

"BRINGING HOME FATHER."

"Bringing Home Father," the Bluebird announced for display at the Star theatre on Saturday, Nov. 24, deals facetiously with two political subjects constantly agitated—prohibition and woman's suffrage. These issues, however, are used simply as a means to an end, for the comedy drama is intended solely as amusement with no purpose to serve as propaganda. Franklyn Farnum and "Brownie" Vernon will lead a clever company of players through five acts of spirited entertainment, the interest being chiefly directed to the unfolding of an engaging love story with the desired happy consummation. "Bringing Home Father" is another proof set forth by Bluebird that Shakespeare was right—"The Play's the Thing." Selected first for its entertaining value. Bluebird has entrusted the various roles to players best suited to interpret them, and the result is sure to give complete satisfaction to the most exacting "fan."

WARD OF REDMOND PURCHASING JACK RABBIT PELTS

Congressman N. J. Sinnott, whose activities have given the Oregon jack rabbit a national reputation has turned over the order for 500,000 jack rabbit skins, recently received by him from a large eastern hat manufacturer to R. A. Ward of Redmond, Oregon, County Agricultural Agent for Deschutes and Crook counties. Mr. Ward has been in conference with Rep. Sinnott about the matter. Those desiring information as to how to prepare the skins, etc., should write to R. A. Ward at Redmond, Oregon.

BRIEF NEWS NOTES OF OREGON AND O. A. C.

County Agents Meet—Farmers Week and Short Course—Pruning School Will Answer Big Questions.

Corvallis, Ore., Nov. 20.—Agricultural agents of Baker, Walla, Benton, Washington, Marion, Clackamas and Douglas met last Friday and Saturday with State Leader Paul V. Maris at the Agricultural College to perfect the working program for the coming year. After the projects for each county had been determined the Experiment Station and Extension Service specialists outlined the assistance that can be provided from O. A. C. Agents of the various counties in order of foregoing list are Henry E. Tweed, Mac Hoke, Geo. W. Kable, N. C. Jamison, F. R. Brown, R. J. Werner and J. C. Hurd. All were appointed under the war emergency provision of the Federal laws to speed up agricultural production to help win the war for democracy.

Because more Oregon farmers than ever before are making money, especially in scientific and organized farming, Farmers week and Winter short course at O. A. C. are expected to attract much the biggest attendance in their history. Farmers and Home-Makers Week will be held Dec. 31 to Jan. 5, and the short course Jan. 7 to Feb. 2. Fully a score of state and local associations will hold conventions at the College during this time.

How to put run-down orchards on their feet, spur prune the trees, control apple scab and codling moth, keep the trees in bearing a long time, and clean up and trim up commercial and family orchards, will be answered at the Pruning School to be held at O. A. C. Dec. 10 to 15. Orchard men attending are asked to bring their old clothes for they will spend every afternoon pruning under expert direction either apple, pear, prune, cherry or walnut trees, as they prefer. Foremen will be devoted to lectures on the principles of pruning, spraying and cultivation.

SOLDIERS TO BE DEFENDED AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

Through an arrangement between the medical division of the army and the Oregon Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, soldiers from Oregon will be defended against tuberculosis with the same spirit as that which sends them out to defend their country against the Huns. The names and addresses of applicants for enlistment who are rejected because of tuberculosis will be furnished to the Association by the medical division of the army. Those who contract the disease in the cantonments or trenches and are sent back home will likewise be made known to the association.

The representatives of the association in turn agree to see that every soldier has proper care. If he can go to the state or other sanatorium for care, that will be considered the ideal arrangement. If he must remain at home, arrangements will be made to prevent the spread of the disease and to see that he has proper environment and food. When necessary supplies will be furnished.

The work is to be undertaken to prevent in Oregon anything approaching the scourge of tuberculosis which has made it necessary to return 200,000 French soldiers from the trenches. The work with its extensive duties, will be undertaken by the association, working in conjunction with the state health officer, in addition to its regular work.

About twice as much of a budget will be required next year as this. In other words, the Red Cross Christmas seal campaign, which begins all over Oregon December 1, must produce $10,000 this year as compared with the $5000 sought last year.

A. L. Mills, President of the association and of the First National Bank of Portland, has no fear of the campaign's success. "The amount of $10,000 for all of Oregon is very small," he said, "both compared with the State's willingness to give toward so practical a patriotic service and the amount of work that will be done. The entire additional amount for the care of soldiers will be expended without overhead expense of any kind."

"Another element that always aids the appeal for the cheery Red Cross Christmas Seal is the fact that those who have but a penny or a nickel to invest are helping the cause just as those who have dollars. The high prices caused by war haven't hit the seals; they still sell for a penny each."

With the money provided from the sale of seals last year, tuberculosis surveys of great value in controlling the disease have been made in Lane, Multnomah, Baker, Washington, Jackson, Umatilla, Clackamas, Marion, Union, Clatsop, Josephine counties, and partial surveys have been made in Grant and Walla counties. Trained nurses have made systematic visits to homes where the disease was found. Instruction in care of the afflicted and in hygiene has been given. Milk and eggs, necessary to strengthen patients who have tuberculosis have been provided where they have lacked the financial ability to buy for themselves. Work has been systematically done through the schools and the state has been covered in a multitude of ways.

GOVERNMENT FREE SEEDS ARE SCARCER THIS YEAR

Congressman N. J. Sinnott has written The Gazette-Times that he has been informed by the Bureau of Plant Industry at Washington that the allotment of vegetable and flower seeds made to each member of the House of Representatives for distribution in his district will be 5,000 packages fewer this year than it was last year. For this reason he is even more anxious than usual to get the seeds allowed him into the hands of those who can use them to the best advantage and desire to receive the same. The congressman believes that the method tried last year of making the distribution through co-operation with the papers in his district is the most successful in bringing about this result.

Therefore, when the seeds are ready for distribution, which will not be probably until January or later, a supply will be sent to this paper. At that time a package may be obtained as long as they last, either by calling at our office or requesting a package by mail. Congressman Sinnott will also retain a small part of his allotment at his office—242 House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., in order that any of his constituents finding it inconvenient to get the seeds in the above manner may obtain a package by writing directly to him at Washington.

Wm. Dunn, for many years conductor on the Heppner branch, and now engaged in business in Pendleton, was a visitor in Heppner on Sunday, coming over with a delegation of the Pendleton Hibernians who paid a fraternal visit to the order here. Mr. Dunn expects his son Harold home from the East this week.

Frank Engelman and Carl Yount, business men of Ione, were in Heppner for a short time Monday.

S. L. Beck, Ione well driller, was in Heppner Monday, accompanied by his family.

CHANDLER SIX

Choose the Chandler Because It Offers So Much More

BY people who are familiar with motor car values the Chandler is most commonly compared with high-priced cars, because, in so many essential features of design, construction and equipment, it checks so closely with the high-priced cars. And because so few, if any, of these distinctively high-grade features are found in other cars selling for less than $2000.

Yet the Chandler price is only $1595.

The intelligent automobile purchaser is not misled by further threatened price advances of cars striving to maintain some degree of a leadership that has passed.

There have been some necessary price advances within the year. And some unnecessary ones.

If you choose carefully from among well-known medium-priced cars you will choose the Chandler, because of its extraordinary value.
