Lion of Venice" is divided into six splendid parts, each one of which teems with splendid features. It will be shown at the Home Theater tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday nights.

Driving the Ants Out of House and Home.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Sept. 13.—Ants, particularly troublesome this time of year, may be controlled with considerable success by smearing a mixture of three parts tartar emetic and four parts syrup on bits of china or wood and placing this bait about the runways of the ants. This is a slow-acting poison, of which the ants eat enough to poison themselves and also carry away enough to poison their young. In this way the entire colony may be exterminated.

Where it is possible to locate the colonies outside the house the ants may be exterminated by the carbon bisulphide treatment. For killing off a large, well-established colony about an ounce of carbon bisulphide is required. It is placed in a shallow dish on the opening of the colony runway and covered with a galvanized tub or other vessel that is inverted over the dish. All openings from the colony not covered by the tub should be closed with dirt pressed down slightly. The gas then formed is allowed to act for about six hours, when the treatment is applied to another colony.

The action of the bisulphide is thus explained by Professor A. L. Lovett, assistant entomologist of the Oregon Agricultural College, who prepared the foregoing recommendations: The bisulphide is obtained in liquid form, which, upon exposure to the air, is transformed to gas. This gas is heavier than air and permeates down to the very bottom of the colony home, where its deadly properties destroy the ants. If the colonies are near a tree care should be taken that not too much is used or it may injure the tree. The gas is highly inflammable and must not be opened near a fire, nor exposed to smoking.

Creamery Company Will Dissolve.

At a meeting of the Morrow County Creamery & Cold Storage Company, held on Monday afternoon at the Council chambers in Heppner, it was decided to dissolve the corporation and retire the company from business. There was a representative attendance of stock subscribers present, and after going over the situation quite thoroughly, the above decision was reached.

A considerable amount of stock had been paid in, and bills and expenses incurred on account of the organization had been paid to the amount of six hundred dollars or better, leaving a balance of cash on hand of about $1000. In order that all may share their proportion of the liabilities paid and remaining unpaid of the company, it was decided that final dissolution of the affairs of the corporation be postponed until the first Monday in October. This will give opportunity for taking up the matter with the delinquent stock subscribers and have them contribute their share of the expense money and not have it all fall on those who paid up their subscriptions promptly. If the delinquents respond as they should, the burden will not rest heavily upon any. After the first Monday in October, the Morrow County Creamery & Cold Storage Company will be a thing of memory only.

KRYPTOK LENSES

(Worn by over 250,000 people)

For in all other two-vision lenses there is a line or seam between the near and far vision portions that makes the wearer look less than his best, and unmistakably brands him or her with a sign of age.

Kryptoks are double-vision lenses that look exactly like regular one-vision lenses because there are no lines or seams in them.

Dr. Winnard can supply these lenses

Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.
