A GOOD PROVIDER FOR THE HOME

A WIDOW in speaking of her late husband said: "He was always a good provider." In the mind of this bereaved woman, this was a high tribute to her husband's character. It is often true that the best husband is the man who saves a part of his income for the future. By this plan he is able to provide all necessities and many of the luxuries; he constantly accumulates money and property that will safeguard his family against want when he is unable to work, or after his death.
