THE "EAGLE'S WINGS" BLUEBIRD FEATURE IS TREMENDOUS PHOTO

"Eagle's Wings" which comes to the Star theatre on March 17th for one day only, is a tremendous photographic production. It is a "Bluebird Extraordinary" not on the regular Bluebird program.

Primarily, the object of "Eagle's Wings" is to inspire patriotism. It teaches the story of love of country. "America for Americans" and those patriotic sentiments which should be indelibly engraved upon the hearts of all true Americans. This great patriotic play has created a sensation wherever it has been shown.

Manager Sparks has arranged for an afternoon show on the day that "Eagle's Wings" will be shown at the Star theatre and all school children should see this remarkable film.

LOUISE LOVELY'S POPULARITY

Followers of Bluebird Photoplays will be delighted with the announcement that beautiful and talented Louise Lovely, the most consistent star on the Bluebird program, will again be the attraction at the Star theatre on Saturday, March 10, in "Bobbie of the Ballet," a five-reel episode based largely on theatrical life and its vicissitudes.

The rapid rise to tremendous popularity of this talented Australian girl has been one of the marvels of the present year. She was well known as a dramatic artist in Kangaroo land, but had never appeared on the screen until she came to America, around last Christmas, and applied to Joseph De Grasse for work as an "extra" in his Bluebird company.

Struck by her charm and beauty Mr. De Grasse found a place for her in a minor part in "The Grip of Jealousy," then being in process of making. Before her first week had ended Miss Lovely was acting the leading role and blossomed forth as a star of the sixth feature presented in the popular Bluebird series.

Since that time she has been a Bluebird star at fixed intervals of every five weeks, having been as the star in "Tangled Hearts" and in "The Gilded Spider." Now, as the star of "Bobbie of the Ballet," she will be seen in a role that is better suited to her peculiar gifts of physical charm and dramatic talent than has been supplied by any photoplay Bluebird has thus far provided her with. There is an intense element of human interest in the story, with cross current of varying themes and counter plots to make the narrative effective of gripping entertainment. In Miss Lovely's support will be the equally beautiful Gretchen Lederer, the talented character actor, Lon Chaney and the versatile Jay Belasco who plays the lead. "Bobbie of the Ballet" is sure to maintain the standard of excellence that has brought Bluebirds into such pronounced popularity with screen "fans."

Arlington. Her many friends will have an opportunity to greet her at this time.

PENDLETON PEOPLE IN- VEST IN SHIPBUILDING

Many Pendleton people with money to invest are taking a great interest in the profits from ship building. During the last week they have been studying the proposition and several already are reported to have put money into enterprises in Portland and Puget Sound cities.

Shipbuilding on the Columbia river is just coming into its own. It is asserted that tremendous profits are being realized. Oregon is declared to be a logical point for ship building for it has an enormous quantity of timber which can be sent easily to Portland. At present, the yards at Portland are said to be crowded with orders. If the companies there could handle any more they would be forthcoming for European countries are building frantically.

The close of the war it is said will not stop the building operations for the demand will be greater after the war. Immense numbers of ships will be required to carry foodstuffs, lumber and other materials to the war-stricken countries. At the rate which ships are being sunk, it will require many years of building before the world has again obtained its normal number of vessels.—Tribune
