A LINE ABOUT CONSCRIPTION.

Editor's Note: The following lines were composed by Jimmie Dinnen, a Condon boy who was born and spent his early boyhood in Ireland. The ideas herein expressed are supported universally by the Irish born Americans, whose patriotism is on a par with all loyal, native born Americans.

If you will kindly listen for a minute or two,
I'll relate a short lesson about conscription to you.
To be truthful and exact, I must start about last May,
For that was when Congress passed the act, I heard people say.
Each man between the age of twenty one and thirty, just in his youth and bloom,
Was requested to register in his own precinct on the fifth day of June.
Some said it was for the census, while others said 'twas for the war,
And to the best of my opinion, they did not miss it far.
Most of them registered with a heart good and true,
As they thought of their forefathers, who wore the grey and blue.
A few of them were smart enough, their age to deny,
But such men as they, cannot pass their dear old Uncle's eye.
Next came the draft and army to unite
And select out, the men best able to fight.
It was a fair law, we can all plainly see,
To shake up the numbers at Washington D. C.
The poor and rich or whatever they be,
Must all fight together for the flag of the free.
We have here, many aliens from those lands far away
Who should now stand together and protect the U. S. A.
They had to leave their home and their parents as well
To seek a better living where the men of freedom dwell.
Now why should they abandon it and return home again?
Some may claim exemption but for very little reason.
They may have picked up a bride early in the season.
But young men you must remember, if married since the fifth of June
It is only now September and you can't have a dependant family so soon.
Besides you were forwarned by Congress last May,
That there would be no exemptions for those who married after registration day.
One man claimed exemption and when asked what was his claim,
Said he had a widow with two orphans
And could not leave the same.
If you will think a moment and this excuse recall,
You can see his wife became a widow before he died at all.
I know a few old boys that got very badly stung,
They went and registered to make the girls believe them young,
And now afraid of being drafted soon,
Claim to be much older than what they were in June.
This war we know is cruel, on land and on the sea,
And the only way to end it is to conquer Germany.
When the call for examination is sent out to every man,
He should be ready and willing to do whatever he can,
To fight for the Stars and Stripes and for freedom of the seas,
And make the poor old Kaiser get down upon his knees.
"I am going to rule the world," is what he used to say,
But we'll find out, without a doubt, he won't rule America.
We must thank President Wilson for taking such a noble part,
To try and end a cruel war that has broken many a mother's heart.
And when peace is again restored,
Is those lands across the sea,
Those heroes will be then adored,
Who fought for freedom and democracy.

Gave It To The Red Cross.
C. Melville, who resides in Sand Hollow, north of Lexington found one of the overshoes which John Kirk had lost and advertised for in the Gazette-Times. Mr. Melville has sent the shoe to this office with instructions to turn over the fifty cents offered as a reward to the Red Cross.

Thirty Four Years A Reader of the Gazette-Times.
Nels Magnuson, who was in the G.T. office the first of the week to pay for another year's reading of this paper, remarked that he had been reading our paper for nearly thirty five years. In other words, he has been a subscriber to the Gazette-Times since it was established, away back there in 1883. Mr. Magnuson also helped to install the Gazette machinery, after it had been hauled overland by freight teams from Castle Rock, on the Columbia.

Sheepman Takes Big Policy.
John J. Kelley, well known local sheepman, took out a $10,000 life insurance policy during the past week. The policy was purchased through his brother, Jas. F. Kelley, who is agent for the Prudential Life Insurance Co. in New York.

To Our Friends:

WE ARE BUSY THIS week taking stock, but not too busy to stop for a minute to thank you for your liberal patronage during the year which just closed.

The year 1918 will be just what each one of us makes it. Shoulder to shoulder we must stand to sustain our Country during the crisis before it. Such co-operation as people have shown during 1917 will be repeated to a greater degree in 1918.

NEWS OF STATE AND NATION

Work will commence February 4 registering all German aliens in the United States. It is estimated that there are a half million of these unnaturalized alien enemies in the country. Certificate cards will be issued and finger prints will be taken of every registrant. The German women are not included in the registration.

Teuton hatred is blamed for the blowing up of the palatial residence of Dr. Camillo Volini in Chicago early Sunday morning. Dr. Camillo has long taken an active part in the war, being connected with the Italian consulate in Chicago.

New York experienced the coldest day in its history Sunday, when the mercury went to 13 degrees below zero and five people were frozen to death. The coal shortage is adding to the seriousness of the situation.

News reports say that Guatemala City, the capital of the republic of Guatemala, has been completely destroyed by an earthquake. Many people were killed. One hundred and twenty five thousand people are said to be homeless. The American Red Cross has taken up the work of supplying relief.

All dealers, manufacturers, warehouse men, hotels and other institutions having on hand more than $250 worth of foodstuffs were instructed to make a report to the department of agriculture the first of the year, with a comparison of holdings on the same day last year.

Bleakman Is A Candidate For Commissioner.

In another column of the Gazette-Times will be found the announcement of G. A. Bleakman of Hardman, who is a candidate in the republican primaries for the nomination as county commissioner. Mr. Bleakman barely missed the election to this office on a previous occasion and regardless of who his opponents may be, will make a formidable candidate at this time. The south end of Morrow county has a strong claim for representation on the board of county commissioners.

Boardman Boy Will Receive Treatment.

Waino Hango, the ten-year-old son of Chas. Hango, Boardman farmer, will be the first child in Morrow county to receive the benefit of the new law recently passed providing for operations on deformed and defective children at the medical school of the University of Oregon in Portland. The Hango boy suffered from an attack of pneumonia about four years ago, which left his back in a bad condition. It is hoped that an operation at this time will remove the trouble.
