"House of Reliable Merchandise"

J. E. Cronan, president of the Bank of Ione, was a visitor in Heppner on Thursday last. Mr. Cronan speaks well of business conditions in the Ione section the past season and is looking forward to another good year as he expects crop conditions to be greatly improved.

W. H. Padberg disposed of fifty head of mules the past week to Bob Sundhenner, representing the Colwell Horse & Mule Co., of Colwell, Idaho. The mules will go to fill an army contract, it is understood, and they were shipped out of Heppner on Saturday night, going direct to St.

Louis. Mr. Padberg states that he made a very satisfactory sale and the animals brought good prices.

Discharged on Account of Sickness.
Robert H. Young arrived in Heppner on Monday evening from Mare Island, Calif., where he has been in training for the past six months as a member of the U. S. Marines. Robert has had just about his share of sickness since entering the service, and was in the hospital a great deal of the time. He seems to have been a victim of the climate there and not able to get used to the cold wind and fog that is experienced every day in the year. He is now greatly improved in health, however, and thinks he will be able to enter another branch of the service at the expiration of his discharge, which will be six months. Before entering the service of Uncle Sam, Robert was employed by the National Biscuit Company at Portland, and he returned to that city this morning to take up his work with this company again. He likes the service of Uncle Sam, especially when the boys are kept busy, and as he has now received his preliminary training he thinks there will be no difficulty in getting into another branch of the military service and being sent to the front in France, something he desires very much to undertake.

THE BEST SHOW THAT IS PLAYING THIS SEASON

The "Freckles" Company Has All Star Cast of Players and Singers. Will Be at Opera House on November 4th.

In assembling the singers and players for revival of the famous song play "Freckles" by Gene Stratton-Porter, an effort was made to obtain a cast of artists fully the equal of the original New York Company. The Broadway Amusement Company believes it met with great success in this, and with much satisfaction now announces the following principals: EARLE ROOME, from the original New York Company, is a young man with a most pleasing personality. In the title role he portrays the brave lad, abounding in good humor, who works his way to success against tremendous odds. He has a tenor voice of high quality and combines musical and dramatic ability to an unusual degree. Among his song numbers written specially for "Freckles" are "The Girl I Had in Mind" and "I Never Knew What Love Could Do." His rendering of "A Little Bit of Heaven," "The Kerry Dancers" and other Irish favorites won him much praise with the New York show.

JUDITH RAEBURN, a popular young Chicago society girl, with youth, beauty, and ability won sudden success three years ago with press and public as prima donna in Whitney's "Isle of Spice" and was later featured in vaudeville as "The Girl with the Golden Voice." Through hard study she developed dramatic ability so rapidly that last year she was given the title role in one of the big dramatic successes of the season. Charles E. Nixon, Publicity Director Chicago Grand Opera Company, writes: "Miss Raeburn is an actress of a distinct and appealing type and a singer whose dramatic soprano tones are thrilling and entrancing." Miss Raeburn as "The Swamp Angel" is repeating her former triumphs.

BEATRICE LAMBERT, late of Margaret Anglin's Company, has had much experience in support of some of America's greatest stars and also played important parts in pictures. In the role of that genial Scotch person, "Mrs. Duncan," she brings to the part a cleverness in interpretation that has not been equalled since the New York production.

HARRY DICKESON, an actor of rare ability, was a member of the original Coast to Coast production of "A Modern Eve" and "The Flirting Princess" and as "Mr. Duncan" renders the Scotch songs that are associated with this part in inimitable manner.

PAT BUTLER comes from the New York production of "Freckles." With a big singing voice, combined with much dramatic power, he gives a most satisfactory rendering of that insistent enemy of "Freckles" known as "Black Jack." He first visited the West in the original production of "Officer 666."

DARRELL H. LYALL, an experienced actor and producer, is now in his third season with the Broadway Amusement Co.'s production. He continues in the part of "The Man of Affairs" and gives to it a dignity and wholesomeness which carries out perfectly Mrs. Porter's idea of the character.

AL SHAW is a musician of much ability, having many original compositions to his credit. He adds much strength to the company from a musical standpoint.

THE SUPPORTING CHARACTERS are in the hands of capable players, and form in all a singing and acting company which the Broadway Amusement Company points to with pride.

THE SCENIC PRODUCTION is by Crosby Gill, of Wallack's Theatre, New York, and is of unusual beauty. Two different views of the wonderful Limberlost, regarding which Mrs. Porter writes so vividly, are depicted, one of which by the use of elaborate scenic and electrical effects, shows the rising of the morning mist in the swamp and the coming of day.

"Freckles" which is a dramatization of the famous novel of the same name, owes its great success as a play to a happy combination of strong dramatic story mingling pathos and humor; a most pleasing musical score introducing many song hits, and a beautiful scenic production visualizing accurately Gene Stratton-Porter's description of the great Limberlost with all its wonder.

Was An Interesting Service.

The union services at the Christian church on Sunday evening were in the nature of memorial of the reformation under Martin Luther and addresses were made by Pastors MacDonald and Noyes, the latter giving an illustrated discourse on the life and times of Luther in connection with stereopticon views. The speakers presented many points touching on the great events in the history of the church growing out of the life and work of Martin Luther as pertaining to Protestantism, and withal the services were very interesting and entertaining.

Church of Christ.

Subject of morning sermon Sunday: "Symmetry of Character." Evening subject: "Five Baptisms of the New Testament."

Lecture on Revelation each Wednesday evening.
