YEAR'S PROFITS IN WOOL ARE LARGE

Pendleton Men Close Most Profitable Year in Wool and Sheep Industry.

Pendleton, Ore.—Oregon Flockmasters' Record Profits.—The extraordinary prosperity which is attending the sheep and wool industry in this country is no where better illustrated than by the extensive operations of two of eastern Oregon's biggest flockmasters, R. N. Stanfield, of Pendleton and J. N. Williamson, of Prineville. Both of these men, if common report and the record of their transactions are any criterion, have made "fortunes" in the last three years in consequence of the record prices for sheep and wool.

Mr. Stanfield is generally credited with being the biggest single operator in sheep and wool in the United States. His sale of one clip of 750,000 pounds of wool last spring was said by the fraternity of wool buyers to be the largest single sale in the country.

He is also said to have purchased more than $2,000,000 worth of sheep and lambs during the past season and to have paid the highest prices known in many years, if not in the whole history of the wool industry in this section.

Mr. Stanfield is the senior of the three Stanfield brothers, who own large flocks through Eastern Oregon, Idaho, Washington and Montana. Most of the sheep he has bought will be shipped to the eastern and middle western states.

During the past year it is estimated that Mr. Stanfield cleared about a quarter of a million dollars.

Mr. Williamson's operations have not been on so extensive a scale, yet it is declared that he cleared up about $70,000 in Crook county during the past year, and has the equivalent of that sum still invested in "woolies."

"Of course, for those of us who have been in the business for years and have sold sheep at $1 a head and wool for five cents a pound, it is difficult to get our ideas and valuations adjusted to the conditions which have existed in other countries for many years," he said in a recent interview.

"About 200 years ago sheep in England went to a price that corresponds to that which they have reached in this country in the last two or three years, and they have maintained that figure with the usual variations until the present time.

"While it seems almost unreasonable to state, I cannot see any reason why sheep or wool should ever get back to the low levels that they have formerly held in this country, and they should stay somewhere near the present market quotations for a time at least."—Daily Trade Record.

this year was formerly a hop grower in the Willamette Valley. This is his first year but not his last. He says he was in the hop growing business in the Valley for eleven years and during that time managed to break even. He would not exchange his wheat ranch for all the Valley hop yards, he avers.

OUR PRESIDENT.

One of the hottest political campaigns in the history of the Nation has come to a close, the votes for the most part are all counted and President Wilson is declared the winner. The contest was one of the closest in years, which completely disproves the pre-election statements of the Democrats that Mr. Wilson would be overwhelmingly elected. The close vote indicates something also. It means that there are some eight million American voters who are dissatisfied with the administration of the past four years. No doubt President Wilson will consider this, as he has considered public opinion in the past, and put a little more back bone into the administration.

There are several unsettled questions pending. Many of them have awaited settlement until after election. It is up to President Wilson and Congress to solve these questions. The entire nation should stand firmly behind them in the next four years. Woodrow Wilson is our president. There is a time for political campaigns and there is a time for unity of purpose among the masses of men. That time has now arrived and the administration will undoubtedly need all the support we are capable of giving it. We should continue to make "America First and America Efficient" our slogan.

The Gazette-Times makes an honest attempt to cover the news field of this section in a thorough manner. It is far more than a one-man job. If something of interest transpires in your neighborhood that you believe would be of interest to your neighbors, just call up 432 and you will have the satisfaction of seeing it in print. The average news-gatherer has no more natural powers for mind reading than you have. The days of guessing at things are past. Accuracy is the only thing that counts. Co-operation on your part will be appreciated by the editor, for remember, this is your paper.

A Morrow county man has undertaken to sell 20,000 acres of Morrow county land and unless present signs fail, he will be successful. The land he has listed is selling at the present time as low as ten dollars per acre. No where in the United States is real farm land selling at such prices. Some of this land produced 25 bushels of wheat per acre this year. It is safe to say that this same land will never again sell at this low figure. To the man who wants farm land at a low figure, Morrow county offers the one last fleeting opportunity. This land for the most part is located in the northern part of the county. Realty values are already on the rise here.

THE CHAUTAUQUA.

The Heppner Commercial Club has gone on record as being opposed to a Chautauqua in Heppner during the year 1917. By this action it must not be taken that the Club is opposed to the Chautauqua itself, but more particularly is the opposition directed at the method by which the Chautauqua operates.

Many of our citizens will remember that in 1915 the Ellison-White people brought their Chautauqua to Heppner after our business men had made the necessary guarantee. The sale of tickets fell short of the required amount and the deficiency was made up by the guarantors.

Individually, our business men are not opposed to the Chautauqua. They believe that the entertainment given as a rule is first class and it is a means of bringing the town and country closer together. But as one of our citizens expressed it, "why should we give an absolute guarantee to a company which has an established business, a business that should by this time be able to assume its own risks."

Whenever the Ellison-White people will bring their entertainments to Heppner on the same business basis that every business operates, our citizens will give them their loyal and enthusiastic support. Until that time it is not likely that a few individuals will care to assume the responsibility of financing a Chautauqua.
