WEEKLY WAR NEWS DIGEST

War-time Demand for Cotton Is Enormous.

Recent investigations in the use of cotton in war show:

A 12-inch gun disposes of a half bale of cotton with every shot fired; a machine gun in operation will use up a bale in three minutes; in a naval battle like the one off Jutland over 5000 pounds a minute are consumed by each active warship; more than 20,000 bales a year are needed to provide absorbent cotton for the wounds of the injured; one change of apparel for all the troops engaged in the war represents more than a million bales.

Even Food Administration Men Can't Get Their Sugar.

Members of the Food Administration at Washington, D. C., now have an added personal reason for urging conservation of sugar.

A recent canvass of retail stores of the city showed that of 22 stores 15 had no sugar. Three had only a small supply of cube sugar in packages. Every store had less than 100 lbs. and none had prospect of an immediate supply. Of three wholesalers and one jobber, two had no sugar. One had a three-day supply.

Germans Held in the United States Number Nearly 2,800.

Two classes of German prisoners are now detained in this country. One is comprised of sailors taken into custody when the United States entered the war; the other consists of "alien enemies," civilians who have been arrested and are now being held under governmental regulations for various reasons.

Each Infantryman Gets 62 Ounces of Brass in His Ordnance Equipment.

Included in the equipment furnished each infantryman by the Ordnance Bureau of the War Department are 62.7 ounces of brass. This is exclusive of the uniform equipment provided by the Quartermaster Corps.

Percentage of Sick at Army Camps Less Than 2 Per Cent.

Returning from inspection trips to 10 Army and aviation camps, Col. Weston P. Chamberlain, of the Surgeon General's Office, reports that the per cent of sick ranges from below 1 per cent to slightly below 2 per cent. Among the conditions leading to treatment in hospital are severe colds, tonsillitis, slight injuries, and other comparatively slight ailments. About the only serious disease found at any camp was pneumonia.

American Engineers Install Entire Railways in French War Theatre.

The Corps of Engineers of the American Army since April has not only been supplying the Engineer equipment for more than 1,000,000 men, but the members of the railway section have undertaken to transport and install and put in operation overseas a complete railway equipment.

In the United States Armies, November 7, there were 7,815,000 men, in the navy 271,571. Of the total of 2,087,391, approximately 1,400,000 voluntarily enlisted.

Furloughs for Yuletide week will be granted all men at Army cantonments whose absence can be permitted in the opinions of the division commanders, to enable them to spend Christmas at their homes.

Since the war insurance plan became operative in October more than 45,000 soldiers have applied for insurance, amounting in all to nearly half a billion dollars and averaging about $8,000 a man.

The 1917 potato crop is estimated to consist of 453,000,000 bushels, or half again as much as last year. Reports from the commission on car service indicate that more than 750,000 cars will be needed to handle it.

The Illinois College of Agriculture, Urbana, Ill., has published a pamphlet giving recipes for making various kinds of war bread, most of which require no wheat flour. The list includes several varieties of corn bread, barley bread, rye bread, oatmeal bread, etc.

Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, estimates the losses up to June 1 of the British expeditionary forces in deaths in action from wounds at 7 per cent of the total of all men sent to France since the beginning of the war. He adds that the ratio of losses of this character today because of improved tactics and swiftly mounting allied superiority in artillery, is less than 7 to every 100 men.

AMERICAN MOLESKINS SUPERIOR TO FOREIGN PELTS

American moleskins, particularly those from the Pacific Northwest, are superior to the moleskins of Europe which largely make up the world supply for industrial uses, according to biologists of the United States Department of Agriculture. It should be profitable, therefore, the biologists declare, to trap these animals for their pelts and so establish a new American fur industry. This is true particularly in the Northwest, where the animals are large and plentiful, and where it is often desirable to keep their numbers down to prevent injury to fields and lawns. Such a new industry should be especially desirable for farmers' boys as a side issue it is pointed out.

Equipment from the Ordnance Department Bureau for 100,000 Infantrymen contains almost 196 tons of brass.

To Our Friends:

The day of Thanksgiving is again at hand. And there's much to be thankful for, regardless of building operations, which have been below par.

During the past year our country has attained a position among the nations which will ultimately be of direct or indirect value to every business.

It is only a question of time when the United States will lead every other nation in world-commerce, finance and power.

The war has placed in our hands the "balance of power" as a guarantor of the permanent peace of the world.

In the thousands of years of world history the present generation is the first to see man's mastery of the heights of the air and the depths of the ocean. Wireless communication has reduced the cost and increased the opportunities of world business to a point our forefathers could only dream of.

To be living in such a country in such times as these is alone sufficient cause for the deepest gratitude.

Let us observe Thanksgiving this year with full hearts and a fitting appreciation of the wonderful advantages we enjoy.

Sincerely yours,
THE TUM-A-LUM LUMBER CO.

The habits of American moles are described and methods of capturing them and treating and marketing their skins are outlined in a Farmers' Bulletin, "Trapping Moles and Utilizing Their Skins," recently issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. The publication also offers suggestions for the tanning of the pelts so that they may be made locally into women's neckpieces, muffs, and coats. Copies of the bulletin may be had free so long as the supply lasts on application to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.
