PUBLICITY FOR SLACKERS.

"Wheatless and Meatless Days in every restaurant, hotel and boarding house in Oregon should no longer be a theory, but a fact."

This is the declaration of Acting Food Administrator W. K. Newell, who intends to see that the light of publicity is turned upon all eating places which do not observe the Hoover rules on meatless Tuesdays and wheatless Wednesdays.

"There is no longer any excuse for not observing the simple requirement of the United States Food Administration," said Mr. Newell. "The public is now familiar with the Hoover rules and its purpose, and is giving its hearty support to the eating places observing the wheatless and meatless days. It is even becoming critical and resentful of places which do not do so. We have received a number of complaints from different parts of the State in regard to restaurants and hotels not making any attempt to observe the wheatless and meatless days. We are now making a list of these unpatriotic places with a view to publishing their names in their own communities. The patriotic spirit of the public can be depended upon to do the rest."

Mr. Newell suggests that in those localities which are distant from the fish market, poultry and cheese dishes be used as a substitute for meat on meatless days. Vegetable luncheons, for which several kinds of vegetables attractively arranged, are served on one plate, and which are now becoming so popular in the first-class hotels and clubs of Portland, are also satisfactory meat substitutes.

Joins Aviation Corps.
Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Irwin of this city that their son Stephen has entered the aviation corps of the United States army service. Young Irwin, who is a graduate of Heppner High School, has been attending school in Cincinnati, Ohio. He says nearly all of his classmates have gone into some branch of the service.

E. C. Maddock, proprietor of the Grande Hotel in Arlington, is spending the week at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. L. Wilkins. Mr. Maddock is now greatly improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Kirk recently returned from Portland where they went to see Mrs. Kirk's father, the late J. R. Simons. They returned home just before Mr. Simons passed away. While below, Mr. Kirk made a trip to his farm near Alsea.

A new subscriber to the Gazette-Times this week is Mrs. W. G. Cullick, who lives southeast of Heppner.
