ANNOYING KIDNEY ILLS

Make Life Miserable for Many Heppner People.

There's nothing more annoying than kidney weakness or inability to properly control the kidney secretions. Night and day alike the sufferer is tormented and what with the burning and scalding, the attendant backache, headache and dizziness, life is indeed a burden. Doan's Kidney Pills have given peace and comfort to many Heppner people. Profit by this Heppner resident's experience.

C. W. Shurte, Heppner, says: "Several years ago, I was more or less subject to bladder trouble. The kidney secretions were unnatural and too frequent in passage. During these spells, my back felt weak and lame. After taking a few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got over the bladder trouble and my back felt as strong as ever."

LABOR ISSUE DEPICTED IN 5-REEL FEATURE FILM

Struggles Against Capital Shown in Thrilling Photodrama.

When labor is pitted against capital there is sure to be plenty of action, and all of us sure to be enlisted on one of the sides in the issue. This theme has been adapted for a film production in the Mutual Masterpiece De Luxe Edition, "The Bruiser," a five part sociological drama produced by the American Film Company, Inc., which will appear at the Star Theatre on Sunday, with William Russell and Charlotte Burton in the leading roles.

The story tells of the struggle of workmen to get higher wages from their employers. The treatment is novel and the story one of the most fascinating ever filmed. Bill Russell, played by William Russell, is a longshoreman and labor leader of a shipping company. He is delegated to obtain an increase in wages from his company. His demands are refused, and he is placed on the blacklist for his agitation. A strike results.

A rival among the men secretly in the pay of the employers tries to undermine Brawley and get his following away from him. A fight for the championship of the water front is staged and Brawley knocks out his rival. Before the labor difficulties are adjusted there are many situations replete with thrills which add to the development of the drama. A sympathetic love story is interwoven in a delightful manner and the heart interest is maintained throughout. An amicable agreement is reached between the men and the company through the efforts of Brawley and everything comes out according to schedule.

William Russell plays his role in a masterly manner, and his thousands of friends will be surprised at his effective handling of a part far different from anything he has previously done. The role is one which will add new laurels to his already long list of screen achievements. Charlotte Burton as Pen Bernham, Brawley's sweetheart, will win her audience by her sincerity and loyalty as well as by her able interpretation of a difficult role. The supporting cast is excellent.

POEM IS EXPRESSIVE.

Joy of Border Life Depicted in Missive to J. C. Watson. (Centralia Chronicle.)

J. C. Watson has received the following poem from his son, Serg. Guy Watson, describing some of the "joys" the guardsman undergo on the border:

Hell on the Rio Grande.

The devil we're told, in hell was chained; And a thousand years he there remained. He never complained, nor did he groan.

But determined to start a hell of his own, Where he could torment the souls of men Without being chained to a prison pen. So he asked the Lord if he had on hand Anything left when he made the land.

The Lord said, "Yes, I had plenty on hand. But I left it down on the Rio Grande. The fact is, old boy, the stuff is so poor I don't think you could use it in hell any more."

The devil went down to look at the truck, And said if it came as a gift, he was stuck; For, after examining carefully and well, He decided the place was to dry for hell.

So in order to get it off his hands, The Lord promised the devil to water the lands; For he had some water—or rather some dreggs—A regular cathartic that smelled like bad eggs.

Hence, the deal was closed and the deed was given, And the Lord went back to his home in heaven. And the devil then said, "It is all I needed To make a good hell," and hence, he succeeded.

He began to put thorns on all the trees; He mixed the sands with millions of fleas; He scattered tarantulas along all the roads; Put thorns on the cactus and horns on the loads.

He lengthened the horns of the Texas steers, And put an addition on Jack rabbits ears. He put a little devil in the broncho steed, And poisoned the feet of the centipede.

The heat in the summer is a hundred and ten— Too hot for the devil and too hot for the men. The wild boar roams through the black Chapparal; It's a hell of a place he has for a hell.

The red pepper grows on the banks of the brook; The Mexicans use is in all that they hook. Just dine with a greaser and then you will shout, "I have hell on the inside as well as the out."

Clarence Bisbee of Spray is visiting with relatives in Heppner this week. Miss Emma Geisler, popular young lady of Echo, is a guest of Mrs. Chas. Corder of this city.

T. J. Mahoney, cashier of the First National Bank, went to Portland on business Wednesday.

O. E. Farnsworth and wife and Mrs. L. E. Bisbee and children went to Portland Wednesday.

J. B. Cullick and Jack Ayers, farmers of Little Butte creek, were Heppner business visitors Wednesday.

R. Y. Currin of French, Idaho, is visiting this week at the home of his brother, Geo. J. Currin, in this city.

Abe Wells of Portland is visiting with his several brothers in Heppner this week. Mr. Wells is engaged in the store business in Portland, and this is his first visit to the old home town in several years.

P. D. Kibler and wife of Montrose, Ill., are visiting at the home of their daughters, Mrs. N. A. Clark and Mrs. O. M. Whittington. They will remain here two or three weeks before journeying south through California.

Mr. Kibler made a visit to Morrow county seven years ago and he is very much impressed with this country.

Glenn Finch, for nine years a mail carrier in Pendleton, was fatally injured in an automobile accident near Eastland in Umatilla county. Other occupants of the car were injured. The party were on their way to Walla Walla at the time of the accident. The other members of the party were Will McCarthy, Frank Fugit and Harvey Hanovan.

Bear Was "A-Rarin' to Go." The young bear belonging to Ad Moore was "a-rarin' to go" last Sunday morning when he broke out of his pen at the rear of McRoberts livery stable and started down the street. He took up at once with some ladies who were on their way to church, but the ladies cared not for such an escort and they beat a hasty retreat. The bear was finally enticed to his former home in the stable.
