Mrs. Albert Hahn was in the city this week making final preparations to leave for Seattle, where she will join her husband. Mr. Hahn has been working in a machine shop in that city for the past several weeks. Sterling Stiles of Ione and Lou Holmes of Lexington, both Tum-A-Lum Lumber men in their respective towns, paid Heppner a business visit today and this office acknowledges a pleasant call. Fred Ashbaugh and son Roy were Heppner visitors last Friday from their homes in the Hardman country.

Town and Country.

Walter Kilcup of Jones canyon was transacting business in Heppner on Saturday.

FOR SALE—2-year-old Shorthorn bull. Phone 30 F 21. LEO HICKS, Heppner, Ore.

John Adams, well known Hardman farmer, was transacting business in Heppner last Saturday.

Ray W. Logan, LaGrande real estate man, was transacting business in Heppner this week.

Roy Coxen of Lena has moved to Heppner with his family and they will spend the winter in this city.

Natt Shaw, accompanied by his daughter paid Heppner a visit Saturday, from the Clarks canyon ranch.

Erik Bergstrom and sons Carl and William, and daughter Miss Ellen were callers in Heppner Saturday from their Gooseberry home.

Joe, the nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Logan, of Cecil, passed away at the Heppner Sanatorium last Sunday, following an operation for appendicitis.

Miss Lela Campbell has resigned her position in the Heppner postoffice after a number of years of continuous service. Her position has been taken by Miss Muriel McCarty.

S. E. Notson and J. A. Waters, district attorney and county clerk respectively of this county, returned home Saturday from Portland, where they went earlier in the week on official business.

The city of Heppner is preparing to take care of the drainage problem on Main street by getting property owners to put in culverts. This week contractor Denisse is putting in a concrete culvert in front of the W. P. Scrivner property and the Arthur Smith property adjoining.

C. R. Johnson, Chas. O'Connor and Peter Linn, prominent Ione citizens were Tuesday evening visitors in Heppner.

R. F. Wigglesworth, Butter creek sheepman, was in Heppner the first of the week and reported he had sold 50 Red Cross memberships in his neighborhood during the early hours of the campaign.

E. W. Moyer, Black Horse farmer, was in the city Saturday and paid this office a pleasant call to get in good standing with our paper for another year. Mr. Moyer is pleased with the present crop outlook and says his fall grain is coming up fine.

The second number of the Midland Lyceum Course will appear at the High School auditorium on the evening of December 28. Baldy Strang and Company are the entertainers. Don't fail to hear this wonderful aggregation of musical players.

Chas. O. Connor, Olex farmer, was a Heppner business visitor this week. Mrs. Susan J. Boothby of Lexington has gone to Calico Rock, Arkansas, where she will make her home with her son, Grant Boothby. She has asked to have the Gazette-Times sent to her at her new address.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pearson of Lena were visitors in Heppner this week. Mr. and Mrs. Pearson have been residents of the Lena section for 37 years and are still actively engaged in farm work. Four of their sons are subject to military service under the draft law and they all expect to go before many months.

A new subscriber to the Gazette-Times of this week is Mrs. J. L. Yeager, who has ordered it for her son Ralph, now in the service of Uncle Sam. Ralph was among the first to hear the call of President Wilson and enlisted shortly after the declaration of war. He is now "somewhere on the Atlantic" although his post office address is New York City.

Chas. W. Valentine, prominent farmer of lower Willow creek, was transacting business in Heppner Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ayers returned last Friday from a trip which took them into California. They spent several weeks in the sunny southland and report a most enjoyable trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Padberg of Clarks canyon were visitors in Heppner last Friday. They were accompanied home by Chas. Jayne, who will visit there for a couple of weeks.

WANTED to contract with responsible parties to log, saw and haul to cars, timber in six-south, 26 east. Might advance some money for equipment. D. D. Darling, 652 Belmont St., Portland. 3t.

Mrs. Alfred Anderson and little son of Eight Mile, left last week for her old home in Gentry, Arkansas, where they will spend the winter with Mrs. Anderson's parents. This is Mrs. Anderson's first visit to her old home since coming west several years ago. Alfred was in Heppner a few days after his family left, wishing he had gone with them, as the old bachelor life don't appeal to him like it did a few years ago.

Roy Glasscock of Mt. Vernon sends over his yearly subscription to the Gazette-Times with the added information that so far the winter in the John Day country has been unusually mild. "Grass has a good start and we are sure of early feed in the spring, which means an early spring over here," writes Mr. Glasscock. He says the hay scare has about subsided, as there will likely be more hay than will be used. Mr. Glasscock says the opening of Spring will bring a great development and activity in chrome mining. This ore has already brot thousands of dollars into the Canyon country and many mines have just been put into shape to produce.
