

When you need two-vision lenses—be sure to get

KRYPTOK LENSES

(Worn by over 250,000 people)

For all other two-vision lenses there is a line or seam between the near and far vision portions that makes the wearer look less than his best, and unmistakably brands him or her with a sign of age.

Kryptok are double-vision lenses that look exactly like regular one-vision lenses because there are no lines or seams in them.

Dr. Winnard can supply these lenses

Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

PORTLAND MUSIC FIRM ENLARGES CAPACITY

Sherman Clay & Company Expanded Salesroom to Care for Rapidly Growing Business.

The result of educational work which has been conducted on victrolas, player-pianos, pianos and other musical instruments the last few years, has been made apparent by an announcement of this well known music house.

Additional frontage in the Stearns Building in Portland will be taken over September 15th by Sherman, Clay & Company. This additional space will provide facilities for a greatly enlarged display of victrolas, players, and pianos.

Sherman Clay & Company are one of the oldest music houses on the Pacific Coast, having been established in San Francisco more than fifty years ago. They are both wholesalers and retailers, and are one of the very largest music houses in the United States.

HEPPNER 25 YEARS AGO

From the Gazette of Sept. 10, 1891.

Jerry Brosnan and wife were over from their Butter creek possessions Saturday last.

Hon. Henry Blackman will attend the Salt Lake convention on irrigation of arid lands, which meets shortly. Our section will be represented.

The town crew last Tuesday evening devoured the contents of the Gazette's ink bottle, a choice number of wheat samples and several country exchanges. When it tackled some of our editorial manuscripts it had to "pass."

Pap Simmons has constructed a triangle for the Palace Hotel, which is big enough to wake the dead. Joe Masterson aroused the whole town with it a few mornings ago, and didn't exert himself very much either.

FOREST NOTES.

Practically 1,400,000 acres of land in the Appalachian and White Mountains have been approved under the Weeks Law, which authorized the Government to purchase, for National purposes, lands on the headwaters of navigable streams in these regions.

The box industry in the State of Washington uses more than a hundred million feet of lumber annually and, from the standpoint of material utilized, is the most important secondary wood using industry in the State.

Nearly two and half million feet B. M. of Douglas fir is made up into furniture in Oregon every year. Other woods used for this purpose and grown in the State are maples, ash, cottonwood, elder, oak, western red cedar, and myrtle.

As a result of the land classification of the Angeles National Forest of California, the President signed a proclamation on August 23 eliminating 99,544 acres from that Forest. The greater portion of the land involved is already in private ownership.

The efficiency of the Forest Service telephone line to the summit of Mount Hood was demonstrated last week when W. D. Scott, Division Equipment Engineer of the Pacific Telegraph & Telephone Company, visited the Mount Hood lookout station and conversed with S. H. Hess, Transmission Engineer, at San Francisco, California, a distance of 900 miles horizontally and nearly two miles vertically.

The results of the test were so satisfactory that plans are being made for a test telephone conversation between the lookout on Mount Hood and the Forester, Washington, D. C. Officials of both the Forest Service and the Telephone Company say that such a conversation can be successfully carried on. If this test is made it will be by the Company and the Forest Service working in cooperation.

There are in Oregon 32 projects for reclamation of desert land, covering 1,109,599 acres, and total amount of money needed to complete them is $54,644,000. There are 2,000,000 acres of so-called desert lands in the state which may be reclaimed to furnish homes for many people. But the trouble is, Oregon's share of the reclamation fund is spent in other states.

We will loan money on good improved farms in Morrow county and we are also prepared to make loans on improved stock ranches. If you desire a loan come and see us—if you want a loan on Heppner residence property we can arrange it for you.
