He named over to himself all the printers of his Town until he came to the name of a certain shop whose work was synonymous with excellence, and his face lighted up as with exceeding great joy he went to the telephone and called—

PATRIOTIC PREPAREDNESS CONVENTION

Astoria, Ore., March 7.—Spokane will be the scene of a unique convention to be held on Monday and Tuesday, March 27-28, 1916. It is called a "Patriotic Preparedness Convention," and will be attended by delegates to be named by commercial organizations, boards of county commissioners and mayors of the states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and the Dakotas.

The meeting will be a general get-together of the Northwest on the subject of Pacific coast preparedness, and will be under the joint auspices of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce, the Kalispell, Montana, Chamber of Commerce and the Columbia Naval Base committee of Astoria. Addresses will be given by military and naval experts and representative citizens of the six states participating.

The subjects which will be discussed by the convention are:

- 1st. Equipment of the mouth of the Columbia river as a first class naval base by the general government.
- 2nd. Coast defenses for the Pacific littoral of Oregon and Washington.
- 3rd. Resources of the Northwest adapted to the manufacture of munitions.

These are vital topics and bear upon the great and pressing question of national preparedness in general and of the Pacific Northwest in particular. It is expected that many illuminating facts on each topic will be brought out, and that a complete showing will be assembled for presentation to the Congress of the United States setting forth the necessity for recognition of the northwestern states in the naval and military program.
