One of the neatest pieces of machinery brought to this city for some time is the new "Butter Kist" corn popping machine just installed by R. M. Hart. The corn is untouched by hands, being automatically fed into the machine, dipped in butter, each flake receiving its equal share of attention as it passes through the various devices while getting the "but-ter kist" flavor. That the corn is highly palatable it is needless to say.

Similar Cases Occur Daily in This Vicinity.

Not only here in Heppner but in our neighboring towns, the same good story is heard. An encouraging instance from Pendleton is given here and will be read by us with great interest.

Mrs. William McGregor, 711 Lill-eth St., Pendleton, Ore., says: "I was troubled more or less all my life by weakness of my kidneys. My hands and feet and some times my whole body swelled. A steady pain in the small of my back and sides annoyed me and it was hard to straighten after stooping. When I did stoop, sharp twinges shot through my back and sides. Dizzy spells and headaches were common and I couldn't rest well. In the morning I felt all tired out. I tried many medicines and spent a great deal of money for doctoring, but got no relief. Doan's Kidney Pills cured the aches and pains in my back and regulated the action of my kidneys."

Low Price Loses out Against Low Cost

PRICE may sell some things to farmers, but price alone is a poor argument compared with the records for low cost of operation made by Mogul kerosene engines.

Because they run on kerosene, Mogul engines produce farm power at the lowest possible cost.

You know what gasoline costs. You know, too, what kerosene costs. Take the difference—multiply it by the number of gallons of fuel an engine will consume in five years, figuring one pint of fuel per horse power per hour.

At what price must you buy a gasoline engine to make it cost you as little as a Mogul does? Could you afford to accept a gasoline engine as a gift? See the dealer about this. He has the figures all worked out for you on all sizes of Mogul engines from 1 to 50 H. P.
