THE PRESIDENT'S THANKS-GIVING PROCLAMATION

It has long been the honored custom of our people to turn in the fruitful Autumn of the year in praise and thanksgiving to Almighty God for his many blessings and mercies to us as a Nation. The year that is now drawing to a close since we last observed our day of National thanksgiving has been, while a year of discipline because of the mighty forces of war and of changes which have disturbed the world, also a year of special blessing for us.

Another year of peace has been vouchsafed us; another year in which not only to take thought of our duty to ourselves and to mankind, but also to adjust ourselves to the many responsibilities thrust upon us by a war which has involved almost the whole of Europe.

We have been able to assert our rights and the rights of mankind without breach of friendship with the great nations with whom we have had to deal, and while we have asserted rights, we have been able also to perform duties and exercise privileges of succor and helpfulness which should serve to demonstrate our desire to make the offices of friendship the means of truly disinterested and unselfish service.

Our ability to serve all who could avail themselves of our services in the midst of a crisis, has been increased by a gracious Providence, by more and more abundant crops; our ample financial resources have enabled us to steady the markets of the world and facilitate necessary movement of commerce which the war might otherwise have rendered impossible; and our people have come more and more to a sober realization of the part they have been called upon to play in a time when all the world is shaken by unparalleled distresses and disasters.

The extraordinary circumstances of such a time have done much to quicken our National consciousness and deepen and confirm our confidence in the principles of peace and freedom by which we have always sought to be guided.

Out of darkness and perplexities have come firmer counsels of policy and clearer perceptions of the essential warfare of the Nation. We have prospered while other people were at war, but our prosperity has been vouchsafed us, we believe, only that we might the better perform the functions which war rendered it impossible for them to perform.

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, the twenty-fifth of November next, as a day of Thanksgiving and prayer, and invite the people throughout the land to cease from their wonted occupations and in their several homes and places of worship render thanks to Almighty God.

Oregon Beef Outlook as Viewed by Expert.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Nov. 8.—The supply of marketable beef has been cleaned up early and with remarkable thoroughness, the feature of the trade being large eastern shipments. This reverses the conditions of the last three years in which heavy shipments of beef were made into Oregon from points as far east as the Rocky Mountains. This condition encouraged increased production in Oregon and growers confronted the condition of large bodies of marketable stuff with coast markets demanding less than usual. Hence the shipments east, which went largely to Omaha and Kansas City.

The present situation, summed up by Professor E. L. Potter, head of the Agricultural College Animal Husbandry department, is that local prices of marketable beef are a little lower than normal and prices of feeders considerably lower. This fact has caused the eastern shipments. The degree of the local depression is shown by a comparison of prices of feeders for the last three years, which were as follows: Prices of feeders two years ago were $6.75, one year ago, $6.25 to $6.50 and this year, $5.75. This was for good stuff near railway shipping points.

Only small lots of feeders are going into the feeding grounds of Eastern Oregon and other livestock districts, since feeders lost money the last two years and are unwilling to take chances this year. Feed is scarce and pastures light, due to light rainfalls and rather poor hay crops. Prevailing growing conditions are usually followed by late growing weather the following spring, so that the feeding season is likely to be prolonged at both ends.

"Notwithstanding these facts," said Professor Potter, "hay prices remain about normal, the lack of demand for fattening about balancing the light crops and rather heavy supply of stock cattle on hand. There will probably be no big supply for the Portland market in the next few months, but the demand for meat is slow and western buyers will probably be willing to get on with rather less than the usual until the demand improves."

The Heppner Light & Water Company has completed the work of wiring both lone and Lexington, but a delay in turning on the current has been caused by the failure of the transformers to arrive.

SIXTH GRADERS COMPOSE

The pupils of the sixth grade of the Heppner public school, under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. C. W. Shurte, have been delving into the realms of poetry in connection with their language work. We print herewith one of their first attempts at this style of literature.

SUMMER DAYS.
 The happy days have come, the gladdest of the year,
 Of sparkling brooks and darting trout, berries red and queer.
 Deep in the hollow of the woods the summer flowers are found,
 They are plucked by all the passers by and carried to camping grounds.
 The robin and the dove have come, their nest to build on high,
 Among the trees they feel so safe and never have to sigh.

Where are the roses, the sweet smelling roses that the wind tosses to and fro?
 The brightest colors, the sweetest scents, the prettiest flowers that grow.

Why they are just budding, this gentle race of flowers,
 They are going to blossom soon again in this June month of ours.
 The sun is shining where they stand, the gentle rain drops down.

And the automobiles with their honk remind us of the spell,
 We hurry then to pack our trunks and count our surplus wealth.
 We're glad to find we have enough and so can improve our health.

And so we meet our friends down by the ocean side,
 Those whom perhaps for years we have not been beside.
 We ate out lunch upon the beach and fed the sea gulls there.

We watched the tide go in and out as we sat on the sand so bare.
 The time to leave comes all too soon, but when we thought of home,
 We said goodbye with a pleasant smile

And hid away from the foam.
 The Star theater management announce that Charlie Chaplin will appear as a special feature each week on ednesday and Thursday and again on Sunday night. The Mutual Weekly of current events will also prove interesting to the movie fans.

J. E. Craber, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Heppner Sanatorium, has improved greatly. He was removed this week to the home of his father-in-law Dan Rice, in north Heppner.

Miss Kitty Willmot, of lone, arrived in the city Monday evening to help nurse Mrs. Pearl Hendry, who is very ill at the Heppner sanatorium.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Boyer at their farm home on Hinton creek last Friday.

A. J. Hunt and wife were Heppner visitors last Saturday from Clarks canyon.
