TWAIN'S GREAT WORK TO BE SHOWN HERE

The presentation on the screen at the Star theater next Sunday of "The Prince and the Pauper," the foremost work of America's greatest humorist, Mark Twain, and the first of his beloved tales to be picturized, represents another decisive triumph for the Famous Players Film Company.

In the superb five-part photo adaptation of this celebrated and fascinating romance, Marguerite Clark stars in the dual-title role, in which her remarkable interpretation of the contrasting characters will rank with the few greatest histrionic feats of the screen. Faithfully preserving the delicious satire, the thrilling romance and the beautiful sentiments of Mark Twain's immortal tale, the production delineates with astonishing realism the adventures of the weary little prince who longed to play beggar for a day, and of the ambitious little beggar who yearned to be prince, both of whom, through their remarkable resemblance to each other, suddenly find their heart's desire gratified in a totally unexpected and intensely dramatic manner. After many stirring complications, with shattered illusions, each longs to return to his former and natural abode of existence, a transition which is effected in the further development of the story.

DOROTHY PHILLIPS AT STAR

Dorothy Phillips, increasingly popular star of Bluebird photoplays, comes to the Star theatre on Saturday, January 26, to present Ida May Park's version of Hugh Kahler's gripping story, "The Rescue." Popular stories make popular photoplays, a fact that has so often been proven, and motion picture magnates are using up good novels as fast as they can be found and are adaptable to the screen. "The Rescue" is a work especially fitted to photoplaying. It is a society drama, set in sumptuous drawing room and reception halls, its out-of-door episodes calling for some of the most beautiful houses and grounds in southern California. The radiant sunshine of the West Coast has been caught by the camera as it floods appealing vistas of lawns, flower beds and stately mansions. Dorothy Phillips has been especially suited in the leading role, requirements calling into play her native gifts of personal charm and her talents as an emotional actress. Beautiful women support Miss Phillips—Gretchen Lederer, Gertrude Aster, Molly Malone and Claire Du Bray having been chosen because of their personal charm and attractive screen manners. The ladies in attendance will be especially delighted with the sartorial display, more than a score of handsome gowns being used by Miss Phillips and her pretty associates during the progress of the story. "The Rescue" will provide a rare treat for devotees of the screen.
