Safety First For Investors.
A conservative policy would prompt all buyers of securities to invest at least a portion of their capital in sound bonds. Many investors have a preference exclusively for stocks because the latter may render a higher yield or may fluctuate more widely, thus offering larger chances for speculative profit. Dividend paying shares of the seasoned sort are not to be belittled, and they will perhaps always form the major portion of the average investor's purchases. There is reasonable safety in them. But firmer "cornerstones of fortune" are found in the better class bonds. These are not necessarily gilt edged, but they are well secured. In times of prosperity the issuing corporations have no difficulty in meeting interest charges. In times of depression dividends on stocks may be suspended, but the enterprise must pay interest on its bonds or submit to foreclosure. And in such event the bondholder rarely suffers loss. Their high degree of stability and safety commends good bonds as an indispensable part of any well established estate.—Leslie's Weekly.

Save Your Eyesight.
"A great many men who are well enough informed on other topics do not know the first principles of how to conserve their eyesight." Dr. Eugene L. Fisk is quoted in World's Work. "They may be conscious of eye strain and yet unconsciously go right on doing many things to increase that strain, things such as these—reading a newspaper on a jiggly street car, working with a light directly behind them or directly in their faces, reading or working in too bright a glare or in a dim or flickering illumination. They do not realize that they might well limit their allowance of moving pictures. They do not know the harm in too brilliant a desk light. They buy worthless patent nostrums for the eye and have a positive dread about adopting glasses. The price they pay for all this is often extremely dear. It ranges from constant physical discomfort to loss of sight."

Lungs of the Whale.
Concerning the breathing apparatus of the whale an eminent naturalist says: "The whale does not communicate with the mouth. A hole is, as it were, bored right through the back of the head. Engineers would do well to copy the action of the valve of the whale's blow hole. A more perfect piece of structure it is impossible to imagine. Day and night, asleep or awake, the whale works his breathing apparatus in such a manner that not a drop of water ever gets down into the lungs. Again, the whale must of necessity stay a much longer period under water than seals. This alone might possibly drown him, inasmuch as the lungs cannot have access to fresh air. We find that this difficulty has been anticipated and obviated by a peculiar reservoir in the venous system, which reservoir is situated at the back of the lungs."

Marked the Snakes.
A member of the house of representatives last session had a habit of marking certain bills on his bill file with a blue pencil, making curious spiral, wiggly lines all over the face of each bill he marked.
"Why do you mark your bill file in that manner?" one day asked the legislator who sat next to him.
"I do that," he answered, "because these bills has a snake in them, and they ain't goin' to wriggle through without my votin' agin them. I know them when I get them by the blue snake marks."—Harrisburg Star-Independent.

Retaliation.
Mrs. Newlywed—"If you hadn't made me dent this cream pitcher by throwing it at you we might give it to Belle and Jack when they get married."
Mr. Newlywed—"Give it to them by all means. Jack introduced us, and Belle gave us the pitcher. It will be retributive justice."—Exchange.

Fearless.
"There goes a man who has faced death in every possible form without a tremor."
"He doesn't look like a man who has led a particularly adventurous life."
"He hasn't, but he goes to the movies every night in the week."—New York World.

Speed of the Dromedary.
The speed of the dromedary has been greatly exaggerated, the Arabs asserting that it is swifter than the horse, but eight or nine miles an hour is the utmost that it is able to perform. This pace, however, it can keep up for hours together.

An Admiring Spectator.
"I never saw a man with a truer eye for measurement or a firmer hand for execution."
"You refer to a sculptor?"
"No; to the butcher who cut a steak for me this morning."—Washington Star.

Riddles.
Solomon, king of Israel, is said to have been fond of riddles. Riddles were in favor with the ancient Egyptians. They were especially used at banquets both by Greeks and Romans.

All Must Help.
A wise man who does not assist with his councils, a rich man with his charity and a poor man with his labor are perfect nuisances in a commonwealth.—Swift.

Never mind about being better than others; try to be better than you yourself were yesterday.

Gets Water From Ditch Creek.

Oscar Minor was up to the head waters of Ditch creek the first of the week to look up the proposition of turning a part of the water of that creek into Willow creek. For this purpose a ditch had been constructed across Ditch creek prairie last season and a dam put in to divert the water. Mr. Minor found the ditch in excellent condition and it required but fifteen minutes work to mend the dam and now the water is coming down Willow creek. While it is not a very large stream, it helps in keeping up the supply of water in Willow creek. Willow creek has been running pretty low at Heppner the past week, owing to the fact that the people above town have been using the waters at a lively rate. As a consequence there has not been sufficient water to supply the street sprinkler and the people of Heppner have been eating dirt at a good rate, and it has gone down well with the excessive heat.

Fire Started By Hot Sun.

Alex Green reports that a first-class fire was started at his home on the north side of Alkali street last Saturday afternoon, by the concentration of the rays of the hot sun through a front window. The curtains were entirely burned and the room under fair way to be badly scorched when the fire was discovered. Mr. Green can account for the fire in no other way than that the sun's rays were so reflected and concentrated on the curtains sufficient to fire them.

Off For Extensive Eastern Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hughes departed Saturday for an extended trip throughout the South and East. They go first to California and will visit a sister of Mr. Hughes at Weed, also making stops at San Francisco and Los Angeles. From there they go on to Temple, Texas, where Mr. Hughes has a brother living and they expect to visit other points in that state also. Before returning home they will visit relatives in Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes expect to be gone for at least two months.

Mill Company Has New Manager.

At the meeting of the stockholders of the Heppner Milling Company held in this city last Tuesday, Mr. E. D. Brown, who has been manager of the company for the past several years, resigned, and E. R. Huston was elected to the position. Mr. Brown, who has been failing in health for the past year and more, is compelled to seek a different climate. He left on Monday for the beach at Tillamook where he will remain for a short while and then expects to go on north into British Columbia. His family will remain at Heppner for the present. Mr. Huston, who has recently retired from farming in Morrow county, will purchase a home in Heppner and this paper is glad to announce that he and his family have decided to become permanent residents here.

Cattle Shipped From Heppner.

Eight cars of prime beef cattle were shipped from the yards on Sunday, destined for Portland markets. Of these, W. B. Ewing had four cars, Thompson and Gentry, one, Bob Carlsner one and Damm Bros., of John Day, two. The Ewing cattle had been fattened at the mountain ranch on Caplinger, and this cleans up what stock he had left in Morrow county.

Off For Lehman Springs.

Peter Linn, of Ione, passed through Heppner on Monday on his way to Lehman Springs to remain for a short time. He has been suffering quite a lot of late with what seems to be rheumatism and hopes to be relieved by bathing in the healing waters at Lehman for a few weeks. He was traveling with Wayne Sperry and George Cochran who will see that Mr. Linn is properly looked after.

Returned From Iowa Visit.

C. M. Schriver, extensive farmer of Ione, was doing business in Heppner on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Schriver recently returned from a visit of several weeks duration at their old home in Iowa where they enjoyed themselves to the full and regretted that they could not stay longer.

Suffers Blood Poisoning.

Leo Gay was in Heppner a few days the first of the week, suffering quite severely from blood poisoning in his arm, caused by pulling a dead hair. Under proper treatment from a physician, Mr. Gay has passed the danger point and his arm is now getting well.

Returns to Morrow County.

Claud Keithley has returned to Morrow county and is visiting at the home of his brother, Oscar Keithley on Eight Mile. Claude has been living in the Payette country in Idaho for a short time past and spent the winter in California.

Mrs. Lenna Brock returned to her home at Beaverton, Ore., on Sunday, after a short visit in Heppner. She was here to look after her residence property and arrange for the building of new walks in front of same.

BUICK DESIGN

BUICK VALVE-IN-HEAD POWER

The rightness of the Buick Valve-in-Head motor and not the enthusiasm of its salesmen has made the Buick conspicuous for leadership.

This new four has a Buick Valve-in Head motor (with electric starter) which develops thirty-five horse power on brake test and is so reliable for rugged service that no eulogy is necessary among "men who know Buick."

Its lines are beautiful. Finish and color are exceptional. Deep, tufted black genuine leather upholstery. Covered floor and running board, with aluminum bindings, give a trimness of appearance that is peculiarly Buick.

Body, hood, fenders and running gear are painted a glossy, long-wearing black; wheels are black with white stripes. Times 31x4 inches.
