

MR. STANFIELD IS HELD COMPETENT

James E. Poole, of Chicago, Says Candidate for U. S. Senate Could Do Valuable Service to Nation and Stockraisers.

That the livestock interests of the United States are without competent representation at Washington was the statement made yesterday by James E. Poole, of Chicago, one of the highest authorities on livestock in this country. In support of this assertion, Mr. Poole gave some interesting facts concerning present conditions.

"These are the very words I used in an address before the National Livestock Convention at Spokane a few days ago and, moreover, I told the prominent men gathered there that it would be particularly fortunate for the livestock interests of the entire Pacific Northwest if R. N. Stanfield, of Oregon, was nominated and elected United States Senator," said Mr. Poole at the Portland Hotel yesterday. "He is a practical livestock man who knows all ends of the business, and in addition is a business man of good judgment. Such a man is badly needed at Washington right now."

Mr. Poole an Authority.
Mr. Poole arrived in Portland yesterday from the Spokane convention and left last night for California where he will remain for a few weeks before returning to his home at Chicago. He is a newspaper man, who for years has been in close touch with all the phases of the livestock industry. He is on the editorial staff of the Breeders' Gazette, handles all the stockyard news for the Chicago Evening Post, the Chicago Evening Journal and the Chicago Examiner and American. He is also part owner of the Shorthorn World of Chicago.

"A man of Mr. Stanfield's experience," explained Mr. Poole, "at Washington would benefit the livestock men of the entire country. As a Senator he would be in position to give executive officials the real facts concerning meat production. A business man will not be regarded as will a Senator who by virtue of his position, commands attention. Mr. Hoover would have been in position to have helped the country to a much greater extent had he been given the advice of a Senator who thoroughly understood the livestock business."

Ignorance Breeds Mistakes.
"Lack of knowledge causes what I term good-intentioned mistakes. Nick Longworth did not know wool shrinks in its preparation. Another Representative thought that cattle died when they had been on a train 25 hours and we had an absurd bill restricting the slaughtering of calves. Around Chicago there were 350,000 dairy calves, good only for veal, because the farmer could not raise them with profit, as they would never make steers. On account of railroad congestion it required two or three days to get these calves to market. Because of the 36-hour law it was necessary to turn the calves out of the cars into feed lots, and they died, 50 per cent of them. Yet we would not have that 36-hour law suspended. This law requires that no animal shall be left in a car longer than 36 hours. In this case there was no one at Washington who knew enough about the livestock business to bring about a suspension of the law, and as a result much food is being wasted.

"The people were told not to eat lamb because a lamb would become a sheep. There was no official who knew that the ranges of the Pacific Northwest were stocked to the limit with breeding ewes and that if the lambs were not marketed the breeding stock must be sacrificed. As a result the lamb market was broken and the feeders of Colorado alone are threatened with a loss of $1,500,000 on their winter-fed lambs.

Feeder Is Heavy Loser.
"Stockmen were advised to produce fat beef and fat hogs. In compliance with this request there was heavy feeding of cattle and 200 and 350-pound hogs were produced. Now the trade wants the bacon hog of 180 pounds and light cattle. As a result the feeder has lost and finds that the product he turned out at the request of the Government has not

LAGRANDE MAN OUT FOR STATE SENATOR

COLON R. EBERHARD.

Colon R. Eberhard, prominent La Grande attorney with the law firm of Cochran and Eberhard, has announced that he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for the office of joint senator for the counties of Union, Umatilla and Morrow, succeeding C. A. Barratt of Athena.

Mr. Eberhard, in announcing his candidacy says it has been a long time since Union county has furnished a man for this office, if she ever has. He has taken a leading part in the affairs of his own town and county and is said to be exceptionally well qualified to represent this district in the state legislative halls.

brought the top price of the market. "There can be but one result. The livestock man is afraid of the Government. Such is the case because the officials do not understand the livestock business. The Government should demand from the packers the class of meat needed for Army and for exportation. Let the civilian eat the rest as long as he is willing to pay the price asked.

"Why should the people not eat lamb and mutton, which is not used in the Army? We were advised to turn our attention to fish and fowl with the result that the sheep business suffered. We must have sheep for the production of mutton and wool, but if the National Government urges the people not to eat lamb or mutton, there can be but one result. The market will be shattered and fewer sheep will be produced. Why not permit the people in civilian life to consume the mutton if they are willing to pay the price asked and stimulate instead of ruining the industry? Let the Government take the cured pork needed for the soldiers, and the civilian population eat the rest.

Protection Is Needed.
"These instances I have cited are only a few of the blunders in the execution of an effort made with the best of intentions. The livestock industry is one of the most important in the United States. With this war in progress it becomes more vital than ever. It must be protected and encouraged instead of being discouraged by impossible and damaging decrees.

"I will repeat my statement made at the Spokane convention that there is not a competent representative of the livestock interests at Washington. If there is such a representative he has not been active. I insist that a man with the knowledge of Mr. Stanfield as United States Senator would, because of his experience as a livestock man, be of invaluable aid to the entire country at this time."
