SOME OF THE BEST
FROM "JUDGE"

Not For Himself.

Donald, a boy of ten years, had been sent to an apothecary store and told to get a package of cigarettes for his father and a rubber nipple for his baby sister's nursing bottle. The druggist declined to give the boy the cigarettes fearing that he wanted them for himself. Indignant because of this impugning of his veracity after he had said that the cigarettes were for his father, the boy said, "Huh! I s'pose you think that the nipple is for me, too, don't you?"

His Thought.

The recruiting had been good, and the orator of the occasion felt reasonably well satisfied with himself.
It would be graceful, he thought, to speak a few concluding words to the score of men who had dedicated themselves to "King and Country."
"And what will you think when you see the flag of the Empire standing out from its staff, above the field of battle?" the speaker demanded, his face alight with patriotic fervor."Standin' straight out, Gov'nor?" a stolid recruit questioned earnestly.
"Why, er, yes!" the orator responded in some confusion.
"I should think, then," the future Tommy announced gravely, "that the wind was blowin'—'ard!"

His Worst Fears Confirmed.

Carraway was craning his neck for a better view of the turkey.
"Rubber!" said the landlady.
"I feared as much," said Carraway with a sigh.

Sale Ho!

"He is a good salesman, isn't he, Henry?" asked Mrs. Peck.
"Good salesman?" replied Henry Peck. "Is he a good salesman? That man, Belinda, could sell water heaters to Brigham Young; yes, and he could have sold 'em to Solomon, and the Lord only knows how many wives Solomon had to keep him in hot water!"

Unseenly Haste.

Joy Rider (stopped by rural constable)—Haven't we got any rights left in this country. Doesn't the constitution guarantee us life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness?Constable—It don't guarantee no man the pursuit of happiness at 90 miles an hour.

Getting Back at the Priest.

An Irishman was reproved by his priest for eating sausages on Friday.
"Sure, Father Tim, ye don't call sausages meat?" he protested.
"Certainly they are meat," said his reverence.The next day the Irishman appeared at the priest's house with a load of sawdust."But, Michael, I did not order any sawdust; it was wood I ordered."
"And isn't it wood I've brought ye?""No, it isn't; it's saw dust."
"But, Father Tim, if sausage it meat, sure isn't sawdust wood?"— Boston Transcript.

Earning His Tip.

"Now, guard," said Mr. Pilkington to the English railway official, "remember if I have this carriage all to myself for the entire journey, you will receive a half crown from me."
"Very good, sir," said the guard, and he locked the door and went to his brake to think how he could invest that half crown when he got it.
All went well till they got to a station about the middle of the journey, and then an irascible gentleman pulled at the door of Pilkington's carriage."Guard, guard," he called, "open this door! I know your tricks. I've got the right to travel in this carriage and I mean to do it!"The guard hurried up; but, wonder of wonders, he whispered a few words to the irascible gentleman, after which that gentleman went quietly away to seek room elsewhere."How did you manage it?" Pilkington asked the guard at the end of the journey, as he pressed the promised half crown into his hand. "How did you manage to get that bad-tempered old chap to go away so quietly?""Oh, that was easy," replied the guard. "I only just told 'im you were a bit wrong in the 'ead.'"—Philadelphia Ledger.
