WOOL CAR CARRIES MANY KINDS OF WOOL

(Special to the Gazette-Times)

Corvallis, Ore., Feb. 21.—Saturday morning, February 24, at nine o'clock, the United States demonstrating wool car, under the supervision of Prof. J. F. Wilson, assistant in wool inspection in the Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington D. C., and Mr. Oran N. Nelson of the Oregon Agricultural College, will arrive in Heppner, and during the day the sheep raisers of the vicinity will have the opportunity of seeing and hearing the latest wrinkles in wool growing.

This car is prepared under the auspices of the Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington D. C., and is sent through the western country by the Bureau, in co-operation with the various states.

The object of the trip to the sheep raising sections is to educate the wool growers in regard to market grades and classes of wool; the sort of wool demanded by the market and the value of the different grades; to enforce the principles of breeding range sheep; and to show the connection between the raw product and the finished garment.

The car will carry to exhibit; six sheep showing market grades of wool; (above the sheep will be hung a case containing good and poor fleeces of same grade, and scored samples of fleece;) a textile exhibit showing all steps in the manufacture of cloth; a case containing samples of Australian and New Zealand wool; American market grades of wool under the microscope; pictures of shearing sheds, dealers' warehouses, textile mills, range scenes, breeds of sheep, etc. Samples of cloth showing the effects of sisal twine for trying fleeces after shearing and of using too much paint in branding; suggestions for the sheepman's library-books and periodicals, bales of wool put up under old and new methods; "Sheepman's Wheel of Fortune," and an Australian shearing shed.

The car will make an extensive trip through Eastern Oregon visiting Baker, Enterprise, Arlington, Madras, La Grande, Pendleton, Vale, Condon and Heppner.

Public Dance at Dry Fork.

A public dance will be given at the Dry Fork hall on Friday night of February 23, according to Leonard Carlson of that place. The dance will be given by the Farmers Union and the proceeds will be used in repairing the hall. A good time is assured to all who attend, is the guarantee made by those in charge of the affair. A free lunch will be served at midnight.

PILOT ROCK FUND PLEDGED

Six Hundred Dollars Provided for Upkeep of Pendleton Road.

Good roads enthusiasts of Pilot Rock and vicinity have been "on the job" in lively fashion recently and have already raised $600 to be used in keeping the Pilot Rock-Pendleton road in condition during the coming year, according to the Pilot Rock Record.

More than $200 was raised in Pilot Rock in a short time, says this authority, and when it became evident that the good roads spirit was at a high tide it was decided to meet with the County Court and procure a promise of aid for the Pendleton road. A large number of the prominent citizens met with the court and agreed to keep the road in repair for one year provided the county would have the road graded immediately. The court accepted the proposition and will have the grading started at once. The delegation was then divided into committees and solicited aid from Pendleton business firms who are interested in having a good road leading from Pilot Rock to the county seat.—Oregonian.

The Death of John Barleycorn.
John Barleycorn, poor John, alas,
Lies buried deep beneath the grass,
While all his friends are dressed in black,
And praying that he might come back.
But John lies cold beneath the sod,
Where years with freedom he has trod.
And 'twas his freedom, I am told,
And wicked life, so brazen bold,
That ended quick his long career,
By those who hate the smell of beer.
And had he been content to stay,
Dressed in the good old-fashioned way,
With plain and healthful flowing gown,
And been as peaceable in town,
His life no doubt would have been spared;
For truly no one would have cared,
To lend a hand to end a life,
That seldom courted hate and strife.
But as the well known story goes,
His dearest friends were turned to foes.

John Barleycorn was seldom bad
In days of yore when but a lad.
But as he grew in strength and fame,
He soon disgraced his goodly name.
With all his work he did not tire;
He filled the Indian's brain with fire.
By his own hand he sowed the seed,
Which led them forth to bloody deeds.
There was no limit to his tricks,
In private life or politics.
He thrust his hand into your pocket;
He put new laws upon the docket.
He loved to live among the poor,
And drag the wolf unto the door.
When children wept for want of bread,
He laughed with mirthful glee, 'tis said.
He turned the captain's heart to stone,
Put lunatics upon the throne.
His banner in our face he hurled,
And mothers made of tiny girls.
The whole world seemed to toot the horn,
And bow before John Barleycorn.
Old Oregon fair, that grand old state,
Could see approaching near, her fate,
And with a blow that brought surprise,
She struck John square between the eyes.
The blow though coming somewhat late,
Will sure forever seal his fate.
And now that John has met his doom,
I write these lines upon his tomb,
That all the world while passing by,
Might know the tricks of rum and rye.
John Barleycorn is buried here;
No more of whiskey rum or beer.
His life was one long hellish reign,
Where Sages great were made insane.
Where girls went wrong by his own hand,
And terror reigned throughout the land.
He heeded not the mother's sobs,
But with his bloody hand he robs,
The mother of her only son.
But listen, that's not all he done.
He courted envy, hate and strife,
And tore the husband from the wife.
He stripped the weaklings as they trod,
Along the path that leads to God.
He took his toll from plane and dell,
And sent ten million souls to hell.
This green-eyed monster of the day,
Has come at last, his debts to pay.
And here he lies, Old Oregon's thorn,
The son of Hell, John Barleycorn.

SIX EASTERN FIRMS SEEK RABBIT FUR

Factories Want All Skins Obtainable at Five Cents Each.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Feb. 17.—Oregon jackrabbit furs have been accepted as satisfactory for making hatters' felt by six large Eastern manufacturers. Another Eastern firm has placed a test order for 1000 skins with R. A. Ward, United States Assistant Biologist, who has sent several sample bales to Eastern hat firms.

Mr. Ward, who is conducting an anti-jackrabbit campaign in Klamath county in co-operation with the county agent, reports a standing order for all skins that can be furnished at 5 cents apiece. The fur is satisfactorily taking the place of former Australian and Belgian importations that have been interrupted by the European conflict.

EARLY SPRAYING FOR PEACH LEAF CURL

Failure May Result From Delay of Control Measures Till Next Month.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Feb. 21.—All Oregon peach growers should complete spraying for peach leaf curl before the end of February, says H. P. Bars, plant pathologist of the O. A. C. Experiment Station.

"To delay the spraying till the buds are coming out may result in failure," said he. "Failure is due as a general thing to applying the spray too late or without the necessary thoroughness. All the buds must be covered completely, and the tips of every twig reached in order to get perfect control. Look over the trees as the spray dries and see whether you are succeeding in doing this as well as you supposed."

The best material is Bordeaux mixture 6-6-50, but lime-sulphur 1-8 is good, and besides will keep down San Jose scale.

Growers are invited to write to the College for spray-making directions.

Jack M. Wehrli and Helen Shannon Are Married in Church.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Catherine's church in this city Wednesday morning at six o'clock when Miss Cora Helen Shannon became the wife of Jack M. Wehrli. Father Wand spoke the words which united these young people for life and the ring ceremony was used. During the service Miss Marie Summers and E. J. Klink sang "Ave Marie" and the latter sang "I Love You Truly." Miss Summers played the wedding march. The bride was beautiful in an old gold traveling suit with hat and shoes to match and carried a bouquet of Killarney roses, and the bridegroom was dressed in the conventional black. Miss Gertrude Shannon and Lee Shannon, sister and brother of the bride, attended the bride and bridegroom. Miss Shannon was dressed in a plum-color suit. The wedding breakfast for the immediate family was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shannon after which Mr. and Mrs. Wehrli departed to visit Portland, Ashland and California, before starting their home life on their farm a few miles east of Condon.

Mrs. Wehrli is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Shannon and Mr. Wehrli is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wehrli. Both are pioneer families of this county and highly respected. The newly married couple have many friends in the county and the felicitations on this happy event are many and sincere.—Condon Globe.

Creston Maddock, son of E. C. Maddock of Arlington, has arrived in the city from Eugene to take a position with the Palace hotel. Mr. Maddock has been attending the University of Oregon the past three years, where he was a popular student. He was manager of the Oregona this year. The Oregona is the annual book published by the student body.
