MAY ROBSON NOW APPEARS ON SCREEN

Famous Actress Gives Exceptional Portrayal in Vitagraph Feature, "A Night Out."

May Robson, one of the most popular actresses that ever appeared on Broadway, is the latest to enter the field of motion pictures. She appears in a Vitagraph production—one splendid suitable for her appealing and graceful art of character portrayal. In "A Night Out," written in collaboration by Charles T. Dazey and herself and produced by George D. Baker, she exhibits a girlish freshness that is a graphic lesson to those women who grow old before their time.

Miss Robson is cast as a grandmother who has been held in restraint all her life and whose girlish impulses are still checked by an austere daughter. Her grandsons find in her a real companion and champion in defense of their boyish pranks.

The boys love the daughters of a neighbor, who offers a ring to the first couple married. Waldo, the son of Jonas Deacon, president of the Purity League, steals the ring. The proprietor of a cafe is forced to pay graft to Deacon and his failure to "come across" leads to a raid by the police on the very night that grandmother and the two boys sneak out for an evening of enjoyment.

In the confusion of the raid, grandmother drops her purse, but manages to escape and reach her home without having her daughter learn of her escapade. The purse identifies the old lady, however, and when the police call to investigate the cabaret dancer to whom Waldo has given the ring exhibits that piece of jewelry and Waldo confesses saving the two boys from the charge against them. The daughter's love affair turns out disastrously and she begs to come into the kindly influence of grandmother.

Miss Robson in her portrayal of grandmother is forced to tango, to climb to the second story of a house and enter the window and do many other youthful feats that belie her approaching years. In other hands the part would have been burlesqued, but so finished is Miss Robson's acting that she makes the grandmother a pleasing lovable old lady, with whom the audience will find itself thoroughly in sympathy.

An unusual cast of Vitagraphers assist Miss Robson. Among these are Hughey Mack, Kate Price, George Cooper, Arthur Cozine, Belle Bruce, Ethel Cooran, Flora Finch and William Shea. The comedy is released as a Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature in five parts.

Industrial Preparedness.

When most of us mention "Industrial Preparedness" we imagine we have said a chairful and sit down. Certainly it is a resounding expression, and there are many thousands among America's millions who have scant ideas of just what it's all about. For the purpose of illustrating in clearest details just what "Industrial Preparedness" really signifies, the exploiters of Bluebird Photoplays have prepared a photodrama under the title of "The Eagle's Wings," to be exhibited at the Star Theatre, on Saturday, March 17th.

Trust the moving picture magnate to keep abreast of the times; and trust the millions of "movie fans" to look to the screen for enlightenment on obscure subjects. "The Eagle's Wings" will be a non-political, strictly patriotic, rally-appeal to every man, woman or child who shall gaze upon it. Rufus Steele round-the-flag production of unstinted formerly Sunday Editor of the San Francisco Call, and a prominent magazine contributor, prepared the story, and supervised the production.

With a squad of expert cameramen, Mr. Steele by consent of the authorities, entered Government preserves and plants, now employed in producing munitions on European orders and secured authentic pictures of practically every move that is made in turning out projectiles, making cannons, and manufacturing field equipments for every branch of the militant service. And it is an illuminating fact that most of these pictures were secured in factories that were originally operated in peaceful pursuits.

The Naval Consulting Board of the United States, of which Thomas A. Edison is chairman is now distributing through State organizations, blanks upon which data is being based to show just what Uncle Sam may expect from the mills and factories, shops and foundries of the Union in the line of operation should necessity at any time demand quick and concerted action. It is believed that "The Eagle's Wings" will facilitate response.

Certainly showing the industrial resources of America, in authentic moving pictures will be immensely interesting and the illuminating facts will hold attention, beyond the effectiveness of the average picture-story shown upon the screen.

"The Eagle's Wings" is a regular "movie" with a gripping plot, full of sustained interest in the outcome of an exceptionally good love story. Thus will the appeal be made general and engaging—for your "picture fan" likes his pictures served to him in story form, whenever it is possible to do so—whirling spindles and leaping lathes are all right when they are incident to "heart interest" and visions of thrilling exploits.

Boardman

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Doering are enjoying their new car which they purchased last week.

Paul Jones of Hermiston is busy on the project helping the new farmers with their water system.

Jack Gorham is having his house put up and a new foundation placed under it. Warner and Blayden are doing the work.

Last Thursday evening the citizens of Boardman met in the town hall and organized a commercial club. Mr. Paine was chosen chairman of the meeting and the officers elected were Mr. Clanahan, president, C. Voyne, vice-president, and C. C. Paine, secretary.

Last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Calvert of Messner entertained at cards. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ballenger, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Paine, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Mack, Miss Clare Voyne and Mr. P. Greenwood. Everyone had a fine time and regret the loss of the Calverts from our town.

Another successful dance was held last Tuesday night. About fifty were present and music was furnished by different members of the crowd. We especially thank Mrs. C. Voyne, who sat faithfully at the piano during the evening. Lunch was served by Ballenger, Voyne, Mack and Paine, the men preparing and serving the coffee, cookies, pickles and sandwiches.

Harry Groshen, Heppner's coming wrestler, went to Ione last Friday where he was one of the headliners in a smoker. He met Howard Rolph of the Egg City in a fast match and Rolph was the victor, getting three straight falls. Hary is of the opinion that Rolph and Bauman of Lexington would make a good match, as they seem to him to be about a stand-off in mat science.

Herman Nielson was down from his farm near Hardman on Saturday. He was making final settlement in the Margaret Harrison estate. Mr. Nielson reports a good deal of snow still covering the ground in his locality and he feels that it would be better at this time to get rain which would put the ground in shape for the Spring work to begin.
